It came pretty near snowing at Seaside while we were there."

In connection with the double tracking of the electric line from Portsmouth to Northern Hill, it has leaked out that a spur or loop will be run from McKenna avenue to Maegly junction and thence along the county road to the present line of track. Holbrook and Francis J. McKenna.

Ten dollars down and ten cents a day are the terms on which University Park lots are sold. University Park lots are selling right along while others stand still, because University Park has the largest payroll on the peninsula, because it has Bull Run water, a university which brings a cultured class, a liquor restriction which excludes saloons, Portland public schools, and first and foremost it believes that a steady growth and good morals pay best in the long run. Francis I. McKenna is the selling agent for University Park lots.

It sometimes occurs that a subscriber gets on his ear over an item that he thinks means him, and makes up his mind to stop the paper to make the editor feel humiliated. This does not prove the case and we would suggest for this fellow to poke his finger into a cup of water, remove it and then look for the hole. He will then have an idea how sadly he is missed.

Two ball games were played on the home grounds Sunday in which the locals were victorious in each instance. In the morning the Albinos were defeated by a score of 7 to 5, and in the afternoon North Portland was done up to the tune of 8 to 3. Both contests were interesting, although the morning game was marred by the kicking and wrangling indulged in by both sides. The umpires had a miserable time of it for awhile.

There is a nice assortment of youngsters in the city who are reaching for angel's wings by persisting in catching on and jumping off the cars while in motion. A bevy of them had a high old time last Sunday afternoon in front of Bickner's store toying with the cars as they came in. When a citizen was remonstrating with one of them, a young gent of ten years, the juvenile looked contemptuously over his shoulder at his would-be benefactor, and ejaculated: "Well, what t'ell is it to youise, anyway?"

Several complaints have reached us by people getting letters with the words "opened by mistake" written across the face of the envelope. The government recognizes this as a grave offence, and any one guilty of this "mistake" is liable to a fine of $200. This is a wise decision on the part of the post-office department and should be enforced to the limit by the victims of this pernicious practice. Not one letter in a hundred is "opened by mistake." Curiosity is a more appropriate word.

City Engineer Goodrich:—The legislature passed a law at its last session known as the curative act. Under its provision any municipality may remedy defective legislation. Portland has already taken advantage of it in the differences that came up over the grading of Burnside street. The street was graded according to the plans and specifications of the engineer. The property owners refused to pay for the improvement and the contractors sued the city and won their case. The city in turn sued the property owners, compelling each and every one to pay for their improvements with costs of the suits added.

IMPROVEMENTS

Noted By An Individual After a Short Absence From the City.

St. Johns, Oregon, Aug. 3, 1906. Editor Review: Having just arrived from Seapooose and landing at your city dock, I thought I would look around and see if I could notice any changes since I was here some time ago. The first thing I noticed was a pipe line running along the dock and I wondered what kind of business the city was in now that they needed such a thing as that on the city's property. I followed the pipe line up the incline and found myself in front of a large building of some kind. Being of a curious nature, I inquired and learned that it was the Marine Iron Works, doing all kinds of pipe and boiler work, their power being furnished by the P. G. E. Co. of Portland. Crossing the street and also the O. R. & N. Co.'s track I stood in front of another large building and saw some men unloading a large, heavy box. Again my curiosity was aroused, and on making inquiry I found it was a four-ton platform scale. Finding that my informant was one of the proprietors and also willing to show me through their shop, I followed him, and as we passed from one large machine to another I was amazed at what I beheld, and as I watched the workmen as they used the ponderous machine to cut, punch and form the great sheets of steel into different patterns. I asked Mr. Kelley and one of his partners about the business, and they told me they were employing 115 men at the present time. They also told the writer that there was several hundred tons of sheet iron on the way now to their works. They informed me that their building is now too small to allow the installation of all their machinery, and they showed some very heavy machines standing outside on account of lack of floor space.

I am told that this firm, known as the St. Johns Steel Ship Building Co., will either have to have more room or move somewhere else, and, in passing, would say that I think it would not only be a good thing for the Commercial Club, but every citizen who is interested in the up-building and welfare of St. Johns to introduce some method whereby this valuable industry will not be lost to the city. I understand they have a good offer from the neighboring town of Linton, and it behooves the citizens of St. Johns to act without delay. Mr. Kelley and his partners are genial, whole-souled fellows who take pleasure in showing they public through their works. They have the largest rollers for bending plates in the Northwest.

Among other improvements I noticed miles of newly graded streets, many new business blocks and numerous residences, and I quickly came to the conclusion that St. Johns is making giant strides forward in an amazing manner.

Mrs. D. C. Rogers has been quite ill for several days.

The Handley news stand has been removed from the Peninsula Bank corner. Through the mix-up with the authorities several claims have accumulated against the outfit, and it is being held pending settlement. It is unfortunate that affairs have taken the turn they have, for a news stand would be a paying proposition in St. Johns.

A brush fire in the vicinity of the dry dock last night caused considerable alarm. It was started three days ago by a couple of boys in an attempt to smoke out a nest of bees in an old patch stump on the hillside. The fire smoldered until yesterday afternoon, when it began to spread. No damage worthy of note was done, but valuable interests along the water front were exposed for a time.

Postmaster Valentine is authority for the statement that the postoffice will be moved into one of the rooms in the Holbrook block fronting on Jersey street. This will give much needed room. The change will be made as soon as the building is completed—probably in a month.

Last Wednesday evening the band held an open air concert and the Commercial club tried to hold a meeting in a room 60 feet distant from the band. From the start it looked like a cinch the band would out foot the club. It did. From the first foot of the horns it was a forlorn hope for the club. The opposition was too strong.

In the window of the St. Johns Pharmacy is a photograph of Jersey street taken in 1891. The picture shows the old car and engine that conveyed the passengers in and out. The background shows large fir trees standing on the present location of The Review office. The train crew shown are Engineer Frank Powell, Fireman Artemus Roberts, Conductor Thos. Monahan and W. W. Windle, yardmaster at St. Johns at that time. The photograph is the property of Thomas Monahan.
