A petition is out to improve Fisks street, leading from University Park station to Columbia University. This improvement is badly needed. We think the university boys have been quite patient with bad walks. Most of us residents have become used to had walks by degrees, but young men attending school and visitors to the park and school, certainly expect something better than a few rotten plank with one end in mud and water in the winter, and both ends curled up like meat-rind in summer. Let us have a few decent walks in University Park. If we have Fiske street | Luditorium, improved it may set a good example. Let the civic improvement club do its duty and retten walks will cease to be our reproach.
