Athletic Meeting

In a meeting of the Athletic Association, preparation for spring track work was started. A new javelin to be ordered and the old javelin to be repaired. The race track at the fair grounds is being worked into shape to accommodate the athletes.

The hurdles have been hauled down and the course has been sprinkled. At present the weather is too cold to permit the usual practice. However, a number of students are working out every evening just the same.

A captain and manager have been elected for the baseball team. All students going out for these various branches of sports will be excused from the assembly the last period in the day. This is an inducement for some students and stimulates greater interest along athletic lines. It is also much more convenient for the members of the team to practice during the last period, as it gives them more time.

Mr. Medley is still unable to attend his classes. His illness turned out to be the measles. Up to the present time this is the only case reported in town, although if any persons have been exposed to the measles, they are still in danger of getting them. Mr. Medley expects to be back with his classes by the first of next week.

C. C. H. S. Graduates Active

Frederick D. Rice, a member of the class of '16, represented the University of Oregon on the affirmative team in a debate at Eugene with Stanford University. Mr. Rice received his early training in the local high school, where he was active in literary activities, which all prove to be of value to him now.

Not only in literary activities, but also in athletic, Crook County high is sending her representatives. At the seventeenth Annual Columbia University indoor field and track meet, held Saturday, March 19, the freshman class of the U. of O. had as one of its representatives, Wistar Rosenberg, a graduate of the local school in the class of '20. The competitors in this meet were freshmen of the various Oregon colleges and universities, and also a number of high schools of the state. Rosenberg placed fourth in the running broad jump, with Ralph Spearow, also of the U. of O. freshman team, taking first place with a distance of 21 feet four inches. In the pole vault, Spearow again took first, with Rosenberg third, at a height of eleven feet three inches.

Final Result of Debate

In the final debate of the Upper Columbia District, between Bend and The Dalles, held on Friday, March 18, the latter school won at both places. By defeating Redmond, Bend secured the title to debate with The Dalles high school. As all the districts have now determined who their respective champions are, they will now be sent to the semi-finals and finals at Eugene where they will go through the process of elimination until the champions of the state of Oregon has been selected.

Individual Memorial

In memory of his daughters, Ruth Adamson of the class of '17, and Esther Adamson of the class of '20, Mr. D. P. Adamson has planted an elm tree in the northeast corner of the high school yard. He set the tree out himself and also intends to care for it. Such a memorial, instead of losing its attraction as the years go by, becomes more and more charming year after year. It will become more impressive after each year's growth. Each year it will more forcefully remind those who are to come of two students who have graduated from this school. This tree is serving at least two purposes, a memorial and an attraction. Is this not a good example for some others to follow? Cannot the school be presented with a few more? There is still room on the campus for a number of trees.

Domestic Science Class Provided With Practical Demonstration

The class in Domestic Science under Miss Hall was taken to Mr. Gerardo's meat market. Here the class had explained to it the various cuts of the different kinds of meat and also the comparative value of each cut. All the different kinds of meat such as beef, mutton and veal, were used in the demonstration. The object of this demonstration was to familiarize the students with the market conditions and products, to enable them to make their own purchases in an economical and convenient manner.

Two new students have registered in the past week: Opal Olsen of Portland, and Christine Hazelton of Great Falls, Montana.

Hospitality

Hospitality must be for service and not for show, or it pulls down the host. The brave soul rates itself too high to value itself by the splendor of its table and draperies. It gives what it hath, and all it hath, but its own majesty can lend a better grace to our cakes and fair water than belong to city feast.—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

Prussia's Barren Area

The area of barren land yet to be found in Prussia alone is estimated at not less than 3,705,000 acres. Between 1856 and 1918 approximately 1,970,000 acres were brought under cultivation. A further 2,705,000 acres of rich soil is yet to be obtained by drainage.

18,500 cattle. It will therefore be seen, that there is considerable of an excess this season, although not so great as last year, when applications were received for considerably more than 100,000 head of sheep and for more than 34,000 head of cattle.

Illustrating the "excess-profits" which cattlemen are now receiving, Mr. E. E. Laughlin, of Paulina, has just advised that about March 15 he sold a 5-year-old fat steer, which weighed 1610 pounds, for which he received $100.00.

SUMMARY OF SCHOOL LAWS AS PASSED BY THE LEGISLATURE

As a rule, constructive legislation calls for a larger expenditure of money. Owing to the slump in values for almost all commodities, together with the lowering of wages in many activities, there was a feeling of conservatism in the legislature in regard to passing legislation that would call for large additional expenditures of money on the part of the state, county or school districts. However, much has been accomplished in the way of constructive school legislation, and something has been done to change existing laws so that they will operate better than heretofore.

