Fifty two people in the vicinity of St. Johns and Portsmouth have vouched for 1000 shares of stock in the "Equal Rights" Company, to be incorporated for $10,000 for the purpose of carrying on a mercantile business in the interest of, and controlled by the people.

This intended corporation is rapidly organizing. To fully appreciate what this means to you, study the little book left at your door containing the 99-Year System bylaws under which this company is to be incorporated.

The following are original letters written by persons who have become interested in the Bonville System:

I consider stock gambling a most serious menace to the welfare of our government, and am convinced that a continuation of industrial and financial conditions as they exist today would mean the ultimate dissolution of that government, were it not that the laws of evolution are still on the job, and will, I trust, help us to a solution of our problems. But we should not sit idly by and expect fate or T. R. to unlock the industrial fetters that bind our limbs and hamper freedom in its eternal struggle toward the light. Let us think and investigate. How is this new system of organizing corporations, with the claim of its followers that it will revolutionize the business world, and bring peace and plenty to all the land? I would like to advise you to examine into it very carefully and very thoroughly, and if you then become convinced that it is good, work for it, live for it, and swear by it.—J. O. Stearns, Jr., Attorney at Law, Portland, Oregon.

To whom it may concern: I have known Frank Bonville for several years and believe him to be sincere in his efforts to better the business methods now in force. Bonville's 99-Year System is novel, and so far as I know, is original as applied by him. It is entitled to your thoughtful and careful consideration. It is meritorious, and if adopted, will do much to correct many erroneous, unjust and fraudulent methods now practiced in the business and political circles of our day. Our needs are individual honesty and integrity, together with full and impartial enforcement of equitable laws coupled with the best assessment, tax, social and business systems we are capable of devising. Our duty is to equalize the burdens of our day and strengthen, straighten and make smooth the way for those who are to follow. By request I inform you that I am a native of Oregon, a descendant from colonial stock, a taxpayer for 25 years, and now conduct the Sunnyside Pharmacy, which I have owned for twentyone years.—Joe E. Worth, 999 Belmont street, Portland, Oregon.

After having read the bylaws and thinking the matter carefully over, will say that I am pleased with the plan. I have often thought that a cooperative plan that would make it possible for the man who works and is able to save a portion of his wages to invest it safely in some paying enterprise would be a good thing, but never could see how he could do it without running the risk of losing through the old system of corporation. I am a worker myself, and have been fairly successful, and have accumulated some property, but have never bought stock to any great extent, because I was afraid to do so, knowing that a small stockholder usually lost out through the manipulation of stock selling. I am willing to undertake the promotion and organizing in effect of an enterprise with which I am thoroughly acquainted, under this system.—N. J. Bailey, St. Johns, Oregon.

To whom it may concern: I've looked into the merits of the Bonville 99-Year System, and found that if adopted at the present time that it would help to settle the financial and labor difficulties arising from the present system. I think it is a good proposition and should not be overlooked by any one. I have been a resident of this city of Portland for over twentyone years, and have been in business over ten years, and am a property owner.—M. L. Hochfeld, 35 North Third street, Portland, Oregon.

To whom it may concern: I firmly believe that the application of the Bonville System in the organizations of incorporated business enterprises of all kinds will eventually check the evil effects of the present day system. I have been engaged in business for myself for the last 29 years, and have during that time had some disappointing experience from taking interest in the organizations of stock companies. I have noticed that the promoter quite often is the only person who makes anything out of the enterprise. Why? In the first place he is best in the proposition to know about the merits of it. Second, there is nothing to hinder him from selling his own stock, and he generally has plenty and to spare; and finally, if his proposition is a doubtful one and he knows it, and if he is not better than the average man, he will have the money and the other fellow the experience. Any one who will take the trouble to read Square Deal will see at a glance that that is impossible under the Bonville System. The principle that stock which is not good enough as a compensation for the promoter is not good enough for you and me to put our hard earned money into seems to me to be the keynote to the whole problem. Give us a Square Deal. H. Hausen, watchmaker and jeweler, 160 East 34th street, Portland, Oregon.

To whom it may concern: I have known Frank Bonville and the 99Year System for the past three years, and firmly believe in it's measures, as I believe it the system to revise the business world. I am a property owner of Portland. My address is 347 1/2 Morrison street, Portland.—D. H. Watson.

