Miss Pearl York, 814 North Fillmore has been quite ill this week with that fashionable malady, grip.

Goodrich & Goodrich, architects, are preparing plans for a six-room bungalow for Mr. Moore, to be erected in St. Johns.—Daily Abstract.

Eighty-four deaths from pneumonia during January is the record for Columbus, Ohio, a city about the size of Portland. We have heard of but one here.

The Modern Woodmen will hold their ball in the Bickner hall instead of the M. W. A. hall as announced last week. Please do not forget, Bickner hall.

Any of the members of the chain gang or Rebekahs who wish a photograph of the Odd Fellows home can get one at this office for a short time, price 50 cents.

Mr. Mulligan of the Portland Journal was in the city yesterday looking for news. He says that enterprising Journal intends to give St. Johns more attention in the future.

J. W. Reeves, the Fessenden-Jersey street grocer, has been suffering from that excruciatingly painful ailment, gallstones, and it is thought will be obliged to undergo an operation.

We were hardly done boasting of our freedom from pneumonia when we learned of the illness of Mrs. Yeska at the corner of Hudson and Oswego, who was quite ill but was thought to be improving.

W. E. Storlia, who is supposed to have relatives here or in Portland, is dangerously ill at Hot Springs, Ark., and desires to get word to his people so that he can communicate with them.

Mothers' club meets at Central school Friday, Feb. 14, 2:30 p. m. Miss Butler, of the juvenile court, desires to talk to the mothers on matters of interest to this community. Mrs. G. M. Hall, pres.

We wish to call the attention of the workers at the different mills that every Tuesday evening the office of the city recorder will be open so that they may register after working hours. There will be one of the prettiest little girls of the city to wait on you, now we know you will come.

The W. R. C. of George Wright Post are going to give an entertainment Friday Feb. 21, which will be something worth going to hear. The entertainment will be furnished by the Western Academy of Music. Mrs. Carrie Courter, president of George Wright W. R. C. will furnish tickets to any one desiring them.

Butterworth and Scarbrough, the jewelry and drug men have the nicest, neatest rooms in the city. It is as clean as a pin and their stocks of goods are just as fine as their environments. These boys are up to the minute in their lines and you make a mistake if you do not see them before buying anything in their lines.

D. R. Norton, one of our old Hood River friends, was in the city this week looking it over. Mr. Norton recently sold his business in Eastern Oregon and if he sees anything that looks particularly good from a business point of view will come to St. Johns, as he likes the looks of the town first rate. Mr. Norton is 61 in every respect and we would be particularly pleased to see him locate here.

Harris & Son, merchants of Linnton, who were delivering goods Monday met with a serious accident which might have proven fatal. They were driving up one of the steep places in that city of high altitudes, when one of the horses balked and threw the vehicle over a 20-foot bank, where it landed bottom up and drivers under it. Both were badly bruised but not dangerously injured. It was a close call.

George Campbell and wife, who are making a tour along the coast, stopped several days with their brother-in-law, Leroy H. Smith, and left for Seattle the first of the week. While here they purchased two pieces of property and we would not be surprised to see them return in a short time and make their permanent home here. They have a very high opinion of St. Johns.

Brother L. A. Long of the Hillsboro Argus was in the city last week but we regret that we were out of the office at the time he called. Mr. Long has been very successful with the Argus and has leased the paper for a year to give him an opportunity to rest up and investigate some gold mines he is interested in in Nevada. We hope he may strike it rich in the mines, as we are afflicted with the same disease to a limited extent.

We notice quite a large number of buildings, larger or smaller, being erected in the city limits for which we do not find permits issued. Such buildings which cost more than fifty dollars are required by ordinance to have permits issued. This is the only way the city can have supervision over the construction of the buildings within its limits and there is a penalty attached to failure to procure the proper permit.

Mrs. W. E. Niles and Miss Reams of Milwaukie, and Miss Teresa Becker of Oregon City called on Mrs. G. Ward yesterday.

All members of Holmes lodge Knights of Pythias are urged to come to roll call on the 21. Bring some friend who would make a knight.

Our business men should read and consider secretary Perkin's communication. The club could be made the agent of wonderful advancement in St. Johns if the business men would take hold of it.

The services at the Methodist church Sunday will be along the lines of old-fashioned revival work. The pastor is assisted by Rev. W. S. Kerr, who is both a singer and a preacher. Mr. Butterworth will sing at the evening service. All are welcome.

