GOOD ADVICE.

IN a recent copy of the American Carpenter and Builder there appeared the following paragraph which contains much that is truth: "Some are born great, some have greatness thrust upon them—others advertise. The merchant who sits down and waits for business to come to him will find himself among the 'left over baggage' when the Empire State express of business success pulls out."

This is a fact. It is an age of advertising. From the cradle to the grave every article for human necessity, comfort and convenience is appropriately placed before the public in a manner to attract and win confidence.

Business is acquired by a business tact. Advertised in a proper and persistent manner and every article of merit receives the attention of the public. And it is up to the shrewd business man in every community to advertise carefully and attractively. The merchant who does not advertise deserves no patronage—because his silence indicates that his goods and his methods will not bear public inspection.

HONESTY.

PORTLAND preachers have been trying to find out if any man can run his business on strictly christian principles and make a success of it. They have been quoting from letters from a few cheerful liars to show that such a thing can be done—but they fail to bring forward a man who has done it.

The truth is that there has never been a business man who didn't lie—or any other sort of a man—except he was an idiot. He may not be an habitual liar; he may not lie to his family or to his warmest acquaintances; but under some certain circumstances every man and woman of us lies.

David said in his haste "All men are liars." David was all right; he knew what was what; and no doubt his "hasty" assertion could be made now just as emphatic if he had been investigating all this time.

The man who tells the truth, the whole truth, and only the truth is deaf, dumb, blind, can't write—and doesn't know how to make motions!

SHOULD HURRY.

IF the council desires to get the tax levy down to the exact notch it should, next Tuesday evening, lift from the table the license ordinance and either kill it or pass it. If it shall be deemed best to grant three licenses at $1000 each, then the levy can be made just that much lower. If, on the other hand, the council shall decide to allow only the one license now agreed upon, the levy will have to be cared for in any event. It is safe to put the expenses at not less than $6000 for the year—and there will be an indebtedness to start with.

It is presumed that some arrangements must be made for a sinking fund to care for outstanding warrants—although these are small—probably not over $5000 or $6000 in all.

Prudence would demand that the question of whether there is to be more than the one saloon should be settled before the levy is made—in order that the levy make as good showing as possible.

FOR SHAME.

MOTHERS of Des Moines, Iowa, are about as small-minded as they make 'em—if dispatches are true. They held a baby show there and when it was learned that a beautiful baby Jewess had secured four-fifths of all the votes cast the indignant mothers raised pandemonium in general, a rough house followed, the women wanted their money back—and a boycott followed. All on account of the fact that the babe was born of Jewish parents!

WILL TRY IT.

AS THE REVIEW prophesied a couple weeks since the effort to close all saloons in Portland on the last day of the week—commonly called Sunday—is to be made by prohibitionists. If that body of people will only make the Sunday closing general—force a general suspension of all business, including street cars and theatres—THE REVIEW will stand with them heart to heart and fist to fist. The one thing we do not believe in is an attack upon any individual line of business. It seems too much like personal legislation.

ENFORCE IT.

THERE is a law upon the statute books of Oregon making the opening of any place of business except hotels, restaurants, drugstores and barbershops a criminal offence. Its enforcement would break many business men—but would swell bank accounts and lessen the number of fellows who desire to "borrow a dollar till payday."

The new Baptist church is a clever bit of work—the shape is old and attractive and the interior nicely adapted for a congregation. It will easily contain over 200 hearers. Although the congregation is small and poor, the building and equipment—together with the organ—is practically paid for at the start.

One of those "Cattarangus" pocket knives sold by Potter & Gould will make an elegant Christmas present for father, brother or sweetheart. More than ninety patterns to select from. Every one fully warranted.

AN ODD IDEA.

Considers The Municipal Saloon The Only Proper Way.

EDITOR OF THE REVIEW: The entire proposition of saloons in St. Johns is revenue for expenses. The powers that be always make that claim. Even our own temperance councilmen give in and say that that is the only way.

I will admit this to be a fact; also admit when a city grants a license it becomes an active partner in the business.

Then let the city reap the full benefit of the profits. It is impossible to legislate against the appetites of men and if there is no saloon, liquor will be obtained elsewhere.

If within the power of the city council of St. Johns, let an ordinance be passed establishing a city dispensary. Sell pure liquor. Add to the first cost enough to pay the monthly salary of the dispenser, license fee of three or four saloons that would otherwise be located here, and a good profit besides. By adopting this plan the man in charge will not use unjust means to relieve the customer of his money as he is paid a salary and does not care if one glass or a dozen shall be sold.

No boxes should be allowed nor women permitted to "trust"—as the one place would be absolutely under the city control. Blind pigs would be out of business.

Here are a few facts: it is talked by some of the councilmen that at least four saloon licenses will be granted. That means $4000 per year license. The rent of each of these will amount to at least $40 per month or $480 per year; the hire of four men to tend them at $60 per month will be $720 for each, or $2880 total. Added to that the interest on the amount invested in stock would amount to about $14000.

These men are in business for the money there is in it. They will have to make a profit over and above the $14000. Let the city establish the dispensary and reap the entire profit instead of the paltry $4000. If this plan were adopted, the council would not have to pass ordinances to grant license—nor would there be the low dives that you find in every city where the saloon is operated. The saloon is an outlaw from the beginning or it would not be necessary for restricting ordinances. It is not necessary to pass these ordinances to prohibit minors or improper characters in our woolen mills, saw mills or factories—because these are conducting a legitimate business.

By taking the revenue away from the individual the evil, to a great measure, is done away with—conceding there are those who'll drink if there is a saloon here or not.

If it is revenue the city wants and must get it is no worse to conduct the whole business than it is to be a partner in it.