Senate Bill Number 46, by Ryan, repeals the amendment as given on page 140, section 458 of the 1919 edition of Oregon school laws. High school districts throughout the state will continue to operate under the amendment until the end of this school year. This law, as do all other laws, goes into effect ninety days after adjournment of the legislature. Next year, however, a high school will be reimbursed only for non-resident pupils that may attend that high school.

House Bill Number 50, by Belknap, amends section 243, page 32 of the 1919 edition of Oregon school laws. When this law goes into effect, 90 days after the adjournment of the legislature, districts may consolidate at any time in the year and are not required to wait until the annual meeting as heretofore.

House Bill Number 27, by Powell, amends section 20, page 11 of the 1919 edition of Oregon school laws, by changing the date of the beginning of the teachers' examination from the last Wednesday in June back to the second Wednesday in June. The teachers' examination next June, therefore, will begin on Wednesday, June 8, 1921.

Senate Bill Number 117, by Patterson amends the elementary teachers' training law as found on page 12, section 26 of the 1919 edition of Oregon school laws. The amendment does not go into effect until after January 1, 1923. After that time the Department of Education will not be permitted to grant a certificate to any teacher until she has completed an elementary teachers' training course or its equivalent even though she successfully passes the examination in all the subjects required for such certificate. An elementary teachers' training course will then require 24 weeks of work beyond the high school. The law is further amended so that after the year 1925 a teacher may not be granted a certificate until she has completed 36 weeks of work beyond a standard high school. The amendment raises the 12 weeks now required to 24 weeks in 1923 and to 36 weeks in 1925.

Senate Bill Number 87, by Eddy, amends section 5071, Oregon school laws, which requires the board of directors of any legally organized district, when authorized by a majority vote of the legal voters of the district, to furnish transportation to and from school to all pupils living more than two miles from the school building. This bill authorizes the school board to transport all pupils living more than one mile from the school building. It also provides that where the transportation is by water, all pupils shall be transported.

Senate Bill Number 39, by Moser, so amends the present law that a school board in a district having 20,000 children of school age or above, has authority to establish and maintain as many kindergartens as it may deem necessary. The law, heretofore, has been that the school board could not maintain more than five kindergartens. The law applies only to the city of Portland at present.

Senate Bill Number 93, by Edwards, provides for the auditing of the books of the clerk of each school district, outside of districts of the first class, by the district boundary board. The books are to be audited each year before August first.

Senate Bill Number 89, by Hume, amends the law which provides that directors shall not have any pecuniary interest in the erection of school houses, furnishing supplies, or any services rendered as members of the board, so as to include the teacher, the clerk and the school superintendent. Neither the teacher nor school superintendent can, hereafter, sell school supplies to the school district. During the vacation period a teacher may act as agent for the sale of school supplies in a school district where he is not employed as teacher.

Senate Bill Number 107, by Bell, raises the salary of the superintendent of public instruction from $3,000 to $4,000 a year.

Senate Bill Number 171, by the Committee on Education, authorizes the school board in any school district to employ teachers to be known as home teachers. The home teachers are to work in the homes of the pupils, instructing children and the adults in matters relating to school attendance, hygiene, sanitation, the English language, household duties, the preparation and use of food and clothing, and in the fundamental principals of the American system of government and the rights and duties of citizenship.

Senate Bill Number 200, by Upton, provides that the per capita tax levied by a county cannot be less than the per capita amount of school tax levied in the county for the year 1910. Some of the counties of the state have not levied more than the minimum of $10.00. Others have levied as high as $16.00 per capita. A county levying such a tax in the year 1910 cannot now reduce that per capita tax.

Senate Bill Number 261, by Upton applies only to counties that are working under the County High School Act. It provides that a district, when authorized by a majority Service

THAT'S OUR MOTTO

We Are Responsible!

BUSINESS is a personal matter; you can't get away from it. Somebody has to be responsible for quality. The deciding factor in every deal is: "Who's Responsible?"

WE are responsible for everything we sell you whether it be Cars, Trucks, Tires, Tubes, Accessories, Repair Parts or Repair Work; and the fact that you know we're responsible, and everybody else knows it, too, is the only thing that keeps business good.

But this responsibility would be an awful load—a liability rather than an asset—if we didn't buy our cars, tires, etc., from people we know are as responsible, and who always send us goods that we can stand back of.

That is why we sell you Buicks, Chandlers, Chevrolets and Republic Trucks as well as Racine Tires.
