

THE GRACEFUL ANTELOPE.

He Seems Born of Light and Nursed in the Lap of the Wind. For me there have been no fairer days than when the antelope skimmed the plain with legs nebulous with speed on that low, gentle center whose deceptive motion left the best aimed bullet far behind. For the antelope is the only large animal that is wholly spirituelle. Graceful as he may seem when spurning the ground and swinging high over rocks and brush, to rebound like a ball at the next touch of earth, there is still something earthly about the deer. But the antelope seems born of light and nursed in the lap of the wind. All his movements show that he was meant for the air rather than the earth. Though Nature made a slight change in giving him legs instead of wings, she made no mistake, and her work has always been the wonder and love of the hunter. When troubles arise the deer takes to the harbor of the hills, but the antelope steers for the open sea. The farther the plain sweeps the more the more this gay rover loves its safety, and a run that to the deer would mean death is to him only a "breather" that warms him up to the race. Whether illumined the horizon like a shooting star in the clear morning air of the great plain or looming high, like a stilled ghost in the mirage of glowing midday, he is the most charming of all things that run, and his passing has left a great void that nothing can fill. The few that are left, protected as they are, give no idea of the effect produced on a lover of the open by one of the great hands of the days that were, strung out in a film almost like vapor with distance and speed, and vanishing as if in air over the land's outlying verge.—T. S. Van Dyke in Recreation.

THE NUMBER SEVEN.

It Rarely Occurs in the Science of Weights and Measures. How would you define "seven"? The Standard Dictionary says it is "one more than six." Webster's calls it "one more than six or one less than eight." The abridged Webster says it is "five and two," and the Century's definition runs "one more than six; the sum of three and four." In metrology—that is, the science of weights and measures—seven is comparatively rare. The seven days of the week form a striking example of its use, however. Scholars have found, too, that the Egyptian cubit contained seven hundredths. "Cubit" is from the Latin "cubitus," the elbow, or the distance from the elbow to the end of the middle finger. The Roman cubit was one and a half Roman feet or 17.4 English inches, but the royal Egyptian cubit, used in the building of the pyramids of Gizeh, perhaps 3500 B. C., has been learned from measuring sticks found in the tombs to have been 20.64 English inches. The ordinary cubit was divided into six palms or handbreadths, and the use of seven in the Egyptian cubit is ascribed by some investigators to a probable custom of placing the hand behind the elbow when measuring along walls with the forearm and leaving it on the wall until the arm was laid down again. It should be added that there are many other cubits of widely different values, both ancient and modern.—Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

ROUGH ON THE ARCHITECT.

"When I got the order to design a big wholesale house for a firm that has stores in five cities besides New York naturally I was elated," said an architect. "I'll plan a building that is bound to be satisfactory," I said to myself, "and then they will give me the commission for those new stores they expect to put up in those other five cities." "Well, I did turn out a splendid store—a store that was admired by everybody in the wholesale trade. My patrons were pleased, too, but instead of giving me an order for those other buildings they simply used the same plans over and over again and built all their houses alike. That's what I call playing a low down trick on a fellow."—New York Globe.

PERFECTLY RECKLESS.

The members of the church voted that their dearly beloved and devoted pastor should have a vacation, and so he decided that he would visit a brother worker in the neighboring village. This good brother, recognizing his fellow worker in the Lord way back among the congregation on Sunday morning and wishing to show every courtesy, asked him to lead in prayer. But the visitor calmly replied: "You'll have to excuse me, dear brother. I'm on my vacation."

FRANCES AND DOLLARS.

We like to read French stories, but every time a French one is mentioned we stop to turn them into dollars. "She had 17,000 francs per year in the funds," the story will say, whereupon we stop to divide seventeen by five—to turn the francs into dollars and find out how much money the heroine had.—Atchison Globe.

THE OCCASIONAL HERO.

"He woke up one morning to find himself famous." "Well?" "But he had forgotten all about him by the time the 4 o'clock extra was out."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

WORSER OFF.

"The bachelor is worse off than the married man? How do you make that out?" "The married man is afraid of only one woman; the bachelor is afraid of all of them."—Houston Post.

DIDN'T GET A CHANCE.

