While driving a horse attached to his bread wagon across the Portland and Seattle tracks on the right of way near Northern Hill Thos. Anderson was badly shaken up and his face disfigured by the overturning of the wagon last Mouday. He was making his daily rounds ac-companied by a young lad. As he reached the track the dirt train was backing down. The boy saw the danger and jumped from the ve-hicle. Before Anderson was aware of the danger a car struck the wagon in which he was seated, overturning it and injuring the occupant as above stated. The horse escaped * injury.

Few people imagine that on the hill on the opposite side of the river above the road house was the site of one of the finest orchards in this vicinity. Henry Smith says that when he was a boy he used to ourney over there and obtain the very finest of apples, peaches, pears and plums. The old orchard went to decay and now the spot is covered with an overgrowth of brush and ferns. The Fraternal Order of Eagles is to give a grand ball in M. W. A. hall next Tuesday evening, and there promises to be a big time for the faithful who may attend. 'The order here in this city now has nearly one hundred members, and each meeting sees several new men initiated; while the officials are striving in all ways to improve and regulate affairs so as to merit the approbation of the people. Like many of the fraternal orders the Eagles started here with the desire upon the part of some to make it purely a "good-time" affair; but those who now head the association are more anxious for the good opinion of the masses than for aught else; hence the selection of new members is pursued with greater care and a higher regard for the material than for numbers. This ball is expected to be one of the finest given here. Good music will be furnished, and the best of order will be preserved. A general invi-tation is extended to all lovers of dancing.
