Interesting Review of the Latest Books

Barbour—Crofton Chums.

A new story of preparatory school in which boys of 16 and 17 are actors. The interest centers about Sunnyside cottage, a boarding house off the campus, where Mrs. Hazard and her children, Jim and Hope, have come to live while Jim is in school. A group of merry boys and Mr. Hanks, an instructor, are the boarders. The story is full of interest—there is boating in it, and football, and plenty of other outdoor fun; and the chums and their friends are splendid lads.

Glass—Elkom Lubliner, American.

There isn't any material in the country more rich in possibilities for the novelist than that to be found in the process of Americanizing of our adopted countrymen. All that insight into human nature and all the wholehearted fun which so captivated thousands of readers of the author's former books are found afresh in this new one, with this distinct advantage, that Mr. Glass has here told a connected story.

Grey—Heritage of the Desert. A lively story of life on the Arizona desert in the early days of the settlement of the Southwest, having as characters cowboys, Mormons and Indians.

Homung—Fathers of Men. A boy's story for grown-ups or the older boys. The boy in whom the interest centers is the son of a groom and the daughter of an English rector. The child first learns the world in the coachman's quarters and the stable yard. When his father dies his grandfather sends him to public school where he makes his appearance as a crude, unformed, sensitive boy of low birth among a group of scions of the best English families. The story is complicated by the presence in the school of the son of the gentleman whom his father served as coachman.

Klickman—Home Art Crochet Book. Mackay—Patriotic plays and Pageants for Young People. Three simple pageants, each of which contains portions that may be used as separate one-act plays, suitable for performances in school, home or small theatre. Full directions are given for costumes, scenes and staging. It is an up-to-date appeal to safe and sane patriotism.

Rice—Romance of Billy Goat Hill. A Kentucky story with a heroine in the person of winsome Miss Dady, adored by every inhabitant of Billy Goat Hill, the long street that staggered down hill between the city and Col. Carsey's plantation. It is a pretty, humorous tale which will find a warm welcome among those who like everything to end happily. Friends of Mrs. Wiggs are sure to be pleased with Myrtella Flathers with her rough manner and her warm heart.

Spearman—Mountain Divide. Gives the experiences of the men who built the Union Pacific railway and is enlivened with spirited accounts of fights with Indians and conflicts with gamblers and outlaws. The hero, a lad of 17, figures in a succession of exciting and perilous affairs and has a number of what the frontiersmen call close calls.

JUMPS ON RUSTY

SIDEWALK NAIL

While working on a well digging machine a Minnesota man jumped upon a rusty spike. The nail drove part of his black woolen sock far up into his foot. He removed as much of the sock as he could, put on Allen's Ulcerine Salve, and kept right on with his work. The salve drew out parts of the sock and all other poisons and in a week his foot was healed up.

This salve is one of the oldest remedies in America and since 1869 it has been known as the only salve powerful enough to cure chronic ulcers and old sores of long standing.

Allen's Ulcerine Salve acts by drawing out the poisons and healing the sore from the bottom up. It is so powerful that it heals new cuts and sores in one third the time that common salves and liniments take. And it heals scalds and burns without a scar. Sold by the St. Johns Pharmacy and other leading druggists.

Children are much more likely to contract the contagious diseases when they have colds. Whooping cough, diphtheria, scarlet fever and consumption are diseases that are often contracted when the child has a cold. That is why all medical authorities say beware of colds. For the quick cure of colds you will find nothing better than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It can always be depended upon and is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by all dealers.

UNDER BONVILLE 99-YEAR SYSTEM

The Equal Rights Organized March 8, 1913

The universal adoption of the Bonville 99 Year System means the emancipation of labor from the tyranny of capital.

In organizing the "Equal Rights Company" under and by virtue of this System, we are building, perhaps, better than we know—better than any can realize at the present time. Its power for civic betterment is so vast, so multitudinous—that it will permeate all avenues of social and industrial life, bringing order out of chaos, peace and contentment where unrest and strife prevailed. For the foundation of this superstructure is based upon the rock of justice to all mankind.

We believe in "rendering unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's." In other words to render unto each and every individual that which rightfully belongs to him, viz: The right to a field of labor; the right to a living wage; the right to the earnings of his investment over and above the running expense of the proposition wherein he invests. This is what the 99 Year System stands for. It is the literal fulfillment of the Golden Rule.

This System does not attack any person, party or class in a censorious manner, but rather in the spirit of "behold, I show you a better way." For we take the premise that most men are honest, or mean to be, and that when once their eyes are opened to the truth, they will no longer follow after the false.

The study of eugenics teaches us that heredity and environment largely make the man for either good or evil.

Just how far and in what measures society is responsible for his environment, would be hard to determine, and just in what proportion you and I are responsible for the present industrial conditions would be equally hard to determine. Therefore instead of railing against conditions as we find them rather bestir ourselves and do our utmost to better them. Study the Bonville Ninety Nine Year System, and see if it does not meet all the requirements of a medium for a satisfactory economic adjustment.

The history of all movements that make for the uplifting and the betterment of humanity is ever the same. That those undertaking such work meet with the antagonism of the masses. And often those whom they are striving hardest to help are the most unappreciative, because they do not understand the new order and they prefer the old regime.

It takes a higher degree of courage, and unwavering purpose, a spirit of self sacrifice, and a large faith that looks beyond, and sees results, rather than the obstacles in the way, to accomplish a work of this kind.

It has taken all these factors, and more, to bring about this crowning triumph—the organization of the Equal Rights Company.

March 8th, 1913, will go down in history as marking the consummation of one of the world's greatest achievements—the gift to mankind of a sane, practical, and graceful financial system.