To sum up the whole matter if this plan would be adopted the city would double its revenue, would have absolute control of the liquor business, and lessen evil to a great extent.

While if the old-time saloon is allowed and license be granted in St. Johns, the body politic will be corrupted and not only corrupted but the corruption is already apparent.

E. C. HUCKLEBERT.

King Of All Cough Medicines. E. G. Case, a mail carrier of Canton Center, Connecticut, who has been in the United States service for about sixteen years, says: "We have tried many cough medicines for croup, but Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is king of all and one to be relied upon every time. We also find it the best remedy for coughs and colds, giving certain results and leaving no bad after effects." For sale by Jackson's Pharmacy.

Here's A Pointer. Last week the Leader, of Cottage Grove, printed some resolutions of sympathy. They commenced like this: "Whereas God in His infinite wisdom has removed from our midst Brother S. Stidham, an upright and just brother, to know whom was to respect and honor."

Thereupon one of that paper's readers writes a kick and says the resolutions would sound better if the opening paragraph read like this: "Whereas Brother Stidham, a worthy and much esteemed brother among us, has met with a sad accident in which he lost his life."

Get your Xmas presents at the St. Johns Bazar.

An Explanation. There seems to be a misconception regarding the new hotel proposition. The agreement made when the permit to conduct the saloon was granted was that "an investment of between $10000 and $20000 would be made." With a $3800 site and a $5500 building it seems to anyone who can figure what it costs to furnish a house of that size, with an expensive bar added, that the $10000 will look like a quarter and a punched nickel by the time the bills are paid.

Different Opinions.

There is quite a variance in the estimates placed by different judges on the Gattin tract of land through which the O. R. & N. railway is seeking right-of-way.

There were witnesses summoned before the court in Portland to give their several views on the value of this tract—and it is evident that these men, all being well informed as to values, cannot be so woefully far off in their estimates.

Mayor W. H. King thought the tract would be doubled in value if the road went through there. At the present time he considered it worth $200 an acre.

O. L. Chapple thought it worth $150 now. He had not figured any appreciation in value if the road secured a right of way—but was sure it wouldn't hurt it any.

W. L. Payne considered the land worth about $200 an acre—and declared that $400 per acre would be a high price for the railway to pay.

G. H. VanHouten was low man—figuring the land, all in all, worth not to exceed $100 an acre. He believed that if the railroad went through it would run the value of the tract up fully 50 per cent.

F. I. McKenna said the land was worth from $150 to $200 an acre—and thought the railway would not lessen the value. In fact, it would have a strong tendency to raise the value quite a bit.

The railroad desires 6.14 acres of the southerly corner. Mr. Gattin values it at $1000 per acre—and declares that the cut necessary for the grade of the road would damage the property at least $10000 worth. He has owned the land for more than a half century and believed he knew as much about the value of it as anyone.

The jury returned a sealed verdict. This awarded Mr. Gattin $9000 for the 6.14 acres—$6000 for the land and $3000 for the damage done. Mr. Gattin sued for $20000 and the company offered him $5000.

No Opium in Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. There is not the least danger in giving Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to small children as it contains no opium or other harmful drug. It has an established reputation of more than thirty years as the most successful medicine in use for colds, croup and whooping cough. It always cures and is pleasant to take. Children like it. Sold by Jackson's Pharmacy.

Asks For Quiet. The Congregational society has its afternoon devotional services each Sunday, in the M. W. A. hall. These services are seriously marred by loud talking and the bounding of billiard and pool balls in a resort below—seemingly done on "purpose to disturb" the worshippers.

There is a state law against these resorts being open on that day and why is this resort an exception? Has the manhood of any citizen of St. Johns gotten to such a low ebb that he will deliberately insult the citizen body of St. Johns when at worship by so low and contemptible a proceeding as the above?

I fancy such a mind must be so very depraved when they have no discernment of the personal rights or properties of others—and the career of such can be easily "guessed."

And when sickness or sorrow shall have these persons as a hostage, I can see the sweet face of some administering woman cooling the fevered brow, extending the gentle ministrations of comfort to him who had deliberately insulted those kind women when in closer communion with the God who knows and repays; cheering those who fling contemptuously with sneers at whomsoever tries to "Praise God from whom all blessings flow."

Change In Time. Another new time-table has been made for the street cars—and four more trains each day have been added. This brings the total number of trains per day to an even half hundred—as against 55 during the fair and 46 for the past month or so.

This new time-table comes just after sixteen firms in the city had donated a few dollars each for cards carrying the table. These cards were good ads—but now they are, of course, worse than useless. They will have to be thrown away now.

Life Caples Meditates.

Tuesday morning General Lafayette Caples was indignant. He walked into the city hall with both fists clenched.

"I tell you I was hot yesterday," he commenced. "It was close to seven o'clock last night when a woman—and she was as nice and ladylike a woman as you'd wish to see—came down to the ferry landing. She was very anxious to get across—but there was no boat."

"On the opposite side was her husband—and they were awful anxious to get to their home in Linton. Ben was nearby in his launch—but, although the woman begged him to come get her and carry her across, he wouldn't do it."

"I wasn't on good terms with him but finally I asked him why he wouldn't carry her over. The woman had often patronized him and paid him; this he didn't deny. Finally he made the excuse that she should have come to his landing in place of the Pittsburg street—and then he went away."

"Well, sir, the only thing I could do was to hunt up a pair of oars, take a leaky old boat half-full of water, and get her over myself. If there's one thing more than another that really appeals to my wrinkled heart it is a lovely woman in distress."

"And cuss a man who wouldn't take her across the river. There ought to be something done about this matter."
