PRINEVILLE CATTLE WIN FIRST PRIZES FOURTH RED CROSS ROLL CALL IS PROGRESSING NICELY

Maintaining the usual traditions, Prineville stockmen are capturing many prizes this week at the Pacific International at North Portland, with their purebred cattle.

Awards are being made every day, and the Prineville stuff is coming in for first prizes over very keen opposition, the lists of winners indicate.

Dickson & McDowell, in the Aberdeen Angus class, have taken prizes over Day & Rothrock of Yakima and Spokane, people who have been considered leaders in the west in that breed of stuff.

Dickson & McDowell receive first prize on three-year old bull, Black Enoch; first on bull two years and under with Ensign of Genocroch, also second prizes on both Aberdeen Angus steers and on cross-bred steers.

Alex Hinton received the first prize which carried with it a premium in cash of $125, for the best car of feeder steers of Martin half-bred.

S. S. Stearns & Son received first on the best car of beef cattle, which carried with it a cash premium of $150.

Much valuable publicity is being gained by the Prineville cattle this year, for competition is keen and the Show is attracting more people than ever before.

LEGION TAKES OVER CLUB HALL PROPERTY

RED CROSS GIRLS TO GIVE BALL TO SWELL BUILDING FUND

At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the American Legion, held Tuesday night, it was decided to take over the Club Hall, which had been offered by the Commercial Club for the free use by the Legion.

The Legion will have entire control of the building, the only condition being that all expenses, improvements and upkeep of the building must be met by the post, and all profit which may be made by the Legion out of the building will go towards the fund for a memorial building.

Lloyd Hainline, who is with the state highway department, will be in direct supervision of the building, and all persons who desire to rent, or otherwise have use of the hall, should make arrangements with Mr. Hainline.

The Red Cross Girls, who have had charge of the Red Cross campaign in Prineville the past week, will give a Thanksgiving Ball on Thursday, November 25, all net proceeds to help swell the Legion's building fund. The girls know the advantage of having good music, and will have the best to be had. The buddies of the post are planning to back them up in every possible way.

Crook County Post will do all possible to aid the girls who are putting much time into conducting the 1920 Red Cross Roll Call, which is now under way.

A working detail of ex-service men will report at the Club hall at nine o'clock Sunday morning to help clean up, and put the building in shape for early occupancy by the Legion.

John Dobry has been appointed as athletic manager, and already has his lines out for an interesting program this winter. A football game will be staged Thanksgiving, if possible, and a basket ball team will be organized to meet all comers. Jack plans on staging a series of smokers this winter. There is to be something doing at Legion quarters every week.

SHE KEEPS FAITH WITH YOU—WILL YOU KEEP FAITH WITH HER?

MOVEMENT STARTED TO BUILD BOX FACTORY IN PRINEVILLE

A movement to start a box factory in this city has been launched by G. M. Cornett and associates and every indication points to an early start in this important industry, which is one of a number of important development enterprises that are being contemplated for this community.

The plan so far as those most interested care to announce at this time, provides for the erection of a plant that will have sufficient capacity to care for the output of the local saw mills, and construct the factory in such a manner that it can be elaborated as the demand for finished products require.

Klamath Falls started in this manner with one small box factory, and now has five of them in operation, the entire output being contracted far ahead to manufacturers and fruit growers.

Lakeview is at this time raising a fund for the purchase of a location, which will guarantee the erection of a plant to cost not less than $300,000.00.

The Harris box factory at Milton, Oregon, and the Crommens Brothers factory at the same place are running to capacity on orders for boxes, many of which will not be filled for weeks to come.

It has been the history of these plants that they have been one of the most successful enterprises in a community, and because of the conditions prevailing here, there is no question regarding the success of such an enterprise.

The plan provides for electric power, individual motors for the machines, and a modern plant throughout.

(By M. W. Skipworth)

As the Fourth Roll Call of the American Red Cross progresses it is apparent that the people of Crook county have somewhat lapsed from that generous, sympathetic, and highly patriotic standard which they achieved and maintained throughout the recent war. I am satisfied that their reversion back to their own thoughts and interests in derogation of their duty to the American Red Cross is solely due to a lack of understanding as to what the Red Cross is doing today. I am sure that if I am capable of holding the attention of the people of Crook county for just one minute, and in that minute, of directing their attention to, not only the high ideals and aspirations of the American Red Cross but, to the work which it is actually doing in every-day life, then will they respond with that whole-hearted generous spirit which so signally typifies this country. Many people believe that when, two years ago last Thursday, the last defiant projectile was hurled at humanity and peace settled over the world, that the work and duties of the American Red Cross ceased. I wish to most emphatically call your attention to the fallacy of that belief. That marked the time when one of the greatest works and duties ever faced by any organization or nation was just beginning—the duty and work of caring for all our discharged and disabled service men and their families. You all know at least one ex-service man. Ask him.

Aside from the military relief and after-war-clean-up work which the American Red Cross is doing, it is also carrying on other humanitarian and public service duties along various channels which are of such intrinsic value to thousands of us as individuals, and all of us as a nation, that we cannot properly estimate their value.

However, as I wrote above, I feel that whatever lack of response is apparent, that it is due to lack of understanding, appreciation, and consideration, and I truly hope that by these few words, which have only hit the high spots of my subject, that I have been able to bring you to realize in some measure the tremendous obligation which each one of us owes to the American Red Cross, and just as surely as I have been able to do that, then have I been able to do a small part toward blessing all mankind with a furtherance of the progress of the greatest humanitarian organization in the world—the American Red Cross.

POWELL BUTTE MAN DIES FOLLOWING OPERATION

Henry Hansen, prominent Powell Butte rancher, died in Bend last Friday, following an operation for appendicitis.

Mr. Hansen was fifty years old, and lived alone on his ranch, having no relatives nearer than cousins in St. Louis, and a brother in Germany. He was formerly married, but his wife died after only a few months of married life.

The funeral was held last Sunday at one o'clock, from the Powell Butte Community Hall, under the direction of the Redmond Knights of Pythias lodge, to which Mr. Hansen belonged, the Methodist minister of Redmond preaching the last words.

The funeral was one of the largest ever held in Central Oregon, every neighbor and friend in the Powell Butte community being there to pay their last respects, as well as many other friends from all over the country.
