

CREAMERY DEVELOPMENT IS ASSURED

Reopening of the Ochoco Creamery tomorrow morning will mark the beginning of a new epoch in the history of the development in this part of the state, according to those who have been making a study of the situation during the past weeks.

An agreement was reached by Manager Brown of the Ochoco and Redmond creameries this afternoon, and a committee of local business men, in which any losses that may result from the operation of the local creamery will be absorbed in part by the business men, and the creamery will be kept open without question until the spring arrives, after which there will be enough new cows to insure the success of the institution without question.

The volume of cream here has not been heavy enough to make the business pay as it should, the winter months showing a loss to the operators, while the summer has showed a gain.

With the general trend toward more and better cows, there seems to be little doubt about the fact that a large creamery will result from the action that is now being taken to get a better understanding with the operators and more cows for the territory.

FORESTRY NOTES

Mr. Russell M. Ferguson arrived in Prineville January 10th, and the following day he and Supervisor Harpham made a trip to the Miller ranch on Bear Creek, where a meeting of the Held rabbit club had been called. Mr. Ferguson gave a demonstration as to the proper method of mixing poison in order to get the best results in the rabbit extermination campaign being waged by the club. About thirty ranchers were in attendance and seemed to appreciate the help which Mr. Ferguson rendered in the form of a talk he gave, and also in the actual demonstration in mixing the bait. It is possible that a campaign for the extermination of sage-rats on the Maury mountain range will be waged next summer by the biological survey, the forest service and ranchers cooperating. Nothing definite can be announced, however, at this time.

Ranger Ralph Elder received notice by wire a few days ago that he had been detailed as one of the six men from Oregon and Washington to attend the aviation conference at Mather Field, California, for a four-weeks course beginning January 17. The plan is to make a certain number of forest officers familiar with wireless telegraphy, mapping, etc., that is essential to gaining proper results in the aeroplane fire patrol service. Mr. Elder left for Mather Field on Wednesday evening, January 12.

The road across the mountain between Prineville and Mitchell is being kept in fair shape by the forest service and Wheeler county cooperating. A snow plow is on the ground and when necessary local men are hired to use it and to otherwise keep the road in a passable condition.

James Scott came out from Summit Prairie on January 11 and informs us that there is now about one and a half foot of snow on the level in Summit Prairie proper, and that along the road between the Prairie and Canyon Creek there is about 3 1-2 feet. This sounds like reports of former years and should be good news to those who are to graze stock on National Forest range next season, as well as particularly good news to irrigationists.

Mrs. Willard Wirtz entertained a number of her friends Tuesday night with a bridge party.

HAVE KEEN EYE FOR DANGER

Hunter Asserts That It Is Practically Impossible to Surprise the Mountain Sheep.

"The mountain sheep is one of the most difficult of all our American game to approach in the open," says Charles L. Smith in an article on the "Rocky Mountain Sheep" in Boys' Life. "It has eyes like a telescope for keenness and can discover and make out a man farther away than any other animal of which I have any knowledge, and where any considerable herd have been feeding one will see usually one or more standing on some prominent point where they can get a view of the surrounding country. I know of no more inspiring sight than one of those old rams with his massive horns outlined against the sky, standing as motionless as a statue. And it is a wonder to the hunter how they get across the rock slopes with such ease and grace. There has been much written of the mountain sheep, of its wonderful feats of springing from ledges and lighting upon its head and horns, which is without foundation in fact. While it is true they can stand an immense shock in battle, yet if one of those sheep weighing 200 pounds should drop from a ledge of any considerable height and land on his head his neck would be broken. I spent several years in the sheep country in the Canadian Rockies and was near the sheep or among them during all seasons of the year and they seem to be less sensitive to the rigors of winter and the ever-changing elements of the high altitudes than any other animal except possibly the mountain goat, and of these animals I think they have the advantage, because I have a number of times found mountain goats yarded in the deep snow in places where food was scarce, but I have never yet found mountain sheep in this condition."

For European Children.

