We have been requested to contradict an item in the Oregon Journal which stated that 75 per cent of the property owners of Smith avenue were present at a meeting held Monday evening, and that they would file a remonstrance against improvement. It seems that only about 10 per cent were present, and that only one individual opposed street improvement. There is some diversity of opinion, however, as to the nature of improvement.

The Easter program rendered at the Congregational church Sunday evening last was greatly enjoyed by the large number in attendance. Every number on the program was well rendered by those taking part. Several who were to have participated in the program were unable to do so on account of illness. The liberal offering received was greatly appreciated.

Florence is making big preparations for its annual Rhododendron Festival to be held there in May. The exact dates have not yet been determined, depending somewhat on whether the Spring is late or early. This year, for the second time, a school fair will be held in connection with the carnival and there are indications that it will attract many visitors.

Currin says: The prescription business with us is a certainty; we know how, and there is always one quality of drugs used in your prescriptions—THE BEST. Promptness and absolute reliability has built our prescription business. We are prescription "Cranks." There is no detail too small to be overlooked in the handling of your prescription work. IT MUST BE RIGHT if we fill it.

Pat O'Reilly was employed as night watchman in a bank during the week, but was allowed to spend Sunday night with his family. O'Reilly slept by day and was on duty by night, and his children saw so little of him that they hardly knew him. One Sunday morning, on his way home, he saw his boy Jimmy fighting with Johnny Jones. He reprimanded the boy and upon receiving a curt reply picked him up and soundly spanked him. Jimmy ran home crying and told his mother that a big, ugly man had hit him. "And who was the brute?" she asked. "It was that big lobster that sleeps here Sunday nights."—Selected.

I wish to apologize for raising a disturbance in the presence of a couple of ladies on the corner of Richmond and Ivanhoe streets Tuesday. The provocation was so great that I forgot myself for the time being. The party with whom I quarreled had spread malicious lies about me and vilified my character to such an extent that I lost control of myself when I met the man face to face. I wish the ladies to accept this apology.—R. E. McIntire.

Dr. J. H. Hart gave some most interesting views and lectures on "Prison Life Behind the Bars" at the Jayne theatre Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings. He took occasion to commend Oregon as having the finest prison regulations and the most humane treatment of any state in the Union. The lectures were highly instructive and largely attended.

J. E. Devore, who has been making his home at the Evangelical parsonage for the past year, and who has recently purchased a general store at Dundee, took to himself a life companion in the person of Miss Marguerite Dupertuis. The wedding took place at the home of the bride's parents near Chehalis, Wash. The nuptial knot was tied by the pastor of the Evangelical church of St. Johns, who, with his wife, Mrs. Plowman, made the trip to Chehalis on Monday to be present at the wedding, which took place on Tuesday morning, March 25, at 10:30. After the wedding dinner, which was served at the noon hour, the wedding party was met by an automobile which took them to Chehalis station, where they took the train for St. Johns accompanied by a generous supply of rice and old shoes, and congratulations and best wishes by a host of relatives and friends.

Entertain Their Friends

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Bonham gave a 500 party to a number of their friends at their home on North Hayes street Friday evening. The home was prettily decorated with jonquils and daffodils. The winners at each table were given a tiny gold colored star, which was put on a small gold tinted card, and at the end of the game those having the highest number of gold stars were declared the winners. Mrs. Roy Ingledue received the ladies' first prize, a handsome pitcher; Mrs. H. G. Benham received the second prize; A. W. Markle was the winner of the gentlemen's first prize, a silk tie, and Mr. Benham was the recipient of the second prize, a booklet entitled "The Girl of the Limberlost." Very dainty and delicious refreshments were served, consisting of chicken salad, ribbon sandwiches of nut bread and lettuce sandwiches, cheese wafers, cake, ice cream and coffee. All present had a splendid time and vote Mr. and Mrs. Bonham royal entertainers.

A free lecture on the Use of the Ballot will be given by Prof. Ellis in the High School auditorium this evening. Good music will be rendered. Ladies especially invited.
