We invite the public to attend the Congregational church Sunday and consider with us the following subjects: 11 a. m., "The Right Kind of Fighters" and at 7:45 p. m., "Guarding Your Most Precious Possession." G. W. Nelson, pastor.

W. H. McCoy, an old Hood River man, an expert painter and decorator, who has been down in California and back east for the past year, came to St. Johns to make his home this week. He has located in a neat little cottage in Point View.

C. L. Wren of southwest Missouri, who has been to the coast several times within the past few years, has brought his family and will make his home somewhere in the vicinity of Portland. He was in St. Johns Wednesday, but is making his home for a short time with his father at 429 Main street, Portland.

The Woodmen of the World put on their initiatory work Tuesday night at their hall and were assisted by the champion drill team of the coast, the W. O. W. Portland. They report a most enjoyable time. There were two candidates and nine more who were not present for various reasons. The two who were present had a good run for their money and are satisfied.

Mrs. H. F. Robertson with her two sons returned to her home in Frankford, Mich. Tuesday of this week after a delightful visit of five months with her father, Mayor Couch. Mrs. Robertson is in love with St. Johns and if she can induce her commander, Captain Robertson to leave the great lakes and come here they will return and make their home here.

The members of the M. E. church have presented a petition to the quarterly conference requesting that body to ask the annual conference of this district to return Rev. F. L. Young to this charge. Mr. Young while he has been here has made many friends, has made his church home very popular with the people of the city, and he and his estimable family are held in the highest esteem. We trust the annual conference may see its way to retain Mr. Young here another term.

Attorney G. J. Perkins received a message yesterday morning stating that his father had been killed by an L. & N. train in Birmingham, Alabama, but the particulars were not given. Mr. Perkins' father was an old Confederate soldier, and at the battle of Peach Tree was shot twice through the body and laid several hours on the battlefield. There were 27 holes in his clothing made by shots of his enemies and there was not a man of the regiment but was either killed or wounded. Several years ago he was working on a scaffold which fell with him and he was seriously injured. It seems to have been his fate to meet with a violent death. Mr. Perkins has not seen his father for some six years and will receive the sympathy of his many friends here.

Call in and subscribe now. E. H. Parker and family, who have been up the valley hop picking returned this week, reporting a fine time and good weather for picking.

Paul Bannon spent a couple days in this city this week. He was employed with a bridge building company operating near Pendleton, and was on his way to Drain where the company has secured a contract.

S. T. Roman, who conducts a job printing establishment at Oregon City, was a caller at this office yesterday. Mr. Roman was formerly employed in this office with J. C. Crome, the founder of The Review.

Whitwood Court is strictly on the map. They have cemented and enclosed two reservoirs, inserted pipes and have two fine streams of pure mountain water located from 100 to 300 feet above their lots. Streets are being laid out and building is going on now. Property here is being sold rapidly and if you want in on the ground floor you will have to hurry.

Mr. J. T. Ellis of 509 Hayes street, an employe of the West Coast laundry, was taken ill Wednesday evening about 9 o'clock and died before morning of heart failure. The funeral will be held at the residence today at 10 a. m., the Knights of Pythias having charge at the house and the W. O. W. at the grave. Interment will be made in Mt. Calvary cemetery.

We have been reliably informed that papers of incorporation for the bank of St. Johns have been filed with the Secretary of state, that the capital will be $50,000, that the bank will do a general banking business, that it will locate in a building to be erected by P. H. Light on Jersey street next to Bonham & Currier's grocery, that some of the wealthiest moneyed men of Portland are back of the institution, that the bank will be fitted with the very best equipment for their work, safety vault, fire and burglar proof for use of depositors. We have also learned that temporary quarters have been secured with S. C. Norton until their building is ready.

A good looking young man came into the office and handed us a copy of the announcement of the Y. M. C. A. of Portland. The cover bears the suggestive declaration that the contents concern "A growing institution for growing men in a growing city." The booklet is beautifully printed and illustrated on fine book paper, neatly bound with the index on the back because the inside is so chock full of information regarding this great association there was no room for it there. Any one wishing for information regarding this fine institution and the great advantages offered the public there may call and read this booklet, or perhaps better address the secretary of the Y. M. C. A., A. L. Veazie, Portland, for one of your own.

Got Too Gay.

Two young men from Portland, old enough to vote and know better, thought to have some fun in the little city they were visiting, and when passing the fire bell Monday morning one of them ran up to the rope and gave it a jerk with all his might, then dodged back to the sidewalk. Unfortunately for the gentleman, Mayor Couch and Recorder Esson saw the little by-play and promptly ran out to intercept the gay young men. At the same time Captain Bredeson ran out from his office to answer the alarm and the mayor pointed out the Portland-lander to him and said to hold him. The captain made one of his favorite baseball sprints down the sidewalk, captured his man and brought him before the recorder.

The visitor was too full of bug juice or pretended to be so, to talk intelligently and the recorder instructed that he be given lodgings in Hotel Bredeson for a few hours until he sobered up enough to do business. About three hours in the cooler satisfied the gentleman, and he came before the municipal judge with a baby cry of not meaning any harm, was having a little fun. The judge said that kind of fun was just a little expensive and would cost him $10 or three days in jail. Not liking the accommodations of Hotel Bredeson, the friend of the gay young man reluctantly pungled up the sawbuck and paid for his friend's freedom.

Our officers are to be commended for their action. If every fool that comes to St. Johns soaks his hide full of bug juice and happens by the fire bell should give the rope a pull, would either have the fire boys on the jump every day, or being fooled often would fail to respond when there was a fire. Every one should have sense enough to let those ropes alone unless there is cause for a fire alarm.
