Mrs. H. G. Ogden was circulating among her many friends and admirers in this city during the past several days. John Poff has some of the finest strawberries in his well kept garden on Burlington street that have been seen in St. Johns this year. About fifty bushes are in bearing and it is a pleasing sight to see the large, well developed delicacies ripening this time of the year. A story was recently given by the Portland and Seattle papers about Esther Mitchell, the former Holy Roller, who killed her brother, being in a Chinese den in a Washington town, a complete falsehood. Funeral was held at the house at 2 p. m. Wednesday, Rev. C. P. Gates conducting the services; interment in Columbia cemetery. By allowing swarms of bees to sting him on the bare arms and legs, J. B. Webster of Roxbury, Mass., is recovering from an attack of paralysis, and already has regained the use of his left arm and can walk a mile. Four months ago Webster could not walk at all, and had no use of his left hand. He heard that bee stings were an efficacious cure for paralysis and rheumatism. He hesitated for some time to try such extreme measures, but finally decided to do so, and today apparently is a well man.

The ringing of the fire alarm is getting to be almost a weekly occurrence, and nearly all the fires are small affairs and of but little consequence, generally being put out before the fire department reaches the scene of the conflagration. Sunday evening the alarm was given and many citizens answered its summons. It was then learned that a small shack on a Chinaman truckman's place in the northern limits was on fire and was destroyed before the fire company arrived. The loss was slight.
