

UNIVERSITY PARK and PORTSMOUTH

The Local Happenings of These Lively Suburban Points Carefully Compiled Each Week

By a Special Reporter, for the information and Edification of The Review Readers and the General Public.

Mr. Millner of Eugene, Ore., was a visitor at the Park this week. Last Sunday's rain did not keep the crowd away from the meet at Columbia.

Dr. Egerton of Wasco, Ore., was here Monday looking after his property interests.

S. Gibbs and family have moved into Dr. Thornton's new house on Fiske street.

The ladies of the parish are planning to give a whist party shortly after Easter.

A. E. Kelley, of Zanesville, Ohio, is visiting at the Park this week, and expects to locate here.

Mrs. Walstead mourns the loss of a fine cocker spaniel dog, which some one shot during her absence.

John Baldwin, of the Park, left Tuesday night for Astoria, where he will be employed by the Standard Oil Co.

William Druschel, of Canby, Ore., was here Monday. He contemplates building on his lots on Fiske street.

Wallace Tyndall and Jack Moore were knights of the green table last Saturday, but no one would venture their shekels.

J. G. Wilcox and family, from South Portland, have moved into one of Miss Tregallis' houses on Warren street, Portsmouth.

The University choir will render a beautiful programme at the last mass on Easter Sunday. Rosewig mass in G will be rendered.

Mrs. Tucker's home is beginning to be decorated with handsome roses. Whyfarers can hardly resist the temptation to steal the crimson beauties.

M. A. Kenney and family, of Iowa, have recently arrived at Portsmouth, and occupy a residence corner Van Houten and Warren streets.

J. F. Martin is building a fine residence on Davison street. His brother, from Portland, is also building a fine home on the corner of Bowdoin and Hodge streets.

W. P. Baldwin, from East Portland, has purchased property at Portsmouth, and will build a comfortable residence, and remove his family here soon.

"A Foolish Husband with a Sensible Wife," will be the evening topic next Sunday of Rev. John Bentzien at the University Park Baptist church.

Father Phelan's discourse Sunday evening at the Holy Cross church was a very masterly exposition on the Passion. The reverend orator never lets interest in his subject lag.

The Portsmouth boys did not compete in the relay-race last Saturday at Columbia, as some of the best sprinters have left school, and Captain Clarke Moore was slightly indisposed.

Quite a large congregation was present at the opening sermon of the mission now being held in the Holy Cross chapel. The speaker is a very able orator and his discourses are very instructive.

The ladies of the Congregational church here recently organized an aid society. The officers are as follows: president, Mrs. Price; vice president, Mrs. D. O. Webster; secretary, Mrs. Grace Webster; treasurer, Mrs. Browne.

Sunday afternoon was most delightful for a stroll along the log bloom streets of the Park district. The vandalism that some people display in despoiling a whole tree to get a branch from the stately shrub ought to be prohibited by law.

Charles Moore, the crack amateur pitcher of Oregon, will probably be unable to play ball again this year. In a practice game at the university he threw out his arm, severely rupturing the main leader in his forearm. This will be a great loss to the Park team.

H. J. Silray is the recipient of numerous letters from the East, regarding a bakery at the Park, and all because of a recent item in this department to the effect that the Park needed a bakery, and that if the proper man showed up with the collateral he would build a shop and equip it. Is THE REVIEW a good advertising medium you may ask.

The Political Study club met with Mrs. Frank Merrill. The last son for the day was executive department. The topic for study, "Women in Philanthropy." These meetings are very interesting; while the lessons are simple, yet the busy housewife enjoys reviewing the old school books, and the interchanging of ideas among the members will prove very helpful. All are cordially invited to attend these meetings.

The Civic Improvement League met with Mrs. Gilman. Reports of the several committees were heard, and some new work outlined. The League is desirous of accomplishing as much as possible before June and will push the work very earnestly. The poppy seed ordered have been secured and will be sown by the wayside, where it is hoped they will grow and bloom to gladden the heart of the passer-by. The League adjourned to meet with Mrs. F. I. McKenna, April 21.

Water, water, water everywhere now, but what of the summer? It is reported, supposedly by good authority, that, after all they promised, the water board will take no action to relieve the threatened water famine of University Park and Portsmouth. Why does the city of Portland annex the many suburbs when she cannot properly care for and protect them. There is no fire protection, no adequate water supply for the summer months, and we are now told will be no help given this summer. It was hoped the petition with 300 signatures would carry sufficient weight to give needed relief.