She—What did papa say when you asked for my hand? He—Why, he couldn't say a word. She—He couldn't? He—No; your mother was there!—Yonkers Statesman.

LINCOLN'S HOUSE.

An Occasion When He Did Not Recognize It at First Sight. "Mrs. Lincoln played a good joke on her husband when he was practicing law and journeyed about from court to court on horseback," says Major Bittinger. "Those trips often took several weeks at a time. "On one of these trips Lincoln was gone for about four weeks. He returned late one night. Stopping his horse, he dismounted at the usual place. He started to go into the house and then stopped. Although he was a man of temperance, he thought he must have been imbibing on the way some time that day, for before him stood a building he had never seen before. He thought it over for a minute and then went across the street and knocked at a friend's door. They were in bed, and some one sang out: "Who is it?" "Abraham Lincoln," was the reply. "I been looking for my house. Can you tell me where it is? Guess I must have been lost. I thought it was just across the way. When I went away the building was one story high, and now it is two." "It was explained to him that during his absence Mrs. Lincoln had added another story. He laughed and went back to the strange house." He used to tell the joke on himself many times, according to the major.—National Magazine.

CONTINUOUS SHOWS.

They Were Started by B. F. Keith in a Boston Store. It was in the month of January, 1883, that Mr. B. F. Keith, who had been studying the show business with far-seeing eyes for many years, presented in a store that he had leased in Boston, the first continuous show ever seen on any stage. He paid his performers $20 a week for a single turn and $40 for double and required them to give eight or nine turns a day. His "top liner" or chief attraction was a pound and a half baby. The doors of his playhouse were thrown open at noon, and from that time until half past 10 at night the performance went on without interruption. Patrons were allowed to spend the entire day in the theater, and at first so many availed themselves of this opportunity to get a substantial filling of amusement at a small cost that Mr. Keith realized that he must either abandon the idea of a continuous entertainment or else invent some method by which the audience could be driven out of the building and placed made for those outside who were waiting for admittance. Necessity is the mother of invention, especially when it is mated with sharp Yankee wit, and it was thus that what is known as "the chaser" came into the world.—James L. Ford in McClure's Magazine.

A GHOST IN A CLOCK.

Basinogatoke provides a remarkable story of a ghost in the form of a clock. At the approach of midnight each night the otherwise peaceful "grandfather" becomes inhabited by a spook. The ticking changes into a deep and peculiar thumping, the clock increases in stature, while a pair of gray feet protrude from beneath its base. Passing through transitional stages the thumping is replaced by a spasmodic breathing, and upon the stroke of 12 the pendulum door opens, revealing an enormous, hairy gray hand with mal-shaped fingers. The clock face disappears, displaying a frightful gray head, large and round, with abnormally long, pale blue eyes. Beyond a quiet stroll, which causes weird tapings along the landings during the night, the apparition is inoffensive and is said to prove of great service in sending every one early to bed.—London Tit-Bits.

ONE VIEW OF SAVING.

Ik Marvel, author of the "Reveries of a Bachelor," was all his life opposed to the modern commercial spirit. A young disciple from the west once visited the aged writer in his New England home. The youth, a poet, said he thought he would put away his verses and write magazine love stories, so as to be able to save money. But Mr. Mitchell frowned and shook his head. "Saying," he said, "is the mania for depriving yourself of things which you want now for fear you may not have things which you won't possibly want forty years hence."

HORSE SENSE.

A horse is so constructed by nature that he has no desire to do anything which will injure his health. He walks around whatever is not good for him and without a struggle. But man is so constructed that whatever is not good for him he wants to do. He eats too much, and he eats too fast. He drinks while eating, and there is nothing proper that he does without an effort. Why this distinction in favor of a horse? It may be said that a horse has only instinct, while a man has reason, which he should use. It is a pity that man was not given more instinct and less reason.—Atchison Globe.

THE USEFUL PIG.

