

EDITORIAL ON HOUSE CLEANING

By A. G. GESLER of Calef Bros., Home Furnishers

House cleaning time is at hand. It is a mean job—(for the men), but it must be done—(by the women).

In the course of the operation you will find that you ought to have some new FLOOR COVERING—CARPETS or RUGS, or LINOLEUM; maybe one or two new pieces of FURNITURE FOR THE LIVING ROOM. Perhaps new CURTAINS for the windows or a new REFRIGERATOR.

Likely as not you ought to TRADE your OLD COOK STOVE for a new ST. JOHNS RANGE.

In Short if there is anything at all that you need in house furnishings you can find it here.

Every possible advantage is offered you to trade here at "CALEF BROS."

Payments can be made in small amounts by the week or month.

We promise prompt and efficient service, the right grade of merchandise at the right prices.

ANYTHING at ANYTIME, not right, will be MADE RIGHT, if we are notified of it.

No sale with us is closed until the customer is thoroughly satisfied.

It's no gamble on your part to trade with us.

Low Prices on Drugs of Quality

Some features about our Prescription Department that many stores are without

- 1st. We use only chemically and medicinally pure drugs. No commercial drugs used in our prescriptions.
  - 2nd. Substitution is unknown.
  - 3rd. Not only a registered man in charge but a graduate, as well, with six years of experience since graduating from the department of Pharmacy of the O. A. C. '05
- Not a bottle washing pharmacist but one who has been scientifically trained at one of the best institutions on the coast.

We have gained our present good reputation by making good with the doctors and our many customers, any of whom will recommend this as a store of quality and service.

The Home Formulary

The latest and most valuable Toilet and Miscellaneous Formulas for home use by William A. Hoburg, instructor in theoretical and applied pharmacy at the College of Pharmacy of the city of New York

PRICE $5.00

In presenting this book to the public, we fully appreciate the vast amount of service and real benefit a practical collection of formulas will be to any family. The sole object, therefore, is to make the book practical and useful, and to have it contain only such remedies as will be constantly needed in every home.

Notwithstanding the great number of medical books that cover the country and the vast expense of producing some of them, we fail to find a single one that is practical for unprofessional people to use. They attempt to supplant the physician by devoting their many pages to complicated diseases which no family should think of treating, and give but little attention to remedies for simple troubles that are continually needed, and which could be intelligently used by the public.

In consideration of the above, great care has been used to place no formula in this collection but what may be of practical value to the ordinary or unprofessional person, and each formula has been worked on so diligently and carefully.

The book described above contains one hundred and sixty-eight formulas, and our scheme is to give them away, but the giving away cannot be done indiscriminately as our purpose is to place one in each home in St. Johns, and at the same time to get you started in using the recipes; so we will require you to receive the book. Each week we will publish two sample formulas, any one of which you may bring to us at any time and have filled and receive a book free.

Splendid for chaps and chafing and for all purposes where cold cream is needed.

We keep one of these books complete on our prescription case, and when you desire a formula filled, bring its number only.

In this book nothing is given for any serious troubles, because the unprofessional person is not capable of diagnosing or treating anything complicated, and such troubles should in all cases be referred to a physician. No formula, therefore, contained herein is for a person to use internally, and not a dose of medicine is given for you to take. They are such as may be used with benefit and will be needed, perhaps, fifty times to where you require a prescription for serious troubles once.

We keep one of these books complete on our prescription case, and when you desire a formula filled, bring its number only.
