FRIDAY, JULY 24, 1908.

John Bull is after our meat trusts by admitting Canadian cattle free to England. Don't care a cent. Not stuck on bull beef anyway.

When you wake up with a bad, broken taste in your mouth, and you tired feeling along your spinal column, don't get scared and imagine that you are oxidized. It is just the same old business that has been making life a burden to you.

Fishop Potter the great Episcopal divine, died on the evening of the 21st. He was a leader in the work of his church for many years, and was considered authority on all matters pertaining thereto. He was 74 years old at the time of his death.

The Sultan of Turkey has granted a constitution to the people; but in answering the objections of some of his advisors he declared it would be easy to annul the constitution when order was finally restored. This does not sound much better than many of the Sultan's promises.

The court of appeals set aside the fine of $29,000,000 and remanded the case for a new hearing. It is much as we expected. Two or three million each to the three judges is cheaper than 29 millions to the government. Then it saves the disgrace of the fine, which is worth a little.

General Blume, the great German military expert says that a European war would necessarily involve four at least of the great powers, and the expense to each of them would be no less than $1,500,000,000 per year in outlay, to say nothing of double that amount of loss from the damage to commerce. He stated further that the result would be that the United States would be supreme among the nations of the earth. There will be a lively time for Uncle Sam when the "blame is on the heater." We think the good Dutch general is holiering before he is hurt.

Something should be done about the free ferry proposition. It does not seem like a square deal for a hundred or more of our representative citizens and free holders to sign a petition asking the council to take steps toward calling a special election for the purpose of establishing a free ferry and then have the petition put on file and no action taken on the same. If the council has no conviction in the matter, or are afraid to express them, what is the use of having a council? If a petition signed by over a hundred citizens is not worth acting upon, double the number of names can just as easily be secured. Action in this matter is what is wanted. Let the question be decided one way or another. Certainly a free ferry is a thing badly needed. Let us have it, gentlemen of the council.

FRUIT GROWING.

There is no one thing about the average city home that will give a greater return of enjoyment or that will so conduce to the good health of the householder as a fruit garden. The benefit will come in two ways: If the garden is properly cared for during the entire year. Really one can find few kinds of exercises that will be more beneficial to the health than a few moments spent every morning in the fruit garden agitating the soil about the plants and bushes. One gets to look forward with pleasure to the hour in the garden. It does not follow that because it is a fruit garden, one may not grow some vegetables therein also. Many fruit will admit of the growing of early small vegetables between the rows and be all the better for it. When this is done, however, there would be an abundance of plant food in the soil.

But the feature that appeals to the covetous the strongest is the delicious fresh fruits and vegetables. There is none so good as those taken fresh from the soil. There are no wilted, shriveled, stale fruits. Every berry, every vegetable is crisp and carries an aroma and flavor not present with the stuff purchased in the stalls of the markets.

Try it next year. It is not too late to do something this year even. Where you have water for the lawn a fine bed of crisp radishes or lettuce may be grown even during this warm weather and grown so quickly as to surprise you. Now is a good time to clear the strawberry bed of all weeds and by irrigating grow an extra large crown for next season. One can easily double their crop by a little judicious cultivation and care from now on until winter. In the fall, too, is a good time to put out a bed of onions for early green onions. Pans planted late in the winter will be weeks earlier than your neighbors' that they plant in the spring.

MOVING PICTURES.

Messrs. W. L. Smith and David Miller, with their fine moving picture machine have associated themselves with the rink management and will install their machine which is fitted with the very latest in films and dissolving views. These films are received direct from the New York factory and are not a lot of second hand films as are often used in such shows. These films are changed three times each week and the very best subjects are selected.

The gentlemen who are arranging this amusement hall are making radical changes in the building, remodeling the front, putting in 200 opera chairs in the balcony, where one may sit in comfort and enjoy the moving picture show. There will be a general admission charge of 10 cents, which admits to the balcony and the moving pictures. Skates 15 cents per pair. The management propose to give a benefit for the churches, one afternoon of each week. There will be the best of order kept at the rink at all times and the patronage of the best people of the city is solicited. The rink will be open from 2 to 5 every afternoon and from 8 to 11 every evening. Four large electric fans have been installed which will keep the temperature of the rink comfortable.

MR. J. H. LEIPER OF PORTLAND

Writes Letter Which May be of Great Interest to Skin Sufferers of this City.

