POSTOFFICE TROUBLES.

Few People Ever Consider What The Average Postmaster Undergoes.

Did you ever consider of that multitude of vexations which come to the postmaster day in and day out? Even to the postmaster of an office where there are not more than four or five hundred patrons? If you haven't just take up your post near the delivery window some fairly busy day—and jot down the kicks, the sarcasm, the petulance, and to a certain extent the abuse, given through the window in the course of the day. It will set you thinking—and you will come to the conclusion that the career of a postmaster is one not strewn with roses.

The woman who is expecting a letter that is long overdue is the first at the window. "I'm sure that letter must be here!" No, there is no letter—not even a postal card. "Well, he said he'd write last Tuesday—and here it is Monday: have you any idea when it will come? If you look over that pile of letters once more I'm sure you'll find it!" And once more the pile of letters is gone over. "Well, if it doesn't come in the next mail there's going to be trouble about it—because I just know he wrote."

"Say you, that fellow never received his money I sent a couple of weeks ago," commences the big man. "You remember that I bought a money order and he says that he didn't get the money. What's the matter with your darned old office, anyway?" The matter is looked up and found to be as the man stated. Then he is asked if he put the order in the letter. "What order?" Why, the order that was handed out when he paid his money. "Was that an order?" "Thunder, I thought that was a receipt—an I guess I have it in my pocketbook. I didn't know you gave me that to put in the letter." He looks and there finds that he failed to send the order—hence the money is still waiting for the man at the other end of the line.

And so it goes all day. A little reasoning—a little judgment—will save a vast amount of worry and bother. A poem just at hand explains the matter in a way very entertaining—and were it not so lengthy we would re-print the article entire. As it is we have room for but a few verses—but these will show the trend of the whole. Here they are—and the entire poem should be in the hands of everyone. It is called "The Lament of the Fourth-Class Postmaster."

"Mr. Postmaster, bring my mail out here to me!"
 Came a voice of command from outside, accompanied by a certified check which broke into his mind with a jerk of surprise.
 That a person should order him 'round
 in that wise,
 As though trying to humiliate his pride,
 "What's the reason my paper don't come every day?"
 Was a question that struck him as queer.
 Just as though he could tell why the mails were delayed,
 Or the place to where this daily paper
 had strayed,
 Or on time, why it did not appear.

"What's the postage on this?" and a neat little roll
 Was thrust in, which he laid on the scales.
 "If there's writing inside it will cost you four cents."
 "Do you think that I'm going to pay said cost?"
 "To send that little thing through the mails?"

"Is there any express at the depot for me?"
 Was a question that filled him with wonder.
 And the question had at him so often been flung,
 That this answer was oft on the tip of his tongue.
 "Go and see, or else, go plumb to thunder."

But he didn't, for speeches more trying than this Reached his ears with far more aggravation.
 "It is queer that my package did not come today."
 When he knew that the order she had sent away
 Had not had time to reach its destination.

Always Keeps Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in his House.

"We would not be without Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is kept on hand continually in our home," says W. W. Kearney, editor of the Independent, Lowry City, Missouri. That is just what every family should do. When kept at hand ready for instant use, a cold may be checked at the outset and cured in much less time than after it has become settled in the system. This remedy is also without a peer for croup in children, and will prevent the attack when given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the croupy cough appears, which can only be done when the remedy is kept on hand. For sale by Jackson's Pharmacy.

Will Probably Have Lodge.

Matters have progressed very nicely in the way of forming a lodge of Masons in this city. At a recent meeting a set of officers was selected, a name for the lodge chosen, and it is believed that in a couple of weeks a call will be made to the fraternity.

THE MAN IN THE HOLE IN THE GROUND

Another rise in pork. Ex-Governor Hogg, of Texas, died last Saturday.

March came in like a real woman—and, like a real woman, has been crying ever since.

The tarpon is said to be the swiftest fish—but that doesn't prove that suckers are not more numerous.

The Albany Democrat says "Try telling the truth for one day." Why? What's the joke about, anyway?

Albany has a chink named Ah Swill. It is said that some of the best hogs in the vicinity eat at his restaurant.

Thieves stole a box of choice cigars from Rev. A. A. Morrison, of Portland. Evidently they believed a minister had no right to smoke.

A prominent Englishman has just given a dinner, costing over $5000, to a dog! After this the old adage should read "Every dog has his dinner!"

At Seio they have Crab trees. In Washington the crabs are found in the water—and there being trees having crabs in this country indicates that the country is far more fertile.

One of the political candidates is posing as "the man without an enemy." I have always considered that the man who did not have an enemy was not possessed of a real friend.

The first bargain-sale agitation was that mentioned in the bible where folks "were afraid of those things which are high." After that, no doubt the prices were scaled for a bargain rush.

At Toledo people are crying for a board walk from the main street to the cemetery. Must be an awful unhealthy place—that Toledo. In St. Johns we don't even have a cemetery—only politically.

It is claimed there are ten thousand worshippers of the sun in Chicago. From a two-months' stay in that city I had concluded the sun was never seen there. Maybe they worship photographs of it!

This "experting" books of all public officials has become such a fad that we'll soon have to "expert" the reports of the experts—which will probably result in "experting" the reports of the "experts" on the "experts' reports"—and so on, ad lib.

Isn't it strange how many men are willing to run for office because "their friends wish them to?" What the announcements should say is, "I'm out for this job because I want the money there is in it—and because I desire the fame which will come with it!"

The record price for "tips" has been established. Some years ago a waiter, as a tip, was told to buy North Butte Copper at $13. He did so—and has just sold at $16. The water cleared $28,400. The question is if he had lost would he have asked the tipper to have made him good?

Back in a Colorado city a widow advertises for a place to do the housework—and stipulates that her employer must be a widower with two children. That seems to be drawing the line of environment rather closely. Presume if he doesn't have the two of his own he can adopt the two she has!

She was a pretty little woman from the interior of the state and she boarded Conductor Mulligan's car to come to St. Johns to visit her sister-in-law. She had but little knowledge of the trolley system and viewed everything along the route with intense interest. "If I should put my foot on that rail," said she, pointing to the nearest bit of track, "would I get a shock?" Mulligan smiled. "Not unless you put your other foot on the overhead wire!" the dear woman almost faint.

A Favorite Remedy for Babies.

Its pleasant taste and prompt cures have made Chamberlain's Cough Remedy a favorite with the mothers of small children. It very quickly cures their coughs and colds and prevents any danger of pneumonia or other serious consequences. It not only cures croup but when given as soon as the croupy cough appears will prevent the attack. For sale by Jackson's Pharmacy.

For fine cigars it will pay you to call at Valentine's; opposite city hall.
