BASE BALL

St. Johns Defeats Astoria in a Good Game.

Standing of the Tri-City Teams.

Cubs	1	8	.111

Owing to a lack of advertising the Astoria-St. Johns ball game at Hill's park last Sunday was not as well attended as it should have been. As it was there was a good crowd, but there should have been several hundred more. Those who were there saw a good game of ball. In fact it was the best exhibition of the national game played on the local grounds this season, and every fan who was present said so.

The score does not show what the game was. For four straight innings the visitors had men on second and third, but on account of the condition of Charlie Moore's pitching wing they did not score. The almost total absence of errors made the game doubly interesting, and the boys from Astoria have every reason to feel proud of their playing, although the score is against them.

Following is the detailed score:

ST. JOHNS.		R.	BH.	P.O.	A.	E.

SUMMARY.
Struck out, by Moore, 5; Hoover, 3. Bases on balls, off Moore, 2; Hoover, 1. Two-base hits, O. Moore. Double plays, Backus to Gates. Sacrifice hits, F. Gains. Stolen bases, McKay, C. Moore, Clarke Moore, Blossom, 2; Gates, 2. Hit by pitched ball, Porterfield and Blossom. Passed balls, O. Moore, 1; Kelt, 1. First base on errors, St. Johns, 0; Astoria 1. Left on bases, Astoria 4; St. Johns 5. Time of game, 1 hour 15 minutes. Umpire Rankin.

NOTES.
"Tribby" Rankin, the ex-league umpire, held the indicator, and his decisions were well received.

That attempt at a double steal in the sixth by Clark Moore and Porterfield was all right and furnished a lot of amusement, but the boys got their signals mixed.
Backus, the big right fielder of the Astorians came in for his share of the joshing while facing the pitcher, but he made good in the field by taking everything in that came his way.

McKay on second base and Sater at short were the two new faces on the home team.

The base running by the locals in the sixth was the feature of the game.

The locals will go to Astoria next Sunday, and will no doubt be accompanied by a large crowd.

Hill's ball park will have a double header next Sunday, the Frakes and Brewers contending for supremacy.

A week from next Sunday the locals will play the Kelso Tigers at Kelso.

There was not a bet made on the game, and it was one of the best of the season.

Otto Moore started the run getting by hitting safe, stealing second and coming home on Charlie Moore's two-bagger.

By winning two games last Sunday Woodburn now stands near the head of the league. The Frakes did not play.

NAMES

Of Public School Teachers for the Coming Year.

At a meeting of the school board held on the evening of the 13th inst. the following corps of teachers were elected to teach the young idea how to shoot in the St. Johns public schools for the coming year:

HIGH SCHOOL.
Miss Clara A. Boss, principal.
Miss Rundell, assistant.
Miss Ethel G. Waters, assistant.
1st grade, Miss Nellie M. Stevens.
2d grade, Miss Donna Beach.
3d grade, Miss Marge Dunn.
4th grade, Miss Irene Johnson.

CENTRAL SCHOOL.
W. C. Alderson, principal.
1st grade, Miss Hattie Dann.
2d grade, Miss Bertha Lock.
3d grade, Miss Vernie Fanner.
4th grade, Miss May Haley.
5th grade, Miss Viola Peddicord.
6th grade, Miss Fanny Loller.
7th grade, Miss Adelaide Beebe.
8th grade, Miss Mamie Adams.
9th grade, Miss Merle Woodydy.
10th grade, Miss Caimette Haley.
11th grade, Mrs. Burghduff.
12th grade, Miss Anna B. Clark.
13th grade, Miss Edna Bailey.

It will be noted the schools over designated as the high and central schools. The new school now building in the northern part of the city will be known as the high school. Each will be independent of the other.

Among the twenty-one teachers there are several new faces. Miss Clara A. Boss, principal of the high school, is a graduate of the state university of Iowa, and is a teacher of 12 or 14 years experience. Of late she has been teaching at Everett, Wash.

Miss Rummell, assistant principal of the high school, also comes from Iowa, being a graduate of Ames college. She comes highly recommended as a most excellent teacher.

Miss Nellie M. Stevens, teacher of first grade, comes from Oregon City, where she has been teaching in the schools for the past year. She was formerly superintendent of schools at Pendleton, Ore.

Miss Bertha Lock is one of the new teachers in the central school, coming here from Salem. Her work in the capital city is highly spoken of.

Mrs. Burghduff, teacher in the sixth grade, has been principal of the Linton schools for the past year, and her work of graduating a class of sixteen speaks for her ability as a teacher.

Miss Anna Clark, the seventh grade teacher, comes from Roseburg, where she has been successfully engaged for the past two years.

Of the teachers who have been here for the past year too much praise cannot be given them and their labor. Their work has been hard and painstaking, and they have the satisfaction of knowing that it is appreciated by all the patrons of the school.

