Local News.

Eva Gentry from Anabel, visited Wylene Thorndyke Saturday.

Wallace Glover is working on a construction train near Klamath Falls.

Mrs. A. W. Markle entertained a jolly party of Portland folks on Friday evening.

Wm. Henderson and wife have removed from their home near the French Block to Portland.

Miss Muriel Page expects to attend the Walla Walla Adventist College during the winter term.

Charlie Leland recently spent a week in Oregon City. Mrs. Leland spent Sunday evening last at that point.

Willis Moxon spent the week at Seaside visiting his family. Ray Poff is assistant postmaster in his absence.

B. F. Belien begins the erection of his residence in East St. Johns this week. It will be a five-room modern cottage.

John Vinacke of Silverton, Ore., was in St. Johns Monday. He is a Colorado boy and a friend of the Thorndyke family.

Mrs. J. A. Martin of Seattle, who has been visiting her mother, Mrs. Hamilton, of the St. Johns clothing house, returned home Tuesday.

On Sunday evening, Aug. 11th, at 7 o'clock the young peoples' societies of the various churches will hold a union meeting at the Congregational church.

Building permit No. 75 was granted this week to A. Sackett for a residence on lots 3 and 4, block 4, Point View, to front on East Charleston between Modoc and Hudson streets, to cost $400.

Yes, our little chaperone came down from Hood River Saturday, and this week we have been walking straight up like a house. There is nothing quite so good as having somebody to look after a fellow that doesn't understand the joke.

Andrew Guler, living at 725 Allegheny street, who was injured at the Marine Iron works Monday of last week by a sliver of steel running into his foot, is reported getting along all right, and will be out again soon.

"The Indestructible Kingdom" will be the subject under consideration at the United Evangelical church, on Sunday morning, Aug. 11th. No services in the evening, but will join in the union services at the Congregational church.

Mr. A. Forbes of Eureka, Calif., who is a St. Johns property owner arrived here Tuesday noon after an absence of about two years. Mr. Forbes was struck by the removal of many old landmarks, the sites of which are covered by substantial brick and frame business buildings.

J. B. Landrum removed his family to the old Gatton place, Weyerhaeuser tract, on Tuesday. Here Mr. Landrum has fourteen acres and wood enough to cut to keep him busy all the fall. He will buy fifty pigs, and with his cow and duck and chickens proposes to farm.

H. G. Ogden received a message Monday morning that informed him of the death of his stepmother, Mrs. Hattie Ogden, at Mason City, Iowa, which occurred early that morning. Mrs. Ogden had made plans to come to St. Johns in a few weeks and spend the winter here and perhaps remain permanently.

Mr. A. C. Gessler with Calef Bros. Furniture store will open an up-to-date milliner store in the near future. Mrs. C. A. Stucker, lately with the Frakes millinery in Portland, will have charge. This will give our ladies an opportunity to purchase their fall and winter headgear without the trouble of going to Portland.

That the Woodmen of the World are very prompt and reliable in the settlement of their death claims is evidenced by the fact that Mrs. Weeks, whose husband was a member of this lodge and died about a month ago, was paid the full amount of his beneficiary certificate as soon as it was possible for the papers to be made out and handled by the auditing department, receiving the same last Friday. It is one of the very best recommendations an order can have, that it pays its benefits promptly. In this matter the Odd Fellows also deserve the highest praise for the care and sympathy which was eagerly extended to this widow of one of their brothers.

Ex-Gov. J. H. Fletcher and wife left on Thursday morning for a long visit among their relatives in the far East. They go over the Canadian Pacific to Minneapolis, where Mr. Fletcher has a sister. Their next stop will be in Chicago where they will visit relatives, then to New York and P. E. Island, called the "garden of the Gulf" in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, at which point both Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher have relatives. Here they will make quite a stay, and will return via Chicago, Washington, South Dakota and Colorado—a state in which Mr. Fletcher lived for several years—on to Salt Lake City and home to St. Johns via Oregon Short line. Mr. Fletcher promises to send us notes of his trip.

