Coos Bay seems to be the mecca of quite a number of St. John people. If there is a better place for a home or investment than the peninsula The Review would like to print the name of it. The paradise is always a little farther away.

Portland is facing a fuel famine and indications point to a great scarcity of wood and coal the coming winter. Prices are rising rapidly and already dealers are two weeks behind in their orders. Shortage of cars from local interior points is given as the cause of the threatened famine.

A gardner near Springfield has sprung a new one on the gamewarden. He has issued a notice to the gamewarden to abate a nuisance, consisting of the invasion of his garden patch by China pheasants in such numbers that they are destroying his entire crop, and unless the nuisance is removed he will destroy it with whatever implements are necessary.

In last week's article concerning the banquet given in honor of the prominent speakers at the school entertainment, credit was given the wrong party for the splendid spread. Dan Williamson, steward of the New St. Johns Hotel had entire charge of the affair. His brains it was that concocted the many pleasing and palatable courses that disappeared with so much ease and relish into the apertures ready for their reception. The chef acted under his personal supervision, and to Dan belongs all the honor and praise.

Ten dollars down and ten cents a day are the terms on which University Park lots are sold. University Park lots are selling right along while others stand still, because University Park has the largest payroll on the peninsula, because it has Bull Run water, a university which brings a cultured class, a liquor restriction which excludes saloons, Portland public schools, and first and foremost it believes that a steady growth and good morals pay best in the long run. Francis I. McKenna is the selling agent for University Park lots.

The St. Johns Lumber Co. still continues to add to its immense stock. Scarcely a week goes by that an additional building is not erected or up to date machinery installed. In a very short time this mill will be the largest on the river.

A. Gunderson and family returned Tuesday last from a three weeks' trip to the hop fields near Brooks. While they did well financially they found the business had many drawbacks and inconveniences. The accommodations, water, etc., were poor, and the avaricious hop man adopted trust methods in the harvesting of the foundation of the beverage of King Gambrius.

The powers that be and the board of health seem to have overlooked the pile of charred debris on the site of Hallberg's store on Jersey street, mention of which was made in last week's paper. Suppose this pile of rubbish adorned the back yard of the residence of some poor devil! Would the neighbors get after him? Would the board of health order it removed? Would the police want to know why it was there? Echo answers: Would they? P. S.—The cleanup is under way.

A very enjoyable surprise party was given in honor of Mrs. Sophia Cole last week. It was Mrs. Cole's seventy-eighth anniversary of her birth, and she was more than pleased with the honor conferred upon her by her friends. The evening was pleasantly spent in social way, and elegant refreshments were served. Many useful and ornamental presents were received by the hostess. Mrs. Cole is very sprightly for one of her years, and bids fair to see many more anniversaries come and go.

Mr. Markle visited this section in the spring and became so impressed with its climate and possibilities that he decided to move his family here.

The second half of the 1905 taxes are now due and if not paid before next Monday, October 1, will become delinquent, to per cent will be added as penalty, and it will also be subject to interest charges. The state laws of Oregon provide that one half of the amount of taxes may be paid before the first Monday in April, and the second half before the first Monday in October. This year the first Monday in October falls on the first of the month, so there remains only one day for the taxpayers to visit the court house if they do not want the penalty and interest added to their taxes.

The boys and girls of the public schools who have grown asters and potatoes under the auspices of the Multnomah County Teachers' Progress Club will exhibit the result of their labors at the city hall, Portland, tomorrow (Saturday), Sept. 29. The school teachers will hold the first meeting of the club and lend assistance to the exhibition. At present the asters are in full bloom and the young misses are expected to make a fine display at tomorrow's exhibition. Some of the boys report phenomenal success in the cultivation of potatoes, and numerous fine exhibits will be made. Handsome prizes will be awarded the winners. The exhibits will probably remain in the hall for several days that the public may see the result of the efforts of the pupils.

The fifty-fourth annual conference of the Oregon Methodist Episcopal church convened Tuesday at Sunnyside. The meetings are held in a large tent with a seating capacity of 3,500 people. The tent is lighted by electricity. It is the first time in the history of the church in America that a conference has been held in a tent.

Tacoma street on the top of the hill received a good cleaning by the wind of Monday. About a wagon load of waste paper and other rubbish was taken up by the gentle zephyrus and distributed in front of the business houses on the west side of Jersey street. "Whose business is it to see that refuse of all kinds is not dumped in the streets?" was a question that was asked by many. If the ordinance had been complied with in regard to the care of rubbish no one would have had complaint to make.

The boy who wishes to become the owner of one of the finest of miniature wagons should inspect the show window of Potter & Goold's hardware store. They will find a reproduction of the celebrated Studebaker wagon that will be given to the boy receiving the highest number of votes. Votes are worth five cents each. The proceeds of the contest will be donated to the Congregational church building fund. Young America has until Monday, Oct. 8, to do his hustling. The contest closes on that date.

President I. E. Richardson of the Eclectic Business University was in the city Wednesday in the interest of the Night School to be conducted in St. Johns this winter. He desires to meet the young people on Thursday afternoon and evening of next week—4 to 9 p. m. President Richardson is a man of much experience, and requires the highest standard of work. He places his students in the best positions. He will be assisted by Prof. A. A. Welch. His Portland office is 435 Worcester building. The people of St. Johns should take much interest in this school. Those interested should write President Richardson at once, and be sure to meet him next week when he comes to our city.