Editor Review: Knowing that you are ever ready to help along that which is for the public good, I thought I would like to say a few things through the Review in regard to the St. Johns public reading room and its needs. The public library of Portland furnishes all the books, pays the librarian all she gets, and we are supposed to furnish the room, pay for fuel and light. Now we have some 13 periodicals that will either have to be renewed or dropped, as our time will expire. What is wanted by the reading room at this time is a little help in a financial way. Knowing that the people of St. Johns ever stand ready to help along that which will help to educate and elevate the moral as well as the intellectual standing of their people, we appeal to you for aid in order to carry on the work. There will be cards distributed by all churches and at the reading room and by the officers of the association. Now if every one will subscribe just what they can afford to pay monthly, if only 10c, it will help carry on the good work. We are going to try and get our reading room on the ground floor at 107 S. Jersey street and just as soon as the rooms are fitted up we will try and arrange for an evening entertainment so we can meet you all and talk over the affairs of the library. Hoping every one will try and give what aid they can by word as well as deed, we remain your servants,
Com. free reading room.

To the editor of the St. Johns Review: I would consider it a kindness if you would caution the good citizens of St. Johns that the regular meeting of the St. Johns Commercial club will be held in its assembly room Wednesday evening, February 19, and urge the importance of all public spirited men being present. Never in the history of St. Johns has so many weighty problems of public interest confronted the people and it is essential that they should be thoroughly considered and acted upon intelligently, not by some political faction only, but by all the people, irrespective of politics or religion. The club rooms were furnished and are maintained for the purpose of having a place where business men may meet and express their ideas without being ridiculed or accused of playing politics.
G. J. Perkins, secretary.

Congregational Entertainment

The entertainment given under the auspices of the ladies of the congregational church in Bickner's hall Wednesday evening is said to have been a particularly pleasing event. There were about 200 present, we are told, and the interest was intense throughout.

There were 14 numbers and every one was called back and in one instance, that of Mr. Butterworth, the audience would not be satisfied until he had given them three solos. The ladies quartette and the male quartette are both spoken of as having covered themselves with glory.

These good ladies have demonstrated conclusively that it is not necessary to go out of St. Johns for talent to put a high class entertainment on the boards.

Hold to Water Front.

George L. Baker, according to the Journal, a councilman of Portland and a very observing one, has made a tour of the coast and makes the following statement: "Portland and Sacramento are the only cities on the Pacific coast which do not own a part of their waterfront privileges," Mr. Baker said this morning. "From talking with men in the shipping business while in the south I find that many of them do not like the idea that Portland's municipality has been neglectful in this way. They argue that owing to the fact that the wharf rights are controlled by the railroad and other companies their business has been hindered to a large extent."

The point we wish to make is that St. Johns should hold every foot of water front she has and acquire every foot that she can. If she does not a half century from now the people will be cursing the management that allowed these holdings to slip through their fingers.

Swift's are Coming.

The Swifts are coming if we may believe half of what the big dailies say, with the biggest packing plant that has ever been operated in the west. The cartoonist on the front page of Tuesday's Oregonian represents the transaction by a big fat steer branded $3,500,000, Swift plant making a jump from Chicago to Portland and old man Portland holding up his hands in adoration of the golden calf, even some of Portland's roses held up their heads to welcome the bovine deity.

There are few who will not welcome the big industry for the impetus it will give business in this section, for this one plant will mean others and while Portland interests as indicated by the illustration on page ten of the same paper would cut St. Johns out of the deal entirely she will do well to recognize the fact that St. Johns will have something to say herself about that. The pay roll of the Swift company here will be from $1,000,000 to $1,500,000 during the next year and there will be permanent employment given to from 1000 to 1500 men, who with their families will make a population of more than 5000.

Still Stuck on Juneau.

We are in receipt of another letter from our friend, J. C. Brooks now in Juneau, Alaska, also a copy of the Daily Alaska Dispatch, a very prosperous looking sheet.

Brother Brooks seems more than ever infatuated with the locality of Juneau and from what he says this Juneau must be a sort of a freak so far as climate is concerned. He says he wears the same clothing that he wore here except that he uses a lighter overcoat, and that he never suffers from cold. There has been but little snow and no wind to speak of except on the day he wrote, February 2, when, following a five-inch snow fall there was considerable wind.

The bill of fare he says is varied, sometimes it is pork and beans, cornbread and bacon and if one is particular he may have white bread and butter, eggs, etc., and the butter and eggs are not the packed variety either. Such meals are 35c at the Polar Bear cafe where he dines and his cook cannot be beat he declares.

The aborigines about Juneau are much the same as those we have here, but further along the coast they get fatter and have been accused of several murders.

Brother Brooks says there is no sickness in Juneau and the weather all that could be desired, meadow larks singing, but up in the Tanana district he says the thermometer went down to 65 and 70 below and on extremely cold nights they have to attach a piece of gas pipe to the lower part of the thermometer so that the alcohol may go low enough. He also tells of another feature. A man there who goes by the name of Iceberg Joe goes out into the channel and catches small icebergs as they come from the glacier 40 miles away, tows them to the shore, cuts them up and sells the ice to the people. This beats the Harris Ice company a mile.

We are glad to get these letters from Mr. Brooks as they correct some erroneous ideas about Alaska.