Surely, with the increase of population if no better supply is given than that of last year the suffering will be much greater. Already we hear "I'm going to leave this country and find a home where I can have the privileges I am willing to pay for!" We are taxed, yes, highly taxed; now we feel this need of water must be met.

The Civic Improvement League gave a pleasing entertainment at the Artisan Temple, Portsmouth, Friday evening April 14. A large crowd assembled and appreciated every number upon the program. Cecil Browne gave a piano solo; Laurence and Rex Pratt a mandolin duet; Anna and Evelyn Gebott a vocal duet; Miss Alice Price vocal solo; readings by Mrs. Gertrude Gilman and Mrs. Lena Story, one and all were appreciated, but the address by Wynn Johnson of Portland, was the special feature of interest for students of civic improvement. He is an earnest speaker.

He spoke of the good that could be accomplished by the co-operation of all workers along civic lines; of the need of many parks in our large cities; of the great necessity for better play-grounds for the school children. He told what had been accomplished for Boston and said Portland could be made as clean by concerted work. Mr. Johnson spoke to the Junior League telling them of the many ways in which they could aid this work; urged them to avoid throwing papers, fruit peelings or rubbish of any kind on the school grounds, yards or streets. He spoke of the beautiful sweet briar, and urged the children to preserve it. At the close of the program ice cream and cake was served, and a social chat enjoyed. The money cleared will go toward improving the Park.

COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY ITEMS.

Hon. G. Chamberlain, governor of the state, and Mayor Williams of Portland, were enthusiastic witnesses of last Saturday's meet. Both were as jubilant as the most loyal supporter of the different schools when Dan Kelley of Columbia set a new indoor world's record for the broad jump; and Bert Kerrigan of the M. A. A. C. set a new indoor record for the Pacific coast in the high jump, and Smithson of O. A. C. equalled the world's record in the fifty yard dash.

Miss M. Kelley was the most enthusiastic attendant at the meet when her brother Dan made a new record in the broad jump.

The students from St. Mary's Academy attended the meet in a body and journeyed from the city in a trolley, highly decorated in Columbia and S. M. A. C. colors.

The boys spent Saturday evening in a most social way. The few sets of stag dancing were highly appreciated.

The Senior literary society gave a very interesting program at its last meeting, which will be the last before the resuming of classes until after the Easter holidays. The Juniors gave no meeting this week on account of the examinations.

Quite a number of the boys have left to spend the Easter vacation at home.

The game of baseball scheduled with Fort Stevens for Saturday morning, had to be called off on account of the rain.

The band sallied forth to town Saturday morning, and created quite a hit in the novel manner in which it advertised the big meet that was held in the afternoon, but unfortunately, was unable to play at the big meet itself.

The Easter number of the Columbia bid is out and is up to its usual standard of excellence. The half-tone picture of the staff is creating considerable comment, as likewise is the story of I. E. McNamee and "The Race No One Won."

Last week the staff members of the Columbia presented the school with a beautiful photo of this year's able literary contributors. The evening of the presentation was most fittingly commemorated in the University annals.

The half-tone print of the gymnasium in this month's Columbiad, is the work of Tom Monks, the school's aspiring artist, and speaks very well of the artist's ability at perspective. He is engaged at present on a bird's-eye view of the school and its surroundings.

Among the many visitors of the week were Mr. Mangold of Gervais, and Mr. and Mrs. McDermot of Seattle.

Mrs. Wilkinson is spending the Easter holidays with her two sons, John and Eddie.

Holy week has been very quiet about the University.

Some of the smaller boys have gone into the journalistic work. "The Bird of Freedom," and "Tip-top Weekly," are hammered out each week on the typewriter, and retailed for the trouble of taking them away from the editor-in-chief's sanctum.

The Junior baseball team defeated the Junior team of the Hill Military Academy by the score of 15-1. The pitching of the mighty "Skeek" was an enigma to the visitors. Only one hit was made off of Columbia's midget pitcher.

J. LeRoy Wood was suddenly called home on account of his mother's serious illness.

A number of the boys took advantage of the fine weather Sunday and went boating. This is about the only branch of sport that the school does not afford the best opportunities possible, but with the magnificent watercourse at the school's command, it will only be a few years when Columbia's crews will be competing with the best of the Pacific coast.

