LONGEVITY ON THE DECREASE

University Professor Thinks It Is, and Gives Some Cogent Reasons Why It Should Be.

Prof. Raymond Pearl of Johns Hopkins, after an exhaustive study of life probability extending through a historical period of two thousand years, arrives at the conclusion that while man's possibilities of life at birth and in earlier stages has been steadily improving, his expectation of life at advanced age has been steadily decreasing. Comparisons ranging from the Romano-Egyptian to the present day offer statistical proof. The theoretical explanation is that in early times, with less provision for the protection of babies and infants, only the more rugged pulled through. Nowadays with increasing care for childhood, the weak are carried into adolescence and adulthood. Where formerly only the fittest or toughest managed to reach the shady slope of life, and were consequently more likely to hang on to ripe old ages, the salvaging of the weaker brings them into the fifties and sixties with less hope of prolonged life. It sounds plausible and may explain the apparent decrease of longevity. Incidentally, his statistics brought out the fact that while women formerly had less expectation of life at all ages, this has been reversed—another blow to the tradition of "the weaker sex." Women now appear to have the greater probability of prolonged life.

THE ELECTION

Whether the credit of the state of Oregon is to be loaned its war veterans is the most important issue to be decided by the voters on Tuesday of next week.

The issue is clean cut and without complications. The measure provides that any man who was in the service during the world war is entitled to a loan of not to exceed $3,000 said loan to be properly secured by lands on which the former service man agrees to make his home.

The moneys, all of them, are to be returned to the state with interest. The added wealth to the state will more than offset the trouble and initial expense incurred, as well as the small cash bonus which a small number of the men may select instead of asking for the loan feature, for no man is entitled to both.

We predict that a time will come when such credit of the state will be extended to any man who will qualify and thus add to the taxable wealth and income of the state.

The least that any of us can do on Tuesday is to be out and vote for the soldier's loan measure, marked 302 X Yes on the ballot.

Head of Great Locomotive Works Has More Than Business Acumen to His Credit

On a hot day last summer an express train between Philadelphia and New York came to a jolting halt, says Nation's Business. The passengers first joked, then grumbled, then grew impatient. A big man, white-haired, but youthful in motion, climbed down from a chaircar and marched up to the engine, which was the center of a ring of passengers.

"What's wrong?" he asked.

In effect, the engineer said that the engine had quit and he didn't know what the several things was the matter with it.

The big man peeled off his coat and waistcoat and rolled up his shirt sleeves. Then he sort of disappeared in the interior of the unwilling engine and the ring of watching passengers grew.

Half an hour later he emerged with a smudged face and grimy hands, and said, "She's all right now," put coat and waistcoat over his arm and walked back to his chair car, wiping his hands on a handful of waste he'd picked up in the cab.

She was all right, and the man who made her all right was Samuel Matthews Vauclain, millionaire president of the Baldwin Locomotive works, and a real boss of their 20,000 workmen.

OCHOCO CREEK SHOULD BE CLEANED OF RUBBISH

Now that the water in the Ochoco is at a low stage, steps should be immediately taken to clean the creek bed of the rubbish which has been accumulating for some time past. At present the little stream is cluttered up with old buggies, planks and other material which are certainly not good to look upon by the newcomer. Let's clean house in this quarter.

OUR PUBLICITY PLAN

Immediately after voting on Tuesday, the Crook County Irrigators plan to start on their first pilgrimage in the very pleasant and important task of putting Crook County on the map.

Details of the plan have been worked out to a considerable extent and the plan should be highly successful from every point of view.

Crook county has a greater diversity of resources than almost any other county in the state, and the plan of general publicity can scarcely be overdone. The Irrigators have a real work to perform, and at the same time a good time is promised everyone.

Gates Long in Use.

As soon as private property arose among people boundary lines became a necessity. fences were built and openings made in the fences. When man developed ingenuity the day of the gate had come—the gate that swung in sockets or on hinges.

Mistake of Scientists.

When the first photograph was demonstrated to the French Academy of Sciences the assembled scientists pronounced it nothing more than a feat of ventriloquism on the part of the operator.

Honors More Than Even.

"I hear you got the worst of it with the little boy next door," I remarked to Harry. "Oh, I didn't get much the worse of it," asserted the little chap. "He licked me, all right, but my dog licked hofe his dog an'—too."

Airplane an Essential Now.

In 50 minutes after the Birmingham office of a Shelby county mine operator had gotten in touch with the mine rescue station at West End, experts at the station had engaged an airplane and with special life-saving apparatus had been landed at the mine, 30 miles distant.

This marks a new field of usefulness for the airplane. Physicians, life-saving experts and mine-rescue apparatus may be carried through the air to the scene of a mine disaster and many lives may be saved by this quick service.

When the airplane has evolved into a medium for the saving of human life, it may indeed be said to have entered the class of the essentially practical.—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Work of Y. W. C. A. Abroad.

Secretaries of the newly organized Y. W. C. A. in Krawok, Poland, were surprised recently to have a membership card of the Cleveland (O.) Young Women's Christian association presented to them by a young girl who was on her way to America. The girl proved to have a sister living in Cleveland who had taken out membership in the International Institute of that city, and then sent the card to the traveler as a guarantee of assistance along the way. Girls as young as twelve and sixteen are passing through the Y. W. C. A. office in Poland on the way to America.

Good Work is Costly.

The remarkable difference in prices of tennis rackets is not so much due to the difference in the cost of the raw materials of which they are made as to the kind and amount of labor on their making, says the American Forestry Magazine of Washington. Best tennis rackets are works of art, and the skill of the worker is reflected in the price as much as in any other article belonging to sport and athletics.
