Are you really and truly thankful?
Between Coos Bay and Myrtle Point it is cheaper to ship freight by team than by rail. Must cost something to live in that strip of timber.

Since Peary failed in his quest of the North Pole a man named Walter Wellman intends to make the attempt in an air ship. Funny what trials, privations and expense some people will go to in an endeavor to discover what may properly be termed a myth.

Mrs. Russell Sage announces that she will give away the bulk of her fortune of $80,000,000 to individuals whom she considers worthy, who, through no fault of their own, are so unfortunate as to need assistance, and too proud to ask. No pushing and crowding in the line, please.—E.S.

Mrs. Elsie Clews Parsons, daughter of Clews, the New York banker, in a new book she has just gotten out, advocates trial marriages. Several other writers have also concurred in this view of the matter. The only difference we can see over the present system is the cost and trouble of a divorce suit.

The Canby Tribune says: "Men who become presidents of the United States are put there by the hand of destiny." Hand of destiny, eh? Take all the bets you can that Standard Oil, Wall Street and the rest of the fellows who handle the long green wiggle the hand of destiny and you will surely win.

The question of the hour is: Who gave Mand Hurt Creffield the poison with which to end her existence while in jail? Some person evidently thought this was the easiest way to solve the solution as to what disposition should be made of her by the authorities, and she accepted it as being the wisest course.

Congress is about to convene and the moguls of the senate through its right lower, the Associated Press is sending out reports as to what they are going to do to Senator La Follette. What the Wisconsin statesman will do to some people before he is through with them will be worth printing. From the day he took his seat Senator La Follette defied the Senate ring.

The Countess De Castellane, formerly Anna Gould, daughter of the late Jay Gould, has been divorced from her husband, Count Boni De Castellane, by a French court, and given the custody of her children. The countess will not be allowed to remove the children from France without the consent of their father. Thus another dream of glory and happiness under the weight of a foreign title, for which an American girl paid millions in money, has been shattered.

What part of the state raises the best apples is a bone of contention among fruit growers just now. It seems, however, that Hood River still holds the banner, if price cuts any ice. In no part of the state is so much care and attention paid to the raising of apples as is exercised in this valley, and, therefore, they deserve all the credit they get. We have never seen so contradicted that Hood River apples are good keepers and have a fine color, while we know of an instance of two in which Willamette valley Spitzenbergs were secured several weeks ago for the purpose of keeping until Christmas that are now decaying. If Hood River Spitzenbergs made no better showing they would not be able to command a better price than Willamette apples. Reputation goes a great ways, but if the little valley at the foot of the Cascades did not have something substantial to back up its reputation its orchards would soon be become as moss covered as the Willamette orchards generally are. It is not our purpose to boom Hood River apples at the expense of the Willamette fruit growers, but when the question of merit is raised by the latter it seems only just that they should first deliver the goods. It has been fully demonstrated that good apples can be raised in almost any section in Oregon, and it is up to the apple growers of the state to work together as a whole and not belittle the product of one section in an endeavor to gain prestige for another. We are all proud of the Oregon apple, and if one community can build up a reputation for superior fruit, let us rather help it to maintain its high standard of excellence than try to rob it of a part of its reputation to use as a cloak to cover some other locality.

The butting in of President Roosevelt during the recent New York campaign has caused a little turmoil among the political leaders of that state.
Vaudeville entertainments are being introduced in a New York Baptist church in order to interest people enough to attend church. Shades of John the Baptist, what next?

Because she can't talk Spanish, Arizona declines to enter into marriage relations with New Mexico. Arizona is a good girl. She knows she couldn't be happy with a "greaser" for a life mate.

The libel suit brought by the Journal against the Oregonian has been decided in favor of the latter. A newspaper has to kick over a trace pretty far before an Oregon jury will convict it of libel.

If the daily papers would omit the name of Mrs. Eddy and her affairs from their publications for a day or two it would no doubt be highly appreciated by both Mrs. Eddy and a long suffering public.

It is getting to be a craze among business men of the east to build a taller building than any one else. It is said that a sky scraper is now under consideration in New York in which the two upper stories will have to have hinges attached in order to swing back and let the moon pass.

A syndicate of capitalists offered to come to the relief of Uncle Sam and take the postal service out of his hands. They promise reduced rates and the wiping out of the annual deficit. Too many public utilities are already in the hands of a few. A better way would be for Uncle Sam to secure the railroads and then the things promised by the syndicate would come to pass.

An eminent professor of a Chicago medical school now volunteers the statement that love is a delusion and youths should be compelled to choose mates as fine cattle are chosen, or as a wife would choose a new dress. This may be well enough in theory, but it is not at all likely that many young women would submit to the same inspection that she would give to a piece of dress goods, and then it would knock all the sentiment out of the thing.