R. W. McKeon has been on a trip to Washington.

Miss Beller returned to her old "sit" Monday morning after a three weeks' vacation.

Lawrence Thorndyke has been holding down Miss Beller's case during her absence and was Johnnie on the spot when it came to sling type.

Mrs. G. M. Hall and son start for Grand Forks, N. D. tomorrow for a visit to the old home. We wish her a pleasant trip and safe return.

Will Snuffin of Redlands, Calif., who is visiting his mother in Portland, came over this week and spent a day with his sister, Mrs. John Crook.

The K. of P. picnic Wednesday was a jolly occasion even if it did rain. We did not get to go as the only kick we have coming, but we will make it up some other time.

D. J. Treiber, the old democratic war horse of Hood (river) county made the Review a pleasant visit yesterday. It was like old times to hear his new version of rum, ruin and republicanism.

Richard Shepard left for Grand Rapids, Mich., Wednesday evening for three or four weeks and now the boys will be gathering up their old tin cans and cowbells to give him a welcome home about the first of September.

On Saturday last the Sabbath School of the Evangelical church enjoyed a picnic at the Portland city park. After a substantial luncheon the children enjoyed the freedom of the park until late in the afternoon. Each one came home happy after their day of sport and ready to go again.

Mrs. S. Bayard Simonton, of Hood River called at this office yesterday, to bear the editor in his den. She thinks it is a dirty Irish trick we are playing on Hood River with our fruit display, and that possibly accounts for the news-sharp's absence; but Mrs. Simonton doesn't understand the joke.

C. W. Arnett, who formerly lived at St. Johns, was here recently and says he has purchased 28 acres more land adjoining the tract he first bought near Clackamas, Oregon. Charlie is like some of the other people we know—all he wants is just the land that joins him all around. We hope he may be lucky with his new purchase.

The municipal court "sat on" one plain drunk this week. He was a pleasant sort of fellow, who was up for the first time, has been a resident here two or three years, has a wife and four little children, all of which facts the kind hearted judge took into consideration and fined the p. d. $5.00 or two days on the rock pile and suspended sentence on good behavior, giving the genial p. d. to understand that he must be good or saltwater will not save him from the execution of the sentence if he is caught again.

C. A. Hickle, an old Tillicum of the writer, has been spending a season in Southern Oregon about Marshfield and other points near there. He says real estate in that section is out of sight. Every stage going there is crowded to the limit with eager seekers after ground floor locations and all coming away is equally loaded with disappointed visitors. The land is platted for miles around, put that is the extent of the improvement in most instances. Marshfield is young and has lots of time to grow in.

Harry Mansfield, whisker sharp, disciple of Izak Walton and all round sport, put the pencil pusher under everlasting obligations yesterday morning by giving him a treat of about a dozen of the nicest quarter-pound catfish that ever jabbed their horns into an angler's fingers, and they were "skinned" already to fry—another feature that was highly appreciated. If there is anything better than these catfish fries, it is more of them. Here's luck, Harry. May every sucker in the creek bite when you go fishing.

Bishop J. M. Thoburn of Bombay, India, was in the city yesterday accompanied by his daughter and granddaughter. They honored the Review with a pleasant call between cars. The good bishop went to India in 1859 and has passed through all the vicissitudes incident to the work of Christianity that great country during the past 48 years. When he went to India there was but a handful of missionaries, where there are now more than 200,000. We sincerely regret that our paper was filled up so as to exclude a more extended notice.

J. M. Price, one of the editors of the Daily Register, Loveland, Colo., was in the city Saturday and made this office a pleasant visit. Mr. Price is well known throughout the Pacific Northwest, and is now general organizer for the Woodmen of the World for Colorado. He, with other organizers of that order, has been in attendance of the Head Camp in recent session in Seattle. This Head Camp has come in a body to Portland where they will prosecute an energetic campaign in the interests of their order, and he tells us they will make a monster demonstration about the last of the present month. Mr. Price is a rascal, and if his colleagues are of the same stripe we predict something doing when they make a cleanup.
