FRIDAY, JANUARY 14, 1901.

Candidates for the postmaster-ship of St. John are looming up daily. There are now a number of prospective candidates with more to hear from. Postmaster Valentine's term expires the first of July, and there seems to be plenty who would gladly step into his shoes. The position is getting to be quite a lucrative one.

Dr. Brougher has resigned the pastorate of the White Temple in Portland and accepted a call to Los Angeles. The Dr. has been eminently successful in Portland, where he has made thousands of friends, and his departure is greatly regretted. It will be a long time before his equal is found to fill the vacancy.

Confidence in Oregon's future is shown by Eastern investors every little while and an instance has just been recorded in the negotiations preliminary to the taking over of the Portland Gas Company by the Electric Share & Bond Company of New York, at a cost of about $4,000,000.

The experience of the world has proved that business advertising is a form of business enterprise which is so fruitful, so important and so wide a field for the display of good judgment and ability that to refuse or fail to advertise is to challenge the results and meaning of commercial and industrial progress. The merchant who does not advertise virtually says that his judgment is better than that of 95 per cent of the strong and successful men in his field of activity. He attacks the common sense of the business world.

Scales & Curty have now gotten nicely located in their new quarters in the concrete block building recently completed on Fessenden street. This enterprising firm is enjoying a splendid patronage which is steadily increasing.

All kinds of stationery and writing material at the St. Johns Pharmacy.

Salmond Bros. will trade for or buy anything you have to sell in the stove or furniture line.

Alaska salt salmon at 10 cents a pound for Saturday, special. Scales & Curty, Cedar Park store.

Mrs. Lunn has opened up dress-making parlors at 108 Fessenden street and solicits a share of the public patronage.

A splendid time was had at a joint installation of Odd Fellows and Rebekahs Wednesday night. A more extended account next week.

J. F. Hendricks has a large new ad in this issue concerning his grocery store. It is now finely located on Burlington street with a fresh and up-to-date stock. Prices are right and courteous and careful treatment guaranteed. No one can go wrong by purchasing their groceries at Hendricks'.

Caught in the jaws of a split sugar pine tree, which closed together like a vice, Robert J. Hall was crushed to death Wednesday on the Cone ranch, Red Bluffs, Cal. His head was crushed like an egg-shell. The tree split when cut near the ground and Hall was caught as the two pieces fell and closed together.

Surgeons at Kittanning, Pa., had placed Norman Barnett, the little son of George Barnett, on the operating table yesterday to cut out his appendix. Just as the knife was ready, the lad was seized with a fit of coughing which cured him. He caught up a needle, which is believed to have caused his illness. He is rapidly recovering.

Wm. C. Roe and family of Aberdeen, Wash., and a relative named Gardner and family of the same locality have arrived in St. John and will make this their permanent home. Mr. Roe will take charge of the new brick building being built on Jersey street under the supervision of E. C. Hulbert when it is completed. Thus the population of St. John has been increased by six at least by reason of their coming to this city.

The St. Johns Pharmacy has filled seventeen thousand and five hundred prescriptions to date. There's a reason.

Cured of a Severe Attack of Bronchitis by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

"On October 18th, last, my little three-year-old daughter contracted a severe cold which resulted in a bad case of bronchitis," said Mrs. W. G. Gibson, Lexington, Ky. "She lost the power of speech completely and was a very sick child. Fortunately we had a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the house and gave it to her according to the printed directions. On the second day she was a great deal better, and on the fifth day, October 23d, she was entirely well of her cold and bronchitis, which I attribute to this splendid medicine. I recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy unreservedly, as I have found it the surest, safest and quickest cure for colds, both for children and adults, of any I have ever used." For sale by all good druggists.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

Whereas, it has pleased the Divine Ruler of all things to call from our midst our esteemed neighbor, H. Raymond Simmons, be it Resolved, that his mother and brothers have our heartfelt sympathy in their sad bereavement.

Resolved that these resolutions be spread on the records of this camp and a copy be sent to the family and a copy to the St. Johns Review for publication.

When you order printing done from amateur printers, be sure they can do good work before doing so. A poorly displayed, poorly printed and badly constructed job of printing is not cheap at any price. A good business man never uses shoddy printing. He knows it is not effective with the masses of people, and it is just money thrown away. A man who accepts bad printing, even if the price is commensurate with the work done, is generally supposed to be on a par with his printing—poor. It stands to reason that a printer who has spent a life time at the business and depends upon his work for a livelihood dare not turn out bad work; but a man who enters the printing business as a side line and for a little diversion from his regular business, with little experience and in different taste, cannot do good work. Therefore, when your job printing is solicited, be sure the work will be done by a PRINTER before you give the order.

A BIT OF DIPLOMACY

An English Official Who Outwitted a French Admiral.

HOW PERIM ISLAND WAS WON

The Interesting Story That Is Told by a White House on the Foreshore of the Arabian Coast at the Southern Entrance to the Red Sea.