The second annual Indoor Track and Field Meet held last Saturday was a grand success. The largest and most appreciative gathering ever present at an athletic event held in Portland for some years, witnessed the events which were most interesting and which were pulled off on record time. The large gymnasium was very handsomely decorated with American flags on a purple and white background. Conspicuous were the two large streamers of naval flags that spanned the whole roof space of the monster gym, thereby lending a soft light to the brilliant sun. College colors and the regalia of the athletic clubs blended harmoniously with the scheme of decoration in which Columbia's colors shone out most conspicuously. The vast audience seemed to breathe an air of great expectancy as the various events were pulled off, and as the athletes were straining every muscle to have their respective organizations win, the spectators would forget and yell most lustily for the winner. Especially was this true when Dan Kelley, Columbia's crack athlete, broke the world's record in the broad jump, and set a new one for indoor meets at 22 feet 1-4 inches. Judges and spectators shouted the air of triumph, and the proud young athlete was introduced to the notables present at the meet.

Bert Kerrigan's high jump was a veritable treat, and when he cleared the bar at 5 feet 5-8 inches, pandemonium broke loose, and the governor truthfully said that the world would be looking to Oregon in spite of itself. Another athlete that received the hearty applause of the audience, was Smithson, O. A. C. crack sprinter and, in some prominent athletes' views, the fastest man in the 50 yard dash now on the turf. His time of 5 2-5 equals the world's record for this event. The records will receive the approval of the A. A. U. under whose auspices the meet was held, and Columbia's track is one of the few tracks in the country mathematically exact. There is no possibility of the track being too short or too long.

The meet was most thoroughly appreciated by the representative schools of the state. Nine teams took part in the open events and the relay-races for the grammar schools and the parochial schools of the city were well attended, and created a healthful competition in the youngsters.

O. A. C. last year's winner of the meet, again were the proud victors of this year's banner. This school has one of the best balanced teams in the state, and was represented in full. They won by taking seconds and thirds as no other school had a full team in competition. Every point was a hard fight and it was the survival of the fittest that won out. The running was of superior order, and most interesting was it to watch the contestants fighting for the best places. The 220 yard run was the event of the day, and considerable betting was indulged in by admirers of Kelley and Smithson. Some members of the Park and St. Johns were more enthusiastic about Kelley than the Columbia boys themselves.

In this race were Kelley, Smithson and Williams, three very fast men. Kelley had all the disadvantages of the race, but won out handsomely from Smithson by two feet. Williams took third place, and can no longer be called the fastest 220 yard man in Oregon. Kelley won this race because he is the better man, and not as the Oregonian said, because he knew the track better than Smithson. The latter sprinter has repeatedly been on Columbia's track, and is the last one to offer the futile arguments that an unsportsmanlike editor of one of our daily papers offers whenever Columbia produces a winner. Beautiful gold medals were presented to the winner of each open event, and silver ones to the second men. A very handsome loving cup for the relay race was captured by the high school, and the Agrics took the cup presented to winners of the open relay race. Mayor Williams presented the trophies. Following is the summary of events:

Centennial Notes.

"Hit the Trail" is the slogan for 1905. The Lewis and Clark exposition opens June 1. You can hit the Trail every day until October 15.

Sculptors are hard at work putting the finishing touches on heroic groups and figures which will be placed about the Lewis and Clark exposition grounds.

A spur track is being built on the Government peninsula at the Lewis and Clark exposition to facilitate the unloading of exhibits consigned to the government building.

Heliographic communication will be established between the summit of Mt. Hood and the Lewis and Clark exposition grounds during the Centennial.

A wild west show is announced for the "Trail." For participation in the attraction numerous bands of Indians are being assembled at Lawton, O. T. Geronimo, the famous Apache warrior, will be one of the aggregation.

Work upon the "Trail" at the Lewis and Clark exposition is progressing rapidly. A number of new buildings have been started. Long before the opening of the Centennial, the amusement thoroughfare will invite public inspection.

Utah has decided to erect a building at the Lewis and Clark exposition. The structure will cost $1,500,000 and will occupy a commanding site, just north of the New York building on Lakeview Terrace and overlooking Guild's Lake and the government peninsula.

Many cities in the Pacific Northwest are planning to send the graduating classes of their high schools to the Lewis and Clark exposition. Railroad companies have been requested to make special rates.
