Read the Christmas ads in the Review. No need to go to Portland to buy with such a showing in St. Johns.

Attention is called to the annual school statement which appears in this issue. Every citizen in St. Johns should read it and become versed on school statistics.

O. Keimison was fined ten dollars by Judge Rice in the municipal court last week for assaulting L. D. Jackson. Mr. Keimison testified that he stepped on Mr. Jackson's face accidentally.

McKinney & Davis have purchased the lot 50x100 feet cornering on Jersey and Baltimore streets from Geo. A. Dyson of Eugene. This is one of the best vacant business lots in the city. The price paid, we understand, was a good one. Real estate is beginning to move at a good pace in St. Johns.

Mrs. Mary Leyde died at her home on North Willis boulevard Wednesday morning at about 3 o'clock, of blood poisoning following a premature birth. The deceased was born in 1886 and had been in St. Johns but a short time. Burial took place in Mount Calvary cemetery at 9 o'clock yesterday morning. The deceased was the wife of Edward Leyde, who with one child survive her.

A woman giving her name sometimes as Mrs. Dewitt, at others as Mrs. J. D. Webster, and still again as Mrs. McDivitt has been working some of the local business men with some success lately. At least four have given credence to her "tale of woe" and advanced some of the needed. Her usual plea is that her mother is dying and she just needs a dollar or two to make a car fare to go to her bedside. In order that this plea may not grow monotonous she varies it at times to some other hard luck tale. Anything from 25c up is tearfully received. Since the police have been notified the distressed one has apparently sought other fields that have not yet cultivated her acquaintance.