A Colored Woman's Story of a Trade and Its Results. A colored woman was being examined at a conference at Tuskegee. "Do the people in your community own hogs?" came the query from Mr. Booker Washington. "I think they're fixing to own 'em, sah." "But do they own them?" "A heap of times you can't jest tell, sah. But they's holding 'em down." "Do you own your home?" "Yes, sah, I do," proudly. "And I can tell you jest how I got it. I swapped a puppy dog for it." "Tell us about it." "Well, it was this way. When I started I didn't have anything at all but jest a little galley puppy dog. "I took the dog over to my brother-in-law's. He had eight little bits of pigs, oh, jest so little, and I swapped the puppy with him for one of the pigs. It was such a little pig that it didn't look like it would live, but I nursed it good, and I prayed to the Lord to make that little pig come forward to me good, and the pig lived and grew. "The first year I turned her out, and when she came back in the fall she brought me seven little pigs with her. That was my start. I've never had to buy any more since. This winter I've killed three hogs, and I've got another at home now ready to kill. I've got forty acres of land now, all paid for, and a house, and it all come from that one little piggy." "Do you hear that?" exclaimed Mr. Washington. "You men? Some of you'd better go back home and swap your dogs for pigs!"—Philadelphia Ledger.

THE GREAT PYRAMID.

It Illustrates the Wonderful Ability of the Ancient Egyptians. The cost of the labor and material necessary to duplicate the great pyramid of Gizeh at the present time would amount to considerably more than $50,000,000, according to a paper read before the Society of Engineers in New York city by E. S. Wheeler, says the American Architect. The cost of the material alone is estimated at $48,000,000. This structure, one of the wonders of the world, is founded on solid rock at a depth of about 120 feet below the surface level and rises to a height of 454 feet. Its base covers an area of almost fifteen acres. Mr. Wheeler's scheme for the reproduction of this pyramid contemplates first the setting of a base of concrete. This would represent about 2,000,000 cubic yards of material and would cost at least $10,000,000. The estimate for the superstructure is about $38,000,000, and it would contain 3,313,000 cubic yards of backing stone and 140,000 cubic yards of facing stone. Mr. Wheeler's estimate of labor is 24,000,000 days. These figures are cited to show the great engineering skill of the Egyptians and the fact that no task in construction appeared to be too large for a people whose extant monuments showed their patience and ability to overcome obstacles that would daunt even the modern engineer.

CURIOUS EPITAPHS.

Old New England graveyards are not the only ones which contain curious epitaphs. The old time dweller of Maine who "died of a falling tree," as his headstone asserts, had a fellow in misfortune in faroff Austria, as is shown by W. A. Ballie-Grohman's "The Tyrod and the Tyrolese." A wooden slab, painted with the representation of a prostrate tree under which lies a man in spread eagle attitude, bears testimony to the violent death of "Johann Lemberger, aged fifty-two and three-quarters years. This upright and virtuous youth was squashed by a falling tree." The record of Michael Gerstner is even more succinct and convincing. He "climbed up, fell down and was dead."