For about 15 years I had been afflicted with Eczema and had tried many remedies to very little purpose, and no cure. Somewhat in desperation, I tried D. D. D. I was soon convinced before the bottle was half empty that I had at last found medicine that was not a deception. I persevered. Now I have a little left of a third bottle and am entirely cured of the Eczema, and for seven months have had no symptoms of its return.

The annoyance was so great and long-continued, and the cure so complete that I feel it my duty to make known the above facts to the public that others similarly afflicted may make trial of this remedy.

J. H. Leiper, Field Secretary Northwest Sabbath association, 160 Grand Ave. North, Portland, Oregon.

What D. D. D. did in this case it ought to do for you. This wonderful remedy is now recognized by the foremost physicians and scientists as the quickest and surest cure for Eczema and skin disease of any nature. This remedy is as safe and pleasant to use as pure water, and is applied directly to the afflicted parts, leaving no bad odor or sticky salvy substance. The first application gives INSTANT RELIEF, and as far as we have been able to investigate quickly effects the most astonishing and permanent cures wherever rightly used. If you are a sufferer from any kind of it: or skin disease of any nature do not fail to try this remarkable remedy. Pamphlets on skin diseases and their cure, diet, exercise, bathing, etc., free at our store, St. Johns Pharmacy.

The Weber Case.

The courts have found Henry Weber guilty of embezzlement—in converting to his own use money paid him supposedly for company use, and the sentence imposed by the court was seven years.

The news has gone forth to the world that Nevada justice is not an empty name. The investing public has in this incident assurance that its money will be safe in the care of the companies that are developing this great mineral domain.

In the earlier days of Goldfield, during the period of mad speculation and pernicious wild catting, there were many Henry Webers—and worse. Money invested in "securities" was frequently diverted to other uses than sinking shafts and installing machinery. Too frequently "office" and "mine" expenses were the reverse of their proper ratio.

Happily such a condition is becoming eliminated now. The harpies have flown with their ill-gotten spoils and left the field to the legitimate operators, who always were in the majority.—Goldfield News, June 27th.

ON THE WEST SIDE

One of the Most Important of Portland Suburbs

"Follow the trail of the trolley" is a popular slogan adopted by realty dealers all over the country. The Willamette heights were considered too far away for residence sites a few years ago simply because there was no car service there. The best country developers are the railroads and electric lines. When the United Railways company got a franchise for an electric line to Cavalry cemetery and to the north, speculators began to sit up and think. Many doubted the Co.'s intention to extend their line down the west side of the Willamette to Linnton, and it was not till they read the announcement in the Oregon Journal that the United Railways had broken ground for their Linnton line that they were convinced that at last the hills to the north would be skirted by the trolley. It has just dawned on the skeptical that at last there is a solution to the problem of populating possibly one of the most beautiful and picturesque stretches of river frontage to be found between the two greatest oceans.

Heretofore people could go to suburban additions to the east, north-east and southeast for upwards of seven miles and have nice homes away from the busy center. But the north part of West Portland never offered inducements to the home site seeker, consequently not to the speculator or investor and up till now people could not be induced to invest on the west side of the city outside the northern boundary of the city. The solution of the problem being now solved by the new electric line down the Linnton road skirting the verdant, rolling hills seven miles along the Willamette to Linnton and even beyond it, there is great activity in that direction and options on property along the whole course are said to be secured.

Linnton, that picturesque and thriving little town seven miles below Portland and nearly opposite St. Johns, is jubilating over the assurance that it will be closely connected with Portland by a rapid trolley line.

Said a resident of Linnton to a Journal representative: "Why just imagine what the new Linnton electric line will mean even for the people living across the river at St. Johns. They can come across by ferry, catch a trolley car and get up to the city a quarter of an hour quicker than by going up the peninsula, through East Portland and over the bridges."

That Linnton is on the eve of an era of prosperity is no longer doubted. A visit to the river town will convince any one that there is a great future for it. Prosperity will simply force itself on it because it has natural advantages which are bound to be recognized by manufacturers, when it is considered that Linnton has a deep harbor throughout the channel being close to the west shore. It is reported that negotiations are on for an extensive factory plant just north of the town.

The Columbia Steel company some time ago purchased a large tract with a big water frontage on the deep channel just south of Linnton, and it is understood that they will build a commodious plant on the site. This company is the only steel casting concern west of Chicago.

