Meeting Postponed

On account of the absence of numbers of our people in attendance at the Rose Carnival, it was decided not to have a meeting of the Commercial club which would otherwise have taken place on Wednesday evening last, but which will occur the coming week. Several important matters will come up before the meeting for consideration especially reports relative to the coming Sweet Pea Show, Regatta and Industrial Exhibition. Everything is reported to be progressing favorably. It is expected to have the principal streets appropriately decorated as also the city dock, and doubtless St. Johns will appear in brilliant festive attire on July 8, 9 and 10. Commodore Boost of Portland Motor Boat club reports that everything is very promising and the fleet captain is coming to St. Johns in a few days to confer in regard to completing arrangements. The railway companies have been waited on by the Transportation Committee with a view to having arranged all necessary facilities for conveying the people here. It is well at this time for our people to commence to think about the matter of decorating. Out of the general fund the main streets will be decorated, but individuals will be expected to decorate their own business places and homes. There is not a great deal of time left, and it is well enough to start and get busy in preparing for the coming event.