On the foreshore of the Arabian coast in the strait of Babel-Mandeb, at the southern entrance to the Red sea, stands a large white house concerning which the travelers to the far east may hear a curious story. In the middle of the nineteenth century, when M. de Lesseps after many difficulties had successfully floated the Suez Canal company, the governor of the British port of Aden, about 100 miles distant, was surprised one morning by the visit of a French squadron of very unusual size for that part of the orient, which, having encountered a terrific storm off Sokatra, had put in for repairs.

In the mind of the governor curiosity was at once aroused as to the destination of so large a fleet, and a curiosity which increased as he found it impossible to extract any further information from the French admiral or his officers beyond the statement that they were upon an ordinary cruise, an explanation which the former was not the least inclined to believe.

Firm in the belief, therefore, that some political move of great importance was afoot, if not a direct error, in order first of all to gain time, gave orders to go very tortoise-like on the repairs and then set to work to take the Frenchmen off their guard by giving a succession of such entertainments as both his slender means and the awful barrenness of the place would afford.

But, though at the end of two weeks the French and British officers had got upon the best of terms, the immediate destination of the French squadron remained as much of a mystery to the governor of Aden as before, and in spite of all possible delay the repairs were nearly completed.

Now, it happened that the wife of the governor possessed an Irish maid, who had been receiving attentions from one of the French petty officers—attentions which the girl did not regard seriously. It occurred to the governor that by such means something might be learned of his unexpected visitor's plans, and a private conversation between the governor's wife and her maid resulted in another between the latter and her French admirer, by which it was discovered that Perim Island was the objective point.

At this information the governor opened his eyes wide indeed, for, if the Suez canal were cut through, Perim, as commanding the southern entrance to the Red sea, in the middle of the strait of Babel-Mandeb, would be a place of great strategic importance, over which, without doubt, it was the intention of the French admiral to hold the triangle.

So the dinner and party in due course came off, the governor being in high spirits, because in the meantime he had received the news of the occupation of Perim, which under the circumstances would surely be followed by the longest for promotion, and the French admiral was equally happy, for he hoped on the morrow to add the same important little speck of land to the dominion of his own country, thereby covering his breast with the stars and himself with maritime glory.

Next day, after an interchange of cordial farewells, the French squadron sailed away to an apparently unknown destination, until, when clear of the land, the course was laid full speed direct for Perim Island.

Then what were the dismay and disappointment of the French admiral and his officers when, on coming in sight of their destination, they beheld the British flag flying and a company of soldiers drawn up to give them a proper salute. It is said the French admiral was so mortified at being thus outwitted that he first flung his cocked hat overboard and then followed it himself into the sea.

Be this as it may, as Perim was clearly already occupied by the British, the only counter move which the French could make was to take possession of a strip of the foreshore on the opposite Arabian coast, where they built the fortified white house in question, but as the place was entirely at the mercy of the guns on Perim Island it was shortly abandoned, to remain to this day as a monument of a French admiral's undoing—Exchange.

In Honor of Minerva. The most notable festival at Athens was in honor of Minerva. All classes of citizens on this particular day marched in procession. The oldest went first, then the young men, then the children, the young women, the matrons and the people of the lower orders. The most prominent object in the parade was a ship propelled by hidden machinery and bearing at its masthead the sacred banner of the goddess.

In making up your assortment of good resolutions for the new year, be sure and do not overlook one of the most important. And that is to resolve to buy your meats for 1910 at a market where only good meats are handled, where no question has ever been raised as to its goodness and where fair treatment and courtesy ever hold sway. If you do this you will naturally conclude that Bitgood & Cole will get your trade during 1910 because they measure up fully to the above conditions. If you are undecided, ask any patron of this market as to the conditions existing there and of the treatment they receive at their hands and the result is assured—you will buy your meat at Bitgood & Cole's.

SUMMONS

In The Circuit Court Of The State Of Oregon, For The County Of Multnomah, August H. Johanningsmeier, Plaintiff, vs Caroline Johanningsmeier, Defendant. To Caroline Johanningsmeier, the above named defendant:

In the name of the State of Oregon, you are hereby required to appear and answer the complaint filed against you in the above court and suit within six weeks from the date of the first publication of this summons, to wit, from the first day of December, 1900; and if you fail to so appear or answer or otherwise plead in said suit, the plaintiff above named will apply to the above entitled court for the relief demanded in plaintiff's complaint filed in said suit, to wit: for a decree dissolving the bonds of matrimony now and heretofore existing between plaintiff and yourself and absolutely divorcing plaintiff from you, and for such other and further relief as may seem to said court equitable and just.

This summons is published pursuant to the order of the Honorable Earl C. Bronaugh, Judge of the above entitled court, made in open court, in this cause, on the 29th day of December, 1900, which order prescribes that this summons be published in the St. Johns Review, a weekly newspaper, once each week for a period of not less than six weeks. The first publication of this summons was made on the 31st day of December, 1900, and the last publication thereof will be on the 11th day of February, 1901.
