BASE BALL

A Double Header on the Local Grounds Sunday.

Standing of the Tri City Teams.

Table with columns: Team, Won, Lost, P. C.
Frakes 8 2 .800
Woodburn 6 2 .750
St. Johns 6 3 .666
Kelso 4 2 .666
Brewers 3 5 .375
Astoria 2 4 .333
Trunks 2 6 .250
Cubs 1 8 .111

Two games of base ball for one admission attracted a large crowd to Hill's ball park last Sunday to see the Brewers play the Trunk-makers and the Frakes trim the tail end Brainard Cubs.

The first game between the Trunkmakers and the Brewers was a listless affair full of errors up to the eighth inning. There was too much posing by the Trunkmakers' battery, and the crowd tired of it.

The Brewers played better ball than their opponents, but could not pass them until the ninth inning, when they pulled themselves together and batted out two runs with no one out, winning the game by a score of 7 to 6.

The second game between the Frakes and Brainard Cubs was a one-sided affair, the former having everything their own way. The Cubs played ball like a lot of old women. At least that is the way the game looked to many disinterested ones.

The Frakes began by making four runs in the first inning. The support given Streit was miserable. He was taken out of the box in the second and Olney substituted. The nimble Frakes took kindly to his delivery and made three runs in the second. But the support given Olney was enough to discourage the stoutest heart.

A double play in the sixth by the Cubs and one in the sixth and seventh by the Frakes were applauded by the crowd.

The decisions of Umpire Davey were not as well received as they might have been, and for the first time on the ground there was a bit of umpire bating. It certainly did look as though the Frakes were being favored. The final score stood 8 to 5.

WILL BEGIN

Dredging for Pa. king Plant on the Columbia Slough.

During the week extensive preparations have been made to begin the work of dredging on Columbia slough where Swift & Co. are to build their big packing plant. The immense dredge, which has been building at the ship yards in Portland, was towed to the slough yesterday. This dredge is of the suction type and is capable of handling over 3000 yards of dirt per day.

In addition to the dredger twenty-five small barges were also built at the ship-yards for use in the work of the dredge. These barges were towed to the mouth of the slough several days ago.

A channel will be dredged that will accommodate all the river and sea-going craft, and the work will be pushed as rapidly as modern appliances will allow.

DON'T !!!

Don't let your child suffer with that cough when you can cure it with Ballard's Horehound Syrup, a sure cure for Coughs, Bronchitis, Influenza, Croup and Pulmonary Diseases. Buy a bottle and try it.

B. B. Llaughter, Byhalia, Miss., writes: "I have two children who had croup. I tried many different remedies, but I must say your Horehound Syrup is the best Croup and Cough medicine I ever used." Sold by St. Johns Drug Store.

WOODBURN WON

Ten Innings Played and St. Johns Loses the Game.

The second of the games between Woodburn and St. Johns was played last Sunday on the grounds at the former place in the presence of a large and enthusiastic crowd. About fifty fans accompanied the local club.

The game was one of the most exciting yet played in the Tri-City League. It required ten innings to decide the contest, and the muf of a fly by Outfielder Sloan gave the game to Woodburn in the tenth. The locals put up as good a game as they could under the circumstances, and although playing several new men, have no complaint to make about their treatment on or off the field. It was simply a case of Woodburn winning, and the home boys hope to be declared the victors the next time they meet.

Concannon was almost invincible, only one hit being made off of him, while Moore was touched up for eight safe ones. The home team started the run getting in the first, and Woodburn scored two in their half. St. Johns tied the score in the third and Woodburn made another on their half of the fourth. St. Johns added another in the fifth, and from that time on both teams worked like machines, putting their men out in one, two, three order. There were numerous errors on both sides.

The Woodburn band furnished music that enlivened the occasion. The score:

SOCIAL ETIQUETTE.

Promptness and Politeness in Answering Dinner Invitations.

There was once a great man, whose name I have forgotten, but it is not important to this narrative, who gave his son this bit of social advice: "Answer a dinner invitation within twenty-four hours after you receive it. If you accept, let nothing short of your death prevent your going, and if you die arrange for a substitute in your will. Whatever you do, for heaven's sake be prompt in the doing."

Along the same lines was a note received by a certain Washington hostess from the valet of an attache of one of the legations, "M. — regrets that he cannot come to Mrs. D.'s dinner, but he died last night." Now, a funeral in the family is usually accepted as a very good reason for not doing anything, but little short of one can excuse a lack of punctuality in matters social. Whatever you are, be prompt.

A few years back it was considered rather a nice thing to come in just a little late. Girls going to balls spoke with pride of being among the last arrivals. Novelists who would chronicle the doings of the smart set got into the fashion of opening their choicest chapters with a vision of the hostess and those of her guests who were under-derbed or unfortunate enough to have arrived on time sitting in dejected state awaiting the honored guest of the evening, who always made it a point to appear just fifteen minutes after the hour set in the card of invitation, but "we have changed all that."

Punctuality, the politeness of kings, is once more to the fore. If you want to be popular with those who entertain, answer your invitations as soon as you receive them. Personally I think a telephone invitation a twentieth century species of inquisition. How can you think of fitting excuses for not going or properly enthusiastic reasons for going when you are confronted with a gaping bit of metal in the shape of a transmitter? But the telephone has had its use as well as its abuse in that it has obliged the otherwise tardy to come up to time.

The more informal and personal the invitation the prompter should the answer be. If you are going to be merely an atom in a vast assemblage, then you may be pardoned for letting your reply to your bidding daily, but if you are to be one of a chosen few such hesitancy is one of the blunders that are worse than crimes.

Decline if you will, accept if you see fit, but, whatever you do, for heaven's sake be prompt in the doing.—Philadelphia North American.

Australia's Caves.

The Naracoote caves, in south Australia, are situated in the southeastern portion of the state, the principal chamber, known as the "big cave," with its magnificent profusion of beautiful stalactites and stalagmites, forming a dazzling spectacle when illuminated by the magnesium light. In a second chamber, or cave, nature has been prodigal of the mystical ornament with which the whole place abounds. There are pillars so finely formed and covered with such dainty trellis work, curious drippings of lime creating such wonderful masses of lovely scroll work, that the eye is bewildered with the extent and rarity of the adornment. It is like a palace of ice, with a rich profusion of frozen silvery cascades and fountains all around. Western Australia possesses also a couple of extensive cave systems which fairly rival those of New South Wales, Queensland and south Australia.

Something of a Psychologist.

When Jenkins received an autograph copy of his friend Clement's latest book on the "Genetic Theory of Knowledge," he immediately sat down and acknowledged the gift, saying that he "anticipated great pleasure in its perusal."

"Why didn't you read it first?" asked his wife. "Then you could have said something much nicer than that."

"Ethel," said Jenkins as he gave Clement's book a conspicuous place on the library table, "I have a feeling that this is one of the times when my forethought would be better than my hind thought."

Tar and Feathers.

Tar and feathers are not a peculiarly American punishment. Richard the Lion Hearted first proclaimed this punishment. It was when he was setting out for the third crusade that he gave warning that "a robber who shall be convicted of theft shall have his head cropped after the fashion of a champion, and boiling pitch shall be poured thereon, and the feathers of a cushion shall be shaken out on him, so that he shall be known."—St. Louis Republic.
