Too many errors and too many bad plays occurred on both sides to make it interesting for the handful of spectators present. There seemed to be a panion. lack of life and ginger and the game had no snap in it. Whether it was because the locals anticipated a picnic or whether the hot weather was responsible the playing of the Apostles was not up to the standard. The chief trouble was the miserable work at second and third bases, and poor execution with the stick.

The morning game lasted only seven innings. Taylor, formerly of the Trunkmakers, started to do the pitching for St. Johns, but an exhibition of four innings was all the manager would stand for. Charlie Moore then took his place in the box and the run getting stopped at once. One thing was brought out forcibly, and that is if St. Johns expects to pull off more double headers another good pitcher must be supplied. It is too much for one man to do however willing he may be to pitch two games on a hot day The game was devoid of special features, and outside of Taylor, Mc-Kay and Brown's poor showing the locals put up a good fielding game, but were lamentably weak at the of stupid base running in the third of some four hundred chickens, spoiled a good chance of scoring several runs on the part of the locals. The bases were full and one man out. The batter knocked a pop fly to pitcher who muffed it. The man on third hugged the base until he saw the ball was not caught and then made a dash for the home of a show to make it. He either erly. J. B. Vaughn, Elba, Ala., whether the infield fly was caught or not, else it was a case of very bad judgment. One feature, however, is the fact that not an earned run was made on either side. The scorer credited St. Johns with 1 and the Cubs with 2, but they were bles to know the good Herbine has in each instance assisted around the done me." For sale by St. Johns circuit on a base on balls, hit by the pitcher or an error by a player. At the end of the seventh inning the score stood 6 to 3 in the Cubs' favor. The afternoon game was rather of the burlesdue order in which errors and misplays ran riot. The best feature of the game was Charlie Moore's two base hit with the bases full, bringing in three scores. Burnside, the kid umpire, officiated Ellis during both games. Judging from the howls that went up from many of the batsmen his decisions on balls and strikes was very erratic. His work otherwise was as good as could be expected of a kid. The score of the afternoon game was 13 to 6, in favor of St. Johns.

Very Nicely Located.

It will be interesting to the many acquaintances of the family of M L. Rowland, was formerly the en-terprising blacksmith of St. Johns, to learn that they are very nicely settled at Fulton Park. They have leased, indefinitely, a large, pictur-esque home which was built for a judge, and which passed into the hands of the Portland Corbetts, and from them secured by the Rowlands. The house so large, with immense porches, servants quarters, etc., as to resemble an old colonial mansion. The presence of negroes would make the picture complete. Overlooking the Oaks, from a sightly eminence, with a clear view of the mountains, the spot is ideal. The house is surrounded by a thicket of trees and underbrush, while apples, pears and grapes grow in abun-dance. Maple trees yield enough sap for the family. Mrs. Rowland posseses and cultivates a very large raising them by the incubator and brooder process, which occupation is a source of great delight to her.
