Harry Windle, eldest son of former Councilman W. W. Windle, died at a sanitarium near San Francisco, Cal., the first of the week, and the remains are being shipped here for burial. Harry, who was a cripple, and for a time conducted a cleaning and pressing establishment in this city, was a victim of that dread disease, tuberculosis, and for the past fifteen months had been in California in the hope that the change of climate would prove beneficial to his health. But the white plague had secured such a hold that it was impossible to shake it off, and the end came as stated above.

The present year is likely to witness the completion of another railroad across the eastern half of the state. The Oregon Eastern, being built from Vale westward to Dog Mountain, 140 miles, is progressing favorably and railroad men say that they will complete the construction for this distance within the year. The Dog Mountain is near Bend and it is expected the line will then be extended to a connection with the Southern Pacific Natron-Klamath road now being built.

The Geneva Chile Parlors are being removed this week to the handsome new room of McKinney & Davis, just across the street from the former location on the west side of Jersey street. The Geneva has enjoyed a rapidly growing patronage ever since the present management has been conducting it, and deservedly so. The customers are so well served with only the best that they are glad to return and bring their friends. This patronage is fully appreciated, and it assuredly will follow The Geneva to the new location, which will be converted into the handsomest and most attractive parlor of its kind to be found anywhere. Cool and pleasant in the summer and warm and comfortable in the winter, the new location will be ideal for The Geneva to become even more popular, if such a thing can be possible. A cordial invitation is extended to all to visit The Geneva when it is fully situated in the new quarters.

The Use of Onions

The use of plenty of onions will drive contagious diseases out of any city, declares Dr. Mary Walker. Here are the doctor's directions for the use of the odoriferous vegetable: Eat plenty of them, stewed, boiled, fried or raw; keep the fumes of onions continually permeating the atmosphere.

Spread onions in the alleys, on the lawns and any other place where it might appear they would do good. Dr. Walker says onions are particularly effective against smallpox. The use of the vegetable in two cities at least has proved her contention, she says. "Madrid was one of the affected cities," she said. "Some even had made the statement before the onions were used that the city would be depopulated by smallpox. The Minister Plenipotentiary reported that the spread of the disease had been halted by the use of onions. They also were used in other cities."

Received a Big Boost

The cause of irrigation never received a greater boost in this state than during the convention of irrigators, at Portland the past week. Never before has the cause of irrigation gathered so much support and the outlook for the future in this direction was never so promising as now. The convention attacked the subject from the standpoint of the settler and never lost sight of his interests in the matter the whole time. This is as it should be for the actual settler on the land is the one most interested and the one who, above all others, should be consulted. This irrigation congress is right in line with the tremendous development movement now so generally under way throughout the whole state. It means more lands made available for the farmer, greater wealth for Oregon and a greater and more prosperous population.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

Whereas, It has pleased our Heavenly Father, in his wisdom, to remove from his earthly home J. C. Aiken, beloved husband of sister Ella Aiken; and, Whereas, while we bow to the will of him who doeth all things well, we mourn with our sister in her sad loss, be it, therefore, Resolved; That the members of Laurelwood Rebekah Lodge No. 160, extend our sincere sympathy to sister Aiken in her hour of bereavement, and be it, further, Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be spread on the minutes of this lodge and a copy sent to sister Aiken, and a copy sent to the Pacific Odd Fellow and St. Johns Review for publication.

A motorist lay in the mud under his car, mending, with grunts of pain and effort, a bad leak in the works. When at last he crawled forth, all black and greasy, his friend approached him with the oil can. "While you were busy under there," said the friend, smiling blandly, "I, too, made myself useful. I gave the cylinder a thorough oiling." "Cylinder be hanged!" growled the motorist. "It was my ear you oiled."
