ST. JOHNS WINS AGAIN

Easily Defeats the Brewers in Ball Game Sunday

Standing of the Tri-City Teams.

Astoria	5	10	.333
Brainards	5	12	.294
Trunkmakers	4	11	.267
Brewers	4	14	.222

The local team won an interesting game of base ball at the home grounds Sunday afternoon. The Brewers was the opposing club, but after the first half of the game they were never in the race. Ripley was in the box for St. Johns, but after four runs were made off his delivery in the first two innings he was taken out and Charley Moore took his place. The change put a check on the run getting, only two more Brewers succeeding in crossing the home pan. An unfortunate feature of the game was an assault made upon Empire Rankin by a Brewer fan who did not understand the game. Rankin had just made a decision that according to the rules was perfectly proper, when the disgruntled rooter ran over to the umpire and without warning knocked him down. The attack was a particularly cowardly and despicable act, and was deeply regretted by the ball players. A rowdy like this one proved to be should not attend a ball game unless he can control his temper. It is not healthy for the sport. Empire Rankin is a favorite with St. Johns people, and is, we believe, the fairest umpire in the Tri-City League. Chief of Police Bredeson was Johnny-on-the-spot and at once made for the dastardly one, who was busily engaged in selecting a bat to finish his work. As is usual with Bredeson, when he goes after his man he generally gets him, and this was no exception. The fellow was taken in tow and brought before the proper authorities, who unwisely released him on $10 bail when it should have been at least $50.

Outside of the above discordant note the game was rather exciting, but the only special feature of interest was Charley Moore's three base hit. The score was 10 to 6, in St. Johns' favor. Next Sunday the Apostles will play a double header with the Cubs at Hill's grounds—10 a. m. and 3 p. m. Best Medicine in the World for Colic and Diarrhoea. "I find Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy to be the best remedy in the world," says Mr. C. L. Carter of Skirum, Ala. "I am subject to colic and diarrhoea. Last spring it seemed as though I would die, and I think I would if I hadn't taken Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. I haven't been troubled with it since until this week, when I had a very severe attack and took half a bottle of the twenty-five cent size Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and this morning I feel like a new man." For sale by St. Johns Drug Store.

Our National Forests.

"The Use of the National Forest," a publication just printed by the Department of Agriculture, explains how the forests are created and how their boundaries are drawn. Next, their direct use and value are shown from the point of view of the home-seeker, the prospector and miner, the user of the timber, the user of the range, the user of the water, and other users of forest resources. Third, it is shown how the forests are intended for use, for the production of useable products, and for the establishment and maintenance of home; how in all of them the timber is protected from fire, the water flow is kept steady, the forage on the range is increased and guarded from abuse. Here it is that the great usefulness of the forest is brought out most clearly and strikingly; for the forests are managed by the people in their own interests; and every means is used to meet the desires and wants of all forest users half way by dealing with them mainly directly on the ground and in all cases with the utmost practicable dispatch and freedom from red tape.

ESSAY---GRANDMOTHER

Eva Martell Tells Her Impressions of "Granny."

How often have our mothers and fathers told us about their dear old grandmothers! The descriptions of the old ladies in their lace caps, shawls and dark dresses are very pleasing.

We are so delighted with the stories of the old grandmothers that we decide to visit ours. There is no pleasant old farm to go, for the modern grandmother lives in a furnished flat in a large city.

As we greet her, we are surprised to see how young our grandmother appears. We know she is old, for she has children past forty. We venture to ask her age. With a cry of astonishment she exclaims, "Children, why do you ask? Is it not sufficient for you to know that I do not look older than thirty?" There are no wrinkles on her stately brow. There is no silver hair mingling with the gold. There is no catch or limp in her movements. It is quite needless to state that she visits the beauty doctor frequently.

It is Sunday evening, and we wonder if grandma is going to church as did the grandmothers of long ago. Instead she tells us to prepare for a good time, for she is going to the opera and wishes our company. When all is ready the maid tells that the carriage awaits us. It is so dark in the vehicle that we are unable to see grandma, but the opportunity comes later.

We soon arrive at the theatre and grandmother removes her wraps. Such a sight! What would the grandmothers of long ago say should they see a woman of sixty dressed in this manner? I say dressed—but sleeves, yoke and collar are essential parts of a dress. The garment she wears has none of these necessities. The soft pink of the gown blends beautifully with her delicate complexion. Her shapely arms and throat are adorned with jewels. The youthful-looking figure is at last seated in a box, where all may see and admire our grandmother. EVA MARTELL.

Establish a Bathing Resort.

Somebody is going to get drowned on our water front if the parents of some of the children do not see to it that they stop playing and swimming in the water there. Sunday evening two little fellows were bathing near the ferry landing when one, more venturesome than the other, called to his friend to come out farther. The little fellow responded to the call and they sported in the water a little while, but becoming tired, tried to swim back. He was too far out and yelled for help, and had there not been a man there who took a boat and went hastily to the rescue, the boy would have been drowned. As it was, he was going down and the man was just able to grasp his hands as the boat moved past him. The hot side of a shingle judiciously applied to the sensitive side of the little fellow's trousers by a loving father or mother would undoubtedly prove an effective argument against this practice. Another good thing for our city to do would be to establish a free bathing place where the boys could bathe without offending the public, and yet where there would be no danger of them drowning. The death of one of our boys would more than offset the saving of the expense of a half dozen bathing houses. What do you think, parents? Suppose it was your boy!

Take the Postmaster's Word for it.

Mr. F. M. Hamilton, postmaster at Cherryvale, Ind., keeps also a stock of general merchandise and patent medicines. He says: "Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is standard here in its line. It never fails to give satisfaction and we could hardly afford to be without it. For sale by St. Johns Drug store."
