Go to the Toggery for ladies' and mens' furnishings—enough said.

Frank Ely, the wrestler, has accepted the challenge of Walter Arndt to wrestle, and a match will be arranged in the near future.

W. C. Francis, at one time prominently connected with the St. Johns Lumber Co., greeted old friends in St. Johns during the past week. He is now a resident of California.

The moving picture show at the Electric last Saturday was especially fine, and those who failed to see it missed a treat. The Electric is ever producing the best that can be secured.

The realty board are arranging to get out some advertising matter descriptive of St. Johns. It will give the facts in detail, and will undoubtedly prove of great benefit to the city after it is distributed properly. Any assistance rendered by the business men of our city will be duly appreciated by the board.

Bickner Bros. have begun preparations for the erection of a brick building to take the place of Mrs. Martin's millinery store and S. L. Dobie's real estate office. The ground will be cleared and excavation started in a few days. It is Bickner Bros.' intention to build a brick structure where Mansfield's barber shop and the confectionery store are now located next October.

Have you seen the new millinery for men and boys at the Toggery?

Mrs. B. H. Darling left this week for Baker City, Oregon, at which place she will make her home.

As per the wishes of the Jersey, Philadelphia and Burlington street property owners, council has adopted Westrumite as the material for hard surfacing these streets.

Several St. Johns ladies have been insulted during the past week by an individual answering the following description: Tall, smooth-faced walks very erect, wears soft, light colored hat pulled down in front, light overcoat and light suit. A nine-inch hat pin might be used effectively in this case.

Three elections in 36 days is going some, but that is what is happening in St. Johns. The primary was held February 27, the vote on issuing bonds for the ferry slips will occur on March 11, and the general city election will take place on April 3rd. In not many cities does the privilege of voting occur as often as in St. Johns.

H. F. Clark, a former business man of this city, after spending the winter at his old home in Maine, made his appearance here last Friday. He says he has traveled about 10,000 miles, but nowhere has he seen anything to compare with St. Johns, and that half a dozen or more Yankees will come here from Maine after they get thawed out in the spring.

Our First Failure

Last week was the first time, since we went into the cut rate business, that we failed to give the people of St. Johns a weekly cut rate list. The cause of this was unavoidable. The printer, of course, concluded we would have a special announcement for this issue, to make up for lost ground. But he erred in his conclusions. Everyone of our weekly ads is a "special announcement." We hardly understand how we could be expected to do much more. We have established cut-rates in St. Johns and in every issue of this paper we quote cut-rate prices on a greater number of items than any other concern in the advertising field. There was a time, we'll admit, that a considerable amount of drug business got away from us and went to Portland, but we'll wager that at the present time more Portland business comes into our store than was ever lost to us at any time in the past.

What has brought this about? Simply this—A year or so ago, we concluded to run our own business after our own ideas, and, most important of all, we concluded to let the people know, to drill it into them, our methods of conducting a drug business. The results have been surprisingly fructiferous.

Look our cut-rate list over, carefully

The St. Johns Sand & Gravel Co. has the contract for grading on Philadelphia and Tacoma streets, alongside the high school grounds. The work is well under way and the improvement is already noticeable and pleasing to the eye.

A small fire and volumes of smoke at the Review office at 11:30 Tuesday night brought the fire department out on the run. An ash pan in which some live coals must have been smouldering which finally ignited the wood underneath was the cause. The fire boys did their usual good work, and only required a few minutes work to subdue the small blaze. The eagle eye of Night Police Dunbar prevented the incipient blaze making headway as he promptly turned in the alarm. Only about two cents worth of damage was done. The firemen have the thanks of the force for timely assistance, particularly because it was rendered with such neatness and dispatch. About 25 full blooded, live huskies came into the office on the run with two lines of hose, put out the fire. Jolied the boss awhile and got away without making a bit of pi. Thanks again, boys. (This is from the "devil.")