The Glen Harbor Realty company will have on the market in a few days 232 acres with over 1600 feet of deep channel frontage immediately adjoining the extensive holdings of the Columbia steel plant just south of Linnton and below the Claremont tavern. That portion of the tract between the St. Helens and Germantown road will be improved and the streets graded and water service put in.

The West St. Johns Land company had an eagle eye on the west side of the Willamette. They picked out a 200-acre tract just below the site of the Willamette bridge and platted in April, 1907. Thus Whitwood Court became a pretty suburban site on the west side. This tract is attracting considerable attention by investors, and its future importance is assured. The new electric line down the west bank runs through this property also, and the rapid service to and from the city will build it up. With such a factor and the North Bank road completed, great things are expected in this district. The view from Whitwood Court is very fine, making a desirable residence site.—Sunday's Oregon Journal.

Goldfield Man Shows Up An Eastern Magazine.

Following is a letter sent to Everybody's Magazine by W. H. Paul of Goldfield, showing the unfairness with which mining is treated by this one eastern magazine in particular, although its methods are characteristic of the entire class of publications to which it belongs. It should be stated, too, that Everybody's has neither printed Mr. Paul's letter nor acknowledged its receipt.

Goldfield, Nev., Mar. 2, 1908. Everybody's Magazine, New York, N. Y.

Gentlemen: At the risk of being an unwelcome inquirer, I want to ask that you advise your readers through your "Straight Talk" columns the cause of the prejudice you in common with other magazines manifest toward the mining industry. One would think you class all mining with Louisiana lottery schemes, and fail to realize that the security back of the paper currency of our government is the gold and silver in the vaults at Washington, and that this gold and silver was mined, and did not grow on bushes, nor was it made in one of the "System's dollar mills," as Lawson calls it. In the January number of Munsey's, on page 473, in a hysterical article evidently intended to bolster up the Wall street chronicle market, the editor says "Hundreds of millions of dollars of the people's money is wasted annually in mining and other worthless stocks, etc." That sounds much like the clause in our Constitution which classes women with paupers and insane persons as having no vote in these United States. Is it fair to condemn an industry that annually adds untold millions of new wealth to the nation because of human cupidity and desire to "get rich quick" many people listen to the siren song of some glib promoter without exercising the precaution that they would if they were buying a peck of apples? I have made several efforts to get your advertising department to insert an advertisement of treasury stock in an undeveloped mine requiring funds for the construction of a mill in order to treat its ores more economically on the ground, and while you refuse to accept the advertisement, I can point out many schemes to defraud the unwary, advertised in your classified columns, and which on their face look suspicious. The mill has been completed; is now turning out gold, and the stockholders will soon receive annually in dividends the amount of their investment. Such opportunities are not infrequent. I am constantly traveling through the various mining-camps of this state, and tell you that if people will only exercise the ordinary horse sense they would in buying anything else, there would be less prejudice against the mining industry. The National Banker is authority for the statement that the dividends paid by gold and silver mines are greater than the dividends paid by all the banks in the United States, and that the dividends paid by our copper mines alone are greater than the dividends paid by all the railroads of the country. Statistics show that 52 per cent of all the tonnage handled by the railroads of the country is the product of the mines. True, much money is lost by unwise investors who blindly put their money into any mining proposition because of the desire to speculate, but how will these losses compare with those in industrial and railroad stocks, insurance companies and banks in late years? Dun's and Bradstreet's commercial agencies are authority for the statement that 35 per cent of all legitimate mining investments fail, while a much greater percentage of all commercial investments fail. Fortunes are made and lost in speculation on Wall street without the addition to or loss of a dollar of this world's wealth, and then I wonder how the losses sustained by unwise investors in "fake" mining stocks compare with the ruin annually brought to thousands of homes through playing with loaded dice in that dollar mill you New Yorkers call Wall street? That you are not fair minded enough to open your advertising columns to mining, even if it necessitates some expense and labor to investigate and eliminate the propositions not backed or endorsed by reputable people, is to be wondered at. Sit down and do a little thinking.

I would be glad to have you publish this letter, with your answer, but if you do, don't butcher it; and I don't want a year's subscription free, being able to pay for my reading matter. The absolutely safe opportunities for making money in this state in the cleanest business on earth are simply marvelous, and I shall consider myself very well repaid if you will publish this letter in defense of an industry that is the backbone of the state of Nevada and the nation as well. Further, I will not hide behind initials or a nom de plume. Yours truly, W. H. PAUL, General Agent D. & R. G. R. R.