DEATH

OF J. C. Scott, One of St. Johns Pioneer Residents.

J. C. Scott, one of St. Johns first citizens and a prominent resident, passed quietly away at his home in this place Sunday morning last after a lingering illness of typhoid fever. Mr. Scott was a man greatly respected in the community, and as a testimonial of the esteem in which he was held the greater part of the business houses were closed during the funeral obsequies, which took place Monday afternoon from the home. Born in Lincoln, Neb., deceased came to St. Johns many years ago. He was the first man to build and make improvements on the hill above the water front. He was one of the founders of the water works here and a member of the first school board in district No. 2. He had long been a member of the Adventist church and was a faithful christian. A widow, three sons and one daughter survive, the sons being Verne C. of Portland; Vinton at home, and Will, a medical student at Salem. The daughter, Miss Kate, resides at home. Deceased was aged 55 years.

Great Slaughter.
A great slaughter in wild geese took place this week when the silver haired member of The Review reached the upper Columbia game fields in company with Mr. Youngferdorf, our city hall contractor, who has a large game preserve near Arlington. This is the report that reached us today (Thursday) by wireless telegraphy. Both are good shots, Mac carrying off the honors back in the Minnesota duck ponds year after year with his old 10-bore Lefevre. But being of a progressive turn of mind, he has recently been hamboozled into the idea that a little light affair of a small gauge was the proper thing by a bunch of western sports who are too weak to carry a regular gun, and if he gets a goose with the pop gun he will lift our hats.

Bandmaster Wright has resigned his position as band tutor. President Fuller has ordered that street cars make regular stops at corner of Chicago and Jersey streets. The very Rev. Dr. Morrissey will preach at Holy Cross church next Sunday, Dec. 3rd, at the 10.30 services. A rare treat is in store for all who attend. The ladies of the Congregational church will hold a bazaar at the small building on the church lot on Friday evening Dec. 7th. A 15 cent lunch will be served during the evening. A man and his wife had a squabble over possession of a child along the river front yesterday. Chief Bradeson with great diplomatic judgment decided the woman to be the proper person to take charge of the little one.

THE PUTTY QUESTION
Up the Chimney is Where Half Your Fuel Money Goes When the Ordinary Stove is Used
Stove putty is universally used by stove manufacturers for making tight joints in heating stoves. While the stove is brand new the putty does its work as intended. A hot fire for a few months cracks the putty, it drops out of place, leaving the stove full of air-leaking cracks, allowing the gases in the fuel and a big part of the heat generated to be stuck up the chimney and thus wasted.
More than one-half of all the fuel you put into the putty jointed stove is lost in this way. If your old stove eats up more fuel and does not keep fire as well as it did at first, the reason is the stove putty has dropped out of the joints.
Cole's Original Hot Blast Coal Stoves and Air-Tight Wood Stoves Save all Fuel and Heat Wasted by Other Heating Stoves.
No stove putty is used in the construction of these economical stoves; it is not necessary, owing to the patented construction which makes the stove practically jointless. Cole's Hot Blast Coal Stoves and Air-Tight Wood Stoves are the only heating stoves in the world which are guaranteed to remain always air-tight. On account of this saving the fire is never out and the rooms are heated for two or three hours in the morning with the fuel put in the evening economical stoves the night before.
Note the straight steel jacket encasing the heavy cast iron fire box inside, and the guaranteed smoke-proof feed door placed at the front of the top in Cole's Hot Blast Stove, shown by cut No. 1, doing away with air-leaking putty joints at top and bottom of fire pot and around the door frame on other stoves as shown by cut No. 2.
The water-tight steel bottom and patented compound hinge for ash door, also the patented steel collar for joining the ash door frame to the heavy steel body so that it cannot be loosened by action of the furnace heat, while of any technical interest, are special features in both the Original Hot Blast Coal and Air-Tight Wood Stoves which combine to make them the most economical heating stoves in the world. We are Exclusive Agents—avoid imitations.
Save $50.00 to $200.00
You cannot afford to say to yourself, "My old stove or an imitation stove at a little less price will have to do this winter." Other stoves and all imitations of Cole's Original Hot Blast and Air-Tight Stoves are made with stove putty joints, and when you stop to think that $1.00 saved on the first cost of the stove means the loss of $50 to $200 in fuel during the life of the stove, you will readily see the advantage of buying the Original Hot Blast, and Air-Tight Stoves which hold fire just as well and are just as economical in fuel after years of use as the first day they are put up.