To whom it may concern: After carefully reading and duly considering the bylaws and conditions set forth in the Bonville Square Deal, explaining the 99 Year System, I consider it the greatest move before the people of the country today. And think it only a matter of time before this great system will be universally used in the organization of companies and corporations. I consider it the duty of every citizen of the United States to read the Bonville Square Deal and become acquainted with the rules and regulations set forth therein. I am a subscriber to the St. Johns Review, which paper publishes weekly the progress and movements of the 99 Year System. I am a property owner in Portland, Oregon, and have been engaged in the real estate business here for the past four years.—E. O. Osborne, 126 East 29th street.

To whom it may concern: I have been acquainted with the Bonville 99-Year System for more than a year, and welcome it as an absolutely honest equivalent rendering business system that will not only save to the masses of the people the natural resources of the country, but by distributing the profits of produce will also create unlimited opportunity for the development of genius. It protects the investor, and protects and strengthens the inventor. It is all things to all men. That is all right. I have been in the employ of the Peninsula Lumber Co. for 5 years in the capacity of chief fireman. I am a property owner. J. W. Robinson, 918 Princeton street, Portland, Oregon.

The Bonville 99-Year System to my better judgment comes nearer solving the political question and business world than anything we have at present in the United States today. By studying closely, as I have, it should convince almost any man.—C. A. Rosin, proprietor San Francisco Cleaning Works, 167 Park street, Portland, Oregon.

To whom it may concern: I have been connected with the Bonville system for three years—ever since it started, and think it is a fine thing. I have been in business in Portland for over two years.—O. W. Ginder, 1052 Hawthorne avenue, Portland, Oregon.

To whom it may concern: I became acquainted with the Bonville 99-Year System about six months ago, and have become deeply interested in it. It is exceptionally well constructed to protect the small investor, and by giving the majority control of corporations, requiring the majority of stock to be owned by a majority of people. Distribution of wealth is surely inevitable. I heartily recommend the Bonville System to the serious consideration of all. I have been in business of different kinds for over 30 years, so I think I am competent to judge.—Mrs. E. S. Goodwin, Portland, Oregon.

Close the Avenues

The present day, with its ill conditions and many evils, is the direct result of the control of the leading interests of the country by the "special privilege" class. The only way in which this evil may be counteracted is by closing the avenues whereby CONTROL OF INTERESTS by the few is obtained.

The Bonville 99-Year System takes the control from the few and gives it to the many. The subject matter of this system is protected by 29 different copyrights, secured from the United States Government. When this System is understood by the people, they will no longer be deceived by "investigations" of big corporations, but will demand their rights. The wholesale robberies now carried in to through stock transference and sanctioned by the law, will no longer be tolerated.

The 99-Year System has torn away the disguise, and the people are beginning to see things as they are.

Full particulars may be obtained in the By-Laws of the Bonville Ninety-Nine Year System, published and sold only by Frank Bonville, Box 1195, Portland, Oregon. Price 10 cents.

STRONG, STYLISH SHOES & HOSE

We feel that we have studied the Shoe and Hosiery Business in St. Johns so that we ought to know what to buy for our patrons that will give the best wear, most comfortable fit and stylish appearance. And we are confident we are now carrying the right lines.

Our Toggery has the agency for the Florsheim line of dress shoes and the Nap-a-tan line of loggers and high tops. These shoes sell themselves as soon as shown.

The Ladies' Department carries the agency for the John Strootman shoes for Ladies and the E. A. Brown line for small children. Both these lines are constantly making us new friends.

Our stock of Hosiery, all sizes and all ages, is large and varied enough to gratify any ordinary requirement, and comprises silk, wool and cotton; heavy, light and medium.

In The Grocery Department

are all the things to make a Thanksgiving dinner an event from a Double Baker to Cranberries. Our grocery stock is always just as complete as the community can desire and we have been told time and again that our Grocery Department would be a credit to a town of twice the population.

The Best Light At The Lowest Cost

ELECTRIC LIGHT is the most suitable for homes, offices, shops and other places needing light. Electricity can be used in any quantity, large or small, thereby furnishing any required amount of light. Furthermore, electric lamps can be located in any place, thus affording any desired distribution of light.

No other lamps possess these qualifications, therefore it is not surprising that electric lamps are rapidly replacing all others in modern establishments.
