A South Dakota railroad is noted for its execrable roadbed. A new brakeman was making his first run over the road at night and was standing in the center of the car grimly clutching the seats to keep erect. Suddenly the train struck a smooth place in the track, and slid along without a sound. Seizing his lantern, the brakeman ran for the door. "Jump for your lives!" he shouted. "She's off the track!" —Success.

Misses Grace and Evelyn Turney, teachers in the Pine Grove school district of Hood River valley, have been spending part of their vacation with Mrs. Martha Hodkins in this city, leaving for their home in Hood River yesterday. The first portion of their vacation was spent in the Marshfield region, and they came from Marshfield to Drain in auto. They say the road between the two points was something fierce, all the hairpins having been shaken from their heads before reaching Drain. The good roads movement is much needed down that way at least.

W. E. Ashby and W. T. Buckles went down to Sauvie Island Thursday of last week, "a-fishin'." They report the capture of 200 croppies and bass. That is pretty good for "boys." If they had only taken one of us old men along, then—but what's the use?

A horse that figures and spells has been entertaining the crowds at the Multnomah this week. It is a most beautiful animal and endowed with more than an ordinary amount of horse sense. The trainer is entitled to a large slice of admiration for the patient effort he must have brought into play in teaching the noble animal to respond so accurately to the suggestive words addressed to him by his master.

The Baileys Do Tillamook

N. J. Bailey and wife caught the salt water fever and last week went over to the Tillamook country. Unfortunately the trolley ride made Mrs. Bailey "sea-sick." The next morning Mr. Bailey got out at an early hour and cultivated old brine for his breakfast. He took in a nice fat crab which he took to camp and cooked and saved for lunch. After breakfast they tho't they would walk down the line a ways. About 10 o'clock they got tired and proceeded to investigate the crab. Contrary to expectations the crab was not as delicious as it is esteemed by some. Being tired, they got on the car and ran down to Tillamook, and Mrs. Bailey, between the crab and the little jaunt, got some more sea-sick. Then Mr. Bailey says his wife threw up the sponge, (he didn't say when she ate it) and declared she was going home, that the whole story of seaside delights was a false fabrication of frivolous fiction, that Mr. Bailey could stay longer if he wanted to, but St. Johns was just as near old brine as she wished to be. Mr. Bailey was only waiting for his better half to make the suggestion, and took off his hat, brushed the flowing locks from his classic brow, and with his best Alphonso bow replied: "Well, wife, I've got a mighty good excuse for going home too, and I will just go home with it," and he did. We hope these young folks will have better luck next time.

A letter to the Review from Miss Hilda Unger, well known in St. Johns, states that she is now residing with her mother in Los Angeles; that she has almost finished her course in vocal and piano music, and that she is drawing a good salary as a pianist and vocalist. C. W. Kreeger of 708 East Richmond street sent to this office two splendid specimens of the genus "spud." The two weighed 2½ pounds, are smooth, with very shallow eyes and are not yet done growing as the skins slip very easily. They are pure white and while Mr. Kreeger did not give us the name, they very much resemble the White Elephant potato. Mr. Webster, who brought in the samples, said Mr. Kreeger has 1½ acres of the tubers. Enough to keep the wolf away for awhile at least.
