The worst storm for many a year began last Monday, and for a whole day car service was suspended. No mails were received for two days and the stores and residences went back to coal oil lamps for light. The cause of the disorder was the coating of the electric and telephone wires with ice, causing them to break under the strain of their heavy load. While no heavy damage was done in this city it amounts to several hundred thousand dollars in Portland.

The suggestions made in The Review last week in regard to an ordinance regulating all plumbing work to be done in St. Johns have been approved by many property owners. As long as a plumber, or any other mechanic for that matter, knows that he can do slipshod work and get a first-class price for it he will do it. When there is a law describing the manner in which such work shall be done everybody is guaranteed a good job. Go after the plumbing ordinance, gentlemen of the council, and pass it.

A stick of giant powder found on the right of way of the electric line near Peninsula station last Friday morning was the cause of several columns of sensational matter in the Portland dailies. It was alleged that the explosive was placed on the track by one of the striking street car men with the intention of killing or maiming a motorman. A street car employe who has been on the line for a number of years expresses the opinion that the stick of giant powder was accidentally dropped on the right of way by some one engaged in blowing out the stumps on the lots now being cleared along the right of way. The incident served as a topic for many wild stories, but the general public do not believe the strikers so bloodthirsty as to resort to such a diabolical plan to gain their end.

When a contemporary said there was no taste to a kiss the editor of an Arkansas paper burst forth with the following: "No taste to a kiss? Well by the hen feathers in Cupid's dart, the Times man must be blind in the palate. They tell us, those who have tried it, that it tastes like the doubled distilled essence of pumpkin spread thick on a piece of pumpkin pie. Away back in the dim and joyful years ago, before we lost all our teeth and the cinch on the beauty prize, the prettiest girl in all the world told us with her own eyes that it felt like a covey of quails flying out of each ear and ended with a sensation like a flock of angels pouring molasses down one's back. No taste to a kiss, Great Scott! It would make a cigar Indian's hair curl and his toe nails quiver in ecstasy. The Times man must be an ice house.
