A. W. Davis, a well known resident of St. Johns, and for a long time employed in the O. R. & N. offices in Portland, leaves in a few days for Nevada, where he goes to take charge of a large mining proposition northwest of Lovelocks. Mrs. Davis will spend the summer in Salt Lake, Utah, with relatives and friends. To show that Mr. D. still has faith in St. Johns is evinced by the following remark: "If I make any money down there I am going to send it back for investment in St. Johns." Many friends wish Mr. and Mrs. Davis prosperity in their new home.

April 1 saw several business firms change locations in St. Johns and a new firm added to the list. Potter & Goold moved from their Burlington street stand to the large store formerly conducted by Bickner Bros. Bonham & Currier, who have held forth for the past two years in the Cochran block, adjoining the Peninsula Bank, are now located in the handsome new brick block of Stine & Sherman. Hendricks & Monnich is the firm name of a new hardware firm that have taken a lease on the building in the Holbrook block vacated by Potter & Goold.

The fruit raisers are jubilant over the prospect of an abundance of fruit. They say the recent cool weather retarded the blossoming of the trees and otherwise contributed in many ways toward making the coming season one that will see the trees loaded to their capacity.

The White House, the popular workingman's hotel on Decatur street, is now in charge of Ed. L. Stockton. This is one of the best arranged and furnished hotels in the city, and under Mr. Stockton's management is bound to be made doubly attractive. Read the new ad in another column for rates and particulars.

Mrs. Whitesides, from Portland, while passing along Edison street rather late Saturday evening, was attacked by two Italians. She managed to elude their grasp and reach the house of a neighbor, who frightened away her assailants with a revolver, and then went with her to the Methodist church, where she was provided with escorts for the remainder of her journey.

On account of the inclement weather it will be impossible to open the local ball park with a game next Sunday. Under favorable conditions the grounds will open Sunday, April 14, with a double header. Everything is in readiness as far as the players, uniforms, tickets, etc., are concerned, but the ground has not been in shape to work. Mr. Hill promises to have everything in apple pie order in a couple of weeks, providing the elements permit.

Why pay rent when a very small payment down and $15 per month will buy you a complete home? If what I already have built does not suit you I will build as you desire. W. C. Adams.

Our expenses are light, our prices correspondingly low. We handle new and second hand furniture and stoves. Come in and inspect our stock. Shaw's Furniture store, French Block.

Among the list of the dead of the railroad accident which occurred at Colton, California last Thursday afternoon was that of Albert W. Shie, who was a mail clerk on the wrecked train. Mr. Shie and wife were very intimate friends of Mrs. W. L. Thorndyke.

Deputy Sheriff Kelly visited St. Johns last Saturday looking into the alleged illegal use of slot machines. After a thorough investigation he found no violations of the law, and went away convinced that the city officers were in every way capable of enforcing the laws of the city and county.

Before you make your purchases in any line look over the stock of the home merchant and see if he cannot get what you want at the same or a lower price. We are all here to build up St. Johns. So are our merchants, and any one of them can supply the article you want at the same or a lower price than those in the city. Give them a chance.

The charter commission met last Friday evening at the city hall and finished their work on the revision of the charter. Three additional sections were added: One providing for the registration of voters, another creating the office of municipal judge and a third compelling contractors and others to replace all waterpipes disturbed to the same depth below the surface as they were before being molested.

When seen at his place of business Tuesday morning and asked in regard to his plans as to the government of the city, Mayor-elect Couch said: "I hope to work in harmony with all members of the council and give the city a clean and business like administration. It is a little too early to outline our plans. I do not know what to say in regard to the city hall, as I do not know just what shape it is in. Something should be done at once, however. I hope to be able to proceed with the work and hurry the building to completion."

From a person who has seen the figures The Review learns that the freight business of the O. R. & N. railroad at this point amounts to $20,000 more during March this year than it was during the same month a year ago. In fact the business handled has assumed such proportions that it will be but a very short time until a depot and a station agent will be necessary. The Standard Oil Co. will hereafter handle all its business in less than carload lots from St. Johns. This alone is no small item and plainly shows which way the business is going.

McKEON'S HIDE

A Jocular Remark Leads to a Humorous Finale.

While the recent city election had many sides to it, it also had a humorous one. Mayor-elect Couch and the senior editor of The Review came in for a portion of the fun, and never lost an opportunity to banter each other. One day while Mr. Couch was in The Review office he met several of his own workers and also a few of Mr. Norton's. To make Mr. Couch feel good the senior editor hurled the following at him: "The next day after election I am going to tack your hide up there on the wall!"

The remark never jarred the candidate for the mayoralty. He just smiled one of his large smiles and resumed the bantering. But the next morning after election he began to think of a few things that he had been told. Among them was something about a hide. He at once decided to go into the hide business himself.

Accordingly he procured a bear hide, a hammer and a handful of nails. Mounted on a box he nailed the hide to the outside of his store building. Over his handiwork he placed a placard with letters a foot high bearing the inscription:

"McKeon's Hide!" Then he journeyed to The Review office to lead his victim to view his supposed epidermis. Couch led the way, followed by the crestfallen joshier and a large crowd. Turning his victim around he pointed to the side of the building and remarked: "There's all that's left of you—hair side out!" Then everybody whooped her up for Couch.

To compound his hilarity the mayor had a photograph of his work taken together with himself standing under it, and on his breast he wore a placard bearing the words: "The man who skinned him!"

You are all right, Mayor Couch! The goods are yours!

This is the season when the presiding angel of the household prowls through the rooms, attired in a mother Hubbard and an old handkerchief, viciously swatting in all directions with a mop or broom. She calls it house cleaning.

While the people of Portland are displaying considerable pride in exhibiting their old coins, J. S. McKinney, the real estate man at St. Johns Heights, has a coin that will make many take off their hats when it comes to a matter of age. Mr. McKinney's coin bears the date of 1304. It is of copper, and contains the inscription "Sultanate of Brunc" on one side. On the reverse side there are characters that no one can decipher. The St. Johns Heights man has many rare coins, but considers the above one of the oldest yet heard from.
