

RETURNED HER HAT.

She Didn't, but He Did, and He Must Have Been a Brave Man.

The bravest man in New York made his appearance in a Broadway store one day last week. He carried an enormous bandbox, which contained an enormous hat, on which the man wanted what he considered an enormous amount of money refunded. The man was pretty mad, and while looking for some one who had the authority to negotiate the transaction he talked loud enough for everybody to hear.

"My wife bought this hat," he said. "She doesn't need it. She has already bought three hats this season. She paid $35 for this one. She has never worn it. It just came home last night. I can't afford to throw all that money away, and I want you to take the hat back. She wouldn't bring it down, so I undertook the job myself."

"By the side of that man Napoleon was a cringing coward," said the young woman who had made the sale. "Imagine him frowning into a Parisian millinery shop with a hat that he didn't want Josephine to buy! He couldn't have done it. Very few men can. Once in a long while some poor New Yorker with the courage of desperation in his heart returns merchandise which he cannot afford to buy for his wife, and his audacity upsets the whole store for a month."—New York Sun.

THEY LIKE SHARP FOOD.

Lions Gobble Up Porcupines, and Gem-eats Eat Spiny Cactus.

A note in the London Field draws attention to lions that eat porcupines. It would appear that an animal protected by such powerful spines should be quite secure from attack. Yet, if we may trust the account given, it appears to be a habit on the part of the lion and not an isolated occurrence. Captain Dumbell had been told by a native hunter that the lion was in the habit of eating porcupines. And this has been confirmed by two English sportsmen. V. Kirby, for example, has taken a porcupine's head from the stomach of a lioness. Others relate that it is not uncommon to find lions with porcupine quills sticking all over their noses, faces and paws. It seems to argue some indifference to pain on the part of the lion, as well as a fancy for porcupine's flesh.

Compare this with the case of the camel, which a distinguished traveler describes as calmly chewing up a very spiny plant with the blood dripping from its mouth! The camel is one of the arid parts of America, again, browse on that spiny cactus. And in some parts of the English coast the horses browse on the prickly sea holly, while the donkey's partiality for thistles is well known. Incidentally such cases seem to show that spines in nature are not such efficient protectors as some have supposed.

Slight of Hand Poisoning.

A very curious item in toxicological lore I chanced to light upon, wrote George Augustus Sala in one of his letters, may be called the feat of poisoning by slight of hand. You were jealous of a lady, and you wished to kill her. Well, you asked her to lunch, and you caused a very nice peach to be served at dessert. You cut the fruit with a golden knife, one side of the blade of which was coated with a deadly poison. You presented the poisoned half of the peach to the lady, who ate it with much relish and then dropped down dead. The wholesome half you ate yourself and laughed in your sleeve and went on alluring more peaches for the ladies of whom you were jealous till you were found out and broken on the wheel. Aye, there's the rub! What high old times we might have, to be sure, but for that playful contingency of being found out!

Her Drawing Powers.

Pat and his little brown mare were familiar sights to the people of the town of Garry. The mare was lean, blind and lame, but by dint of coaxing Pat kept her to the harness. One day while leading her to water he had to pass a corner where a crowd of would be sports had congregated. Thinking to have some amusement at Pat's expense, one called out: "Hello there, Pat! I'm looking for the real goods. How much is that mare of yours able to draw?" "Begorra," said Pat, "I can't say exactly, but she seems to be able to draw the attention of every fool in town."—Housekeeper.

Sleep and Dreams.

The brain is active while engaged in dreaming than when not thus engaged. The only perfect sleep is that which is dreamless. The moment the sleeper begins to dream he begins to work, and the more vivid and protracted the dream the more intense, naturally, becomes the work. It is possible that at no time during the waking hours of life is the brain so active as it is in the strange business of dreaming.

A Treasure of a Cook.

Mr. Newell—What! No cook stove in the house? I gave you money to buy one. Mrs. Newell—Yes, my love, but I found I hadn't enough to buy a stove and hire a cook, too, so I let the stove go. But the cook is here, and she's a treasure. She has just gone out to get us some crackers and cheese.

ORDINANCE NO. 394

An Ordinance Providing The Time And Manner Of Improving Edison Street from the Easterly Line of Fessenden Street to the Easterly Line of Burlington Street in the City Of St. Johns, Oregon.

The city of St. Johns does ordain as follows: The council of the city of St. Johns, having ascertained the cost of improving Edison Street from the easterly side line of Fessenden street to the westerly line of Burlington street in the city of St. Johns, as shown by the resolution of the council of said city dated on the 9th day of May, 1911, and recorded in the office of the recorder of said city, and notice thereof having been published in the St. Johns Review, a weekly newspaper of general circulation, on the 12th day of May, 1911, and as shown by the affidavit of the foreman of said paper, which said affidavit is on file in the office of the city recorder, and legal posting of notices of such improvement, as shown by the affidavit of the city engineer on file in the office of the city recorder, and no remonstrances having been filed, and as provided by said resolution, the engineer's preliminary estimate of the cost of said improvement is $12,039.40, but shall be more accurately determined by said engineer.

Now, therefore, it is hereby ordered that said street be improved and the time for the completion of said improvement is hereby fixed at sixty days from the last publication of notice of proposals of said work, which said proposals must be filed with the recorder of said city on or before the 3rd day of July, 1911, at eight o'clock p. m. of said day. That said street shall be improved as follows: By grading same to the established grade by cut and fill and by sidewalk same on either side with 6 foot cement sidewalks, 12 foot curbs entire length, together with all necessary wooden cross walks and box gutters, and placing a strip of macadam 16 feet wide in the center of said street, said macadam to be 8 inches deep in the center and 6 inches deep on either side; and to have macadam gutters placed wherever necessary.

The city recorder shall give notice by publication for not less than three insertions in the St. Johns Review, the official newspaper, inviting proposals for making said improvement. Said improvement shall in all respects be done and completed in conformity with the provisions of Ordinances Nos. 150 and 192 except as otherwise provided in this ordinance; all work to be done under the direction and supervision of the city engineer.

That the cost of said improvement shall be assessed against the property in the local improvement district as described in said resolution and designated as and declared to be Local Improvement District No. 61.

Passed by the council June 13th, 1911.
Approved by the mayor June 13th, 1911.
