Oregon has started to export hogs. A breeder with a stock farm near Aurora reports a sale of blooded swine to Honolulu people, where they will be used for breeding purposes. Rev. J. J. Patton went to Ashland Tuesday, to attend the annual M. E. conference. It is a strange coincidence of his work here that the first sermon of his year's work should be the funeral of Lee Fortune, and the last one before going to conference was the funeral of the two young ladies drowned in the Willamette Sunday evening. Mr. Patton and his good wife have made many friends here during the past year who sincerely hope he may be returned for another year with us.

Death by Drowning

Another death from drowning in the Willamette river opposite St. Johns took place about 10 o'clock Wednesday evening. Frank Kelsey and Harold McMannus were crossing the river in a rowboat to Whitwood Court. Mr. Kelsey stood upright for some purpose or other, and losing his balance fell overboard, overturning the boat at the same time. Kelsey could not swim and soon sank to the bottom. McMannus managed to reach the Whitwood side of the river in an exhausted condition, and was placed in bed at one of the hotels. Both men were employed on the Burlington street improvement, having come here lately from Vancouver. The drowned man was aged about 28 years and has relatives in California, who were notified of his sudden death. He was well liked by his fellow workmen, who laid off yesterday afternoon to assist in the recovery of the body. McMannus has almost recovered from the shock and over exertion.

St. Johns Pull Club

The St. Johns Pull club held a mass meeting in the city hall Wednesday evening to promote the initiative and referendum measure providing for the consolidation of contiguous incorporated cities. The club is of recent birth of which A. W. Davis is president; S. C. Cook, vice president, and W. A. Carroll, secretary. Its avowed purpose is to pull for anything that might be considered an aid to the growth and prosperity of St. Johns. It was deemed advisable to pull for Ballot Title No. 348, the consolidation measure, because sooner or later St. Johns will undoubtedly desire to become a part of Portland, which is impossible under existing laws or the lack of them. A number of citizens were present and an impetus given toward the end aimed at. While the sentiment for consolidation is not nearly so strong now as it once was, it seems to be the purpose to promote the bill so that it may be used as a sort of a club when things do not go right in St. Johns.

We understand that the Portland library-association has decided to accept the Holbrook plot of ground on East Charleston street for the site of a public library.