RESOLUTION. It is resolved by the city of St. Johns, That it deems it expedient and necessary to improve Pittsburg street, from the Ferry slip at the foot of Third street to the East line of Crawford street in the city of St. Johns in the following manner, to wit: By lowering same to subgrade, and by placing a strip of crushed rock 16 feet wide in the center of said street between the points above named, said crushed rock to be placed in said street in the manner provided by ordinance No. 193, Section 1 thereof; and that said street be further improved by sidewalking same on either side thereof (where sidewalks are not already built) with wooden sidewalks, and to be 6 feet wide, 12 foot curbs, with all necessary wooden cross walks and box gutters. All of said work to be done according to the plans and specifications of the city engineer on file in the office of the city recorder relating to said plans, and specifications and estimates are satisfactory and are hereby approved. Said improvements to be made in accordance with the charter and ordinances of the city of St. Johns, and under the supervision and direction of the city engineer. That the cost of said improvement to be assessed as provided by the city charter upon the property especially and particularly benefited thereby, and which is hereby declared to be all of lots, parts of lots, blocks and parcels of land between the terminal of said improvements abutting upon, adjacent or proximate to said Pittsburg street, from the marginal line of said street back to the center of the block or blocks or tracts of land abutting thereon or proximate thereto. That all the property included in said improvement district aforesaid is hereby declared to be "Local Improvement District No. 20." That the city engineer's assessment of the probable total cost of said improvement of said Pittsburg street is $16,077. That the cost of said improvement in said local assessment district as provided by the city charter of the city of St. Johns, Adopted the 30th day of March, 1909. A. M. ESSON, Recorder. SUMMONS. In the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon, for Multnomah county. Jennie Forbes, Plaintiff, vs. Francis L. Murphy, Defendant. To Francis L. Murphy, defendant above named: In the name of the State of Oregon, you are hereby summoned and required to appear and make answer to the complaint of plaintiff filed against you in the above entitled suit, on or before Saturday, the 17th day of April, 1909, which date is subsequent to the expiration of six weeks after the 5th day of March, 1909, the 5th of March being the date of the first publication of this summons, and it is prescribed by the order for publication of this summons that the same be published once a week for six consecutive weeks. If you fail to appear, the plaintiff will apply to the above entitled Court for the relief prayed for in her complaint in this suit, to-wit: First—That the deed executed by Alexander Forbes and Jennie Forbes, dated April 30, 1906, recorded on the 23rd day of August, 1906, in Book No. 368, at pages Nos. 379-380, Deed Records of Multnomah county, Oregon, by which it appears that the said Alexander Forbes and Jennie Forbes conveyed to you all of lots numbered one and two, in Block numbered Six, T. P. Smith's Addition to the Town of St. Johns, Multnomah county, Oregon, be set aside, cancelled, annulled and held for naught, so far as said deed affects the plaintiff's (Jennie Forbes) fee simple title to an undivided one third interest in said lots also her dower interest in said lots. Second—That the mortgage executed by Alexander Forbes and Jennie Forbes, on the 30th day of April, 1906, recorded on the 29th day of August, 1906, in Book No. 278, at page 39, Mortgage Records for Multnomah county, Oregon, by which it appears that the said Alexander Forbes and Jennie Forbes conveyed to you all of lots numbered three and four in Block numbered six, T. P. Smith's Addition to the Town of St. Johns, Multnomah county, Oregon, to secure the payment of $2500, with interest thereon from April 30, 1906, at the rate of seven per cent per annum, be set aside, cancelled, annulled and held for naught, so far as the same affects plaintiff's fee simple title to an undivided one third interest in said lots and her dower interest in the balance of said lots. Third—That you be required to convey to the plaintiff, by good and sufficient deed, a fee simple title to said lots one and two, also dower interest in the remaining two thirds of said lots one and two, and to release to her, in the manner provided by law, from the force and lien of the aforesaid pretended mortgage, an undivided one third fee simple interest in said lots three and four, also her dower interest in the remaining one third of said lots three and four. If you neglect or refuse to do so, the plaintiff prays that she be allowed to enforce the aforesaid pretended mortgage, and that a duly certified copy of such decree be recorded in the deed and mortgage records of Multnomah county, Oregon. Fourth—That you be forever restrained and enjoined from setting up or claiming any estate, right title or interest in or to plaintiff's undivided one third fee simple interest in or to her dower interest in said lots one and two and three and four, and from foreclosing or attempting to foreclose the aforesaid pretended mortgage to said lots three and four, or from asserting any right, claim or interest therein as against the plaintiff's said interest in said lots, and that plaintiff be declared by decree of this Court to be the owner of an undivided one third fee simple interest in said lots one, two, three and four, and entitled to a dower interest in the remaining two thirds of said lots, and from the force, effect or lien of the aforesaid mortgage. Fifth—For such other, further or different relief as to the Court may seem, meet and just in equity. Sixth—For judgment against you for costs and disbursements incurred in this suit by plaintiff. This summons is published in the St. Johns Review pursuant to an order of Hon. C. U. Gantenbein, Judge of the above entitled Court, made and entered March 3rd, 1909. George H. Higgins, Attorney for Plaintiff. March 5th, 1909, is the date of first publication; April 16th, 1909, the date of last publication.

Notice of Appointment of Administratrix. Notice is hereby given that the County Court of the State of Oregon for Multnomah County, on the 23rd day of February, A. D. 1909, has duly appointed Cecile B. Bittner, as administratrix of the estate of Douglas V. Olds, deceased, and that she is duly qualified as such. Now, therefore, all persons having any claims against the said estate are hereby notified and required to present the same duly verified as by law required, within six months from the date of this notice, to the undersigned administratrix at her residence 604 East 18th St., Portland, Oregon.