Italy and neighboring countries, especially Switzerland, at the end of October held at Milan a conference on child welfare to discuss, more specifically, seaside and country homes for needy children, placement of children in foreign countries; vacation camps; also provision of institutional care in cities; state, local and international organization of child welfare; better training of social workers engaged in child welfare service, and improvement of technique generally. The public welfare department of the city of Milan, which called this conference, is especially concerned over the duplication of efforts, the lack of proper care in the smaller communities and interaction between town and country. One definite aim is that of making international co-operation in this field a means of encouraging closer relationship between the peoples.

Immense Herds of Caribou.

Late arrivals at Vancouver, B. C., from the Yukon report that wandering herds of caribou are appearing in immense numbers on the banks of that river. They declare there are millions of the animals. Two men who tried to get down the river just at the time of the first ice were held up for three hours by a multitude of caribou which were crossing the river below them. How long the migration had been going on when they were stopped they did not know. The stream of animals blackened the water on a space one-half mile wide and continued uninterrupted during the period the men were held up.

Youth.
We should pay as much reverence to youth as we should to age; there are points in which you young folks are altogether our superiors; and I can't help constantly crying out to persons of my own years, when busied about their young people—leave them alone; don't be always meddling with their affairs, which they can manage for themselves; don't be always insisting upon managing their boats, and putting your oars in the water with theirs.—Thackeray

"Is This the Mighty Ocean?"

In his autobiography, James G. Humecker, the critic, says of his first view of the ocean: "When I saw the sea it was as if as a tempestive lecture. I was disappointed because of its wet monotony. I quoted Langford to help me out: 'Is this the mighty ocean?—Is this all? Like the girl in the Stendhal novel, who found love implied, I felt like asking: 'Is that all?'—'Strepitach,' by James Gibbons Huneker.

DEMOUNTABLES PUT ON FORDS.

The Ford Motor Company, Detroit, is now supplying demountable rims as optional equipment for its open car models. This includes a spare rim and tire carrier, and has been standard equipment on Ford enclosed models for some time. The cost is included in the price of the sedan and coupe, but is $25 extra when installed on touring car or runabout.

Popular demand is said to be responsible for the change.

NEW GEAR INCREASES FORD TRUCK SPEED.

A special worm and gear now being manufactured by the Ford Motor Company for the Ford truck increases the speed from five to seven miles an hour without increasing the speed of the motor. The truck comes from the factory equipped with the standard gearing, the recommended speed of which is fifteen miles an hour, and the change to the special gearing is made by the local dealer when the customer desires a more speedy truck.

RUNNING FORDS IN COLD WEATHER

"Ford operators can save themselves considerable trouble during this cold weather if they give proper attention to the Ford clutch," said Mr. Campbell special agent for the Standard Oil Company, in discussing cold weather lubrication yesterday.

"Many Ford operators complain that when the engine is cold it is hard to crank and the car has a tendency to creep forward while cranking.

"To eliminate as much as possible this cause for complaint they should first make sure that the clutch lever is adjusted so that, with the hand brake lever set, the clutch is fully disengaged. As this relieves the clutch spring, it should permit sufficient separation of the driving from the driven discs to allow them to turn freely on each other. This is necessary because the driving discs are connected to the engine crankshaft and the driven discs cannot revolve without turning the rear wheels. But if the lubricating oil used is of too heavy body, the discs will still have a tendency to stick together and make cranking difficult.

"In the Ford power plant the clutch is combined with the engine and lubricated from the supply oil in the crankcase. If the oil in use has a zero cold test it will not congeal or become too heavy at any temperature above zero, and the clutch discs will then separate freely when relieved of the pressure of the clutch spring. This will permit the engine to be cranked with minimum effort. And will check the tendency of the car to creep forward."

Director Reeves Eason, who produced the new Universal serial, "The Moon Riders," which will be shown at the Lyric Theater Friday, was followed by hard luck during practically the whole time the serial was in the course of production. First, Art Acord, who is starred, broke his leg in saving Mildred Moore from a nasty spill, and activities upon the picture were held up for a month and a half. When Acord's leg finally did heal, he sustained another fall, this time injuring his head, holding up
