

JOURNEYS IN EASTERN OREGON

By Robert OSBORN

Pendleton, Ore., Sept. 12.—"Let 'er Buck" is the main "cuss" word in Umatilla county; it also is a term of endearment; you hear it on the street corners, in hotels, in stores and in your sleep; it expresses 100 percent "I should worry"; it is a fighting term, and all in all it sums up the year-round spirit of Oregon's most hustling town—Pendleton, and in two more weeks no less than 75,000 wild and woolly, fast and furious, humans will be shouting with great abandon, Let 'Er Buck!

It's going to be a great show. Don't miss it if you can get around the gas shortage and the rise in r.r. fare. But if you come expecting to sleep, send in your reservations now to the accommodation headquarters for a place to lay your head, or you are out of luck. Even at this early date I had to hunt two days for a place to hang up my hat.

The big arena is about ready for the annual tussle between man and beast. Additional stands have been built and facilities for tourists are being completed. The fence around the arena inside the track has been erected a foot to save the time of carpenters. Action will occur all over the arena this year.

Outlaw horses, calculated to be able to lift riders to record elevations, have been gathered from all over the West. Seventy disciples of sport are now "paraded" on the grounds waiting for their try-outs, which are now in progress. Any day you can see an impromptu bucking contest while the judges sit back and pick out the most twisty sunfishers. Gosh, how them hosses do buck!

Every Indian on the reservation is polishing his supply of elk teeth for the three days of parades. Round-up hats, bigger than ever, are in evidence in numbers and to save myself from being run out of town I invested in a covering about the size of the court house. I don't know where the visitors are going to be placed for the town seems crowded to the limit now. Of course Happy Canyon will be on deck. I understand that the Red Dog Saloon has been painted. Hotel DeBunk is a new edifice on the row.

The prize saddle, much coveted by riders, value $400, is on exhibition at Hamley's, together with the $300 saddle for roping the long horn steer. I visited Hamley's today, which is considered the largest leather retailing store in the Northwest. I went back where a crew was making saddles and who should I see but Saddler Hughes, formerly of Prineville. I met Mrs. Hughes afterwards down town.

I also visited the Pendleton Wool-on Mills, which are running night and day. A big output of blankets, carpets, etc., feature this factory. At the court house I saw where Till Taylor was shot and caught a short glimpse of the five men who must face the penalty for his death, Hart, the confessed slayer of Taylor, will receive the death sentence this week. The others have asked a change of venue, but it may not be granted.

There is no use to describe Pendleton for everyone has been here. A number of fine new buildings have been put up during the past three years, among them a new apartment house and the Elk's Club. Business houses are doing a rushing business and the farmers are all on the last legs of a big harvest. The recent rain has held up the final cutting. Crops are bumper.

My "Journeys" are going to take a decided stretch next week, for I am slated for a trip to Cheyenne, Wyoming, to take part in the Northwestern Tuberculosis Conference, Sept. 20-22. I am scared that I will miss all of the Round-Up, but if we have no wrecks I expect to get back for the last day—in time to see Irving S. Cobb's humorisms for Journal readers. The trip to Wyoming sounds exciting, for that is where wild men originate.

Mike and Pat were playing cards. Pat was about to name the trump, when Mike says, "Pat, you're gonna call it a sphade." "Shure Moike, 'n how did ye know?" "Well, begorra, didn't I see ye split on yer hands?"

There that will do, professor.

OSBORN TO ARRANGE SALE OF CHRISTMAS STAMPS

Promotion to the position of state agent for the sale of Christmas seals has overtaken Robert Osborn, Prineville man, who is conducting a special survey in eastern Oregon for the State Tuberculosis Association and who has been writing weekly accounts of his travels for the Journal.

After October first, Osborn will take a circle over the entire state to set up machinery for the state sale, to help county organizations to plan sales, to organize undeveloped territory, secure local agents and to conduct all arrangements necessary to put Oregon over the top in the sale of the Christmas stamps, which means money with which to fight the "white plague."

Osborn will leave the last part of this week for Cheyenne, Wyoming, where he will be a delegate from Oregon to the Northwestern Tuberculosis Conference. He is on the program for the discussion of case-finding surveys.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

"The Church of Friendly Welcome." Services next Sunday. Bible school at 10 o'clock. There are classes for all. A most cordial invitation is given to any who may desire to make this Sunday school and church their church home during their stay in the city. Divine worship and preaching at eleven o'clock. Preaching by the pastor. The Junior congregation sermon for the morning is "The Calvary Clover". In the evening the congregation will repair to the Methodist House of Worship to extend a hand of welcome to the new Methodist pastor.

The Tennis Club will give a tea in the basement of the church a week from next Saturday. Refreshments will be served. The club is making an effort to clear the indebtedness on their court and equipment. The hearty cooperation is solicited of those interested.

A week from next Sunday night, the 26th, there will be given at the church a stereopticon lecture entitled "Moses the Man Who Laid Foundations". This will probably be the first time a lecture has been given in Prineville with a Touriscope by the use of the film, instead of glass slides. The pictures should be of the highest type as they are the output of Underwood and Underwood of New York City.

Saturday afternoon, the 18th at the Tri-State Terminal Store the ladies of the church will give a food sale. Each lady is urged to prepare something for this sale. This is the first of a series in order to secure funds for a new bell and new lighting fixtures for the church. Let us all plan to give the ladies our hearty support.

Membership in the Tennis Club is still open. Tickets are $1 and $2. The season lasts until school is out in the spring. Get your tickets so that you may attend the meeting of the club early in October. We are happy to announce Miss Florence Cramer as tennis instructor.

Mrs. S. Ellsworth, demonstrator of the Mazola Oil has been in Prineville for some time. She was in the J. E. Stewart store for several days, but is now at the Michel's store, demonstrating the quality of the oil. Mrs. Ellsworth will leave Saturday evening for The Dalles.

Its Canning Time— Don't Delay

This week we have Bartlett Pears, Italian Prunes, Crab Apples, Grapes, Apples, Tomatoes, String Beans, Corn, etc.

Prices this year are not low but you can put up your own fruit and vegetables for very much less than you can buy canned goods from your Grocer.

The season will soon be over on a lot of fruits. It will pay you to do your canning at once.