The reputation of the St. Johns public schools is something of which every citizen may feel proud. The excellence of our schools has become known abroad and the result will be of great benefit in many ways. For this good name the city is indebted to Prof. Alderson and his proficient corps of teachers. They have labored long and earnestly and their labors have been crowned with success. The high standard set by them is attracting the attention of patrons and will be the means of adding many new residents to our thriving city. It is to be hoped every encouragement may be given the present corps of teachers that they may continue their efforts toward attaining a still higher standard of excellence. Especially should they be encouraged in the matter of salary. A well paid teacher is by far the cheapest in the end. There is probably no class of work meriting first class pay than that of teaching school. Keep the teachers well remunerated for their trying work, and Young America will be well taken care of. In conclusion we take off our hat to those who have established the high grade reputation of the St. Johns public schools.

INVALID HEROES.

Great Men Who Did Great Things in Spite of Infirmity.

A record of the magnificent courage of the world's invalid heroes is Sophia P. Shaler's book, "The Masters of Fate." One of these heroes was Green, the English historian, who could sign himself, "Faithfully (feebly, weakly, dizzily, mopeily, faintly, dreamily, dully), J. R. Green." Another was Robert Louis Stevenson, who wrote, "I am about knocked out of time now; a miserable, snuffling, shivering, fever stricken, nightmare ridden, knee tottering, hoast-hoast-hoasting shadow and remains of a man." "But," continues Stevenson, "the medicine bottles on my chimney and the blood on my handkerchief are accidents. They do not color my view of life." It was an octogenarian United States senator who, when asked for rules for longevity, replied, "Acquire a chronic ailment in youth, and nurse yourself through life—and work." Kant furnishes a lesson of this kind. Although the great metaphysician was never entirely well, he performed a prodigious amount of intellectual work and lived to be eighty years of age. "He obtained such control over his discomfiture," writes Mrs. Shaler, "that when suffering from a pain in his head he could concentrate his mind so perfectly on a chosen subject that the pain was treated as if it did not exist. By sheer force of will he would also overcome sleeplessness, caused by rheumatic attacks. 'That those,' he says, 'were not imaginary pains was proved by the glowing redness which was seen the next morning on the toes of my left foot.'"

That pitiful account which Johnson gives of Pope's physical condition rests upon the authority of an old servant of Lord Oxford, who knew him after middle age. "He was then so weak as to stand in perpetual need of attendance. He was extremely sensitive to cold, so that he wore a kind of fur doublet under a shirt of coarse, warm linen, with fine sleeves. When he arose he was invested in bodices made of stiff canvas, being scarcely able to hold himself erect till they were laced, and then he put on a flannel waistcoat. One side of his body was contracted. His legs were so slender that he enlarged their bulk with two pairs of stockings."

Great soldiers have borne afflictions they could neither overcome nor avoid. "Some of the world's foremost commanders—Julius Caesar, Napoleon, the Duke of Wellington and Archduke Charles of Austria—appear to have been epileptics. At the battle of Wagram the archduke, it is said, had a seizure which lasted about an hour. It was then that Napoleon gained the ascendancy. At the critical moment the fate of two great armies was in the hands of two epileptics. Cambryses, the conqueror of Egypt; Alfred the Great and two of the greatest poets of Europe—Tasso and Byron—were subject to this disease, as was also the prophet Mohammed."

There are few cities in the world having more newspapers of varied tongues than Buenos Ayres. Altogether the number of dailies, weeklies, monthlies and irregulars published in the republic fluctuates about 180. Besides, of course, the "national" language, with its wide divergencies from Spanish, there are papers published in Castilian, in Catalan, in Italian, French, German and English, in Basque, in Norwegian and in Danish, in Arabic, Syrian, Hebrew, Servian and in several dialects, while in the Chubut territory the Welsh organ has a considerable sale and influence.—Buenos Ayres Herald.

"Long Ed's" Outfit.
When it was noised about Seymour that "Long Ed" Ames was going to marry Cora Black one of the summer residents thought to have some fun with him.

"Are you going to get married, Ed?"
"That's what Cora says."
"Well, I suppose you've made all the preparations—got your trousseau ready?"
"Long Ed" did not balk at the unusual word, as was expected.

"Yep," he returned; "Aunt Liza she bound my Sunday coat and put a new collar on't, and I've had my shoes tapped."—"Youth's Companion."

Quite a Difference.
"Mary," said a lady to her servant, "I strongly object to your copying Miss Lucy in your dress."
"In what way do I copy her?" asked the cook haughtily.

"Why, the hat you wore yesterday is, I notice, exactly like my daughter's new hat."
"Hexcuse me, mum, it isn't. The feather in my 'at is real hostrich, but Miss Lucy's is only himitation!" —London Telegraph.
