The city council has been subjected to some criticism that is unjust and unmerited by reason of its action in permitting the skating rink to operate on Sundays. It had no other alternative. An order restraining all officials from interfering with skating rinks running on Sundays has been issued by Judge Gates, and it is perpetual and affects the entire county. Therefore, under such restraining order, the city council could do no less than comply with the order, or place itself in a position where damages might be exacted.

July Celebration Notes

The Fourth of July celebration is assuming greater proportions all the while, and a most voluminous and attractive array of attractions are being landed. Besides the numerous attractions previously announced, the Browning Amusement Co. with its merry-go-round, swings and various shows will be here, the manager coming next Monday to sign up the contract for their appearance. One of the most thrilling, and costly as well, attractions booked is a man and his wife who have been the sensation at Coney Island. They will ride bicycles and perform trapeze work on a rope extended between two poles sixty feet in the air, giving two performances daily on the 4th and 5th. The evening entertainment will be a beautifully illuminated affair. Special invitations are being forwarded to all the civic and fraternal organizations to participate in the grand parade. Work will begin Monday on the erection of a band stand at the city hall grounds. Negotiations have almost been concluded for a balloon ascension, or several of them, and the probabilities are strong that such an attraction will be added to the long list. A committee has been appointed to absorb the latest ideas on constructing and arranging a Goddess of Liberty car. Besides the goddess, there will be four maids of honor and sixteen young girls on the car. Funds are still being garnered at a most gratifying rate, and it is now assured that the undertaking will be adequately financed. The use of the Caples tract of land and the Hill plaza for rest and lunch purposes were gratefully accepted by the Firemen. The kind and thoughtful tender of the use of these grounds by the owners relieves a situation that has bothered the Firemen considerably. All parties wishing to enter the pony race should communicate with P. G. Gilmore at once. All parties who have subscribed to the financial fund are requested to remit as promptly as convenient. The Goddess of Liberty contest started yesterday, and considerable interest is being manifested in the contest already. This year St. Johns will have a celebration that will long be remembered. Tell your friends about it, and after they have seen it will thank you for so doing.

How to Grow Tall.

A man's organs and those of his bones which are not subjected to pressure grow continuously until he is forty years old—that is to say, the heart should become stronger, the capacity of the lungs increase and the brain should develop steadily until the fourth decade of life. Also one should wear a larger hat at the age of forty than at thirty. A man ceases to grow tall, however, at the beginning of the third decade, because after that time the downward pressure exerted by the weight of the body while in the erect position compresses the vertebrae or small bones in the spine, the disks of cartilage between them, the pelvis and the thigh bones, and this pressure overcomes the natural elasticity of the disks and the growth of these bones. However, a British scientist contends that were man a quadruped and therefore freed from the downward pressure produced by his weight upon his spine, he would continue to grow in height for ten years longer than he does at present, since it has been found that bones not subjected to compression increase up to the fourth decade.—Chicago Tribune.

Pratty Names For Books.

The following are some of the curious titles of old English books:
"A Most Delectable Sweet Perfumed Nonesay For God's Saluts to Smell At."
"Biscuit Baked in the Oven of Charity, Carefully Conserved For the Chickens of the Church, the Sparrows of the Spirit and the Sweet Swallows of Salvation."
"A Sigh of Sorrow For the Sinners of Zion Breathed Out of a Hole in the Wall of an Earthly Vessel Known Among Men by the Name of Samuel Fish" (a Quaker who had been imprisoned).
"Eggs of Charity Layed For the Chickens of the Covenant and Boiled With the Water of Divine Love. Take Ye Out and Eat."
"The Spiritual Mustard Pot to Make the Soul Sneeze With Devotion."
Most of these were published in the time of Cromwell.

The Wearing of Hats.

More or less of a modern habit is the constant wearing of hats. Even as late as 1759 Horace Walpole mentions as a matter of course that he never wears a hat. "Remember," he says, writing to a friend notoriously careless about his dress, who was expected home from Holland, "everybody that comes from abroad is supposed to come from France, and whatever they wear at their first reappearance immediately grows the fashion. Now if, as is very likely, you should through inadvertence change hats with the master of a Dutch smack in a week's time we shall all be equipped like Dutch skippers. You see, I speak very disinterestedly, for, as I never wear a hat myself, it is indifferent to me what sort of a hat I don't wear."

A Grand Scheme.

Mr. Higgins had a scheme for protecting his house against burglars during his absence from home, but in spite of that his friend Mr. Higgins met him recently looking very downcast. "What's wrong?" queried Mr. Higgins. "Oh, everything," groaned Mr. Higgins. "You remember my scheme for keeping off burglars? Well, the secret of it was to leave a gas jet turned on, so that any burglar who entered would be asphyxiated by the fumes." "Didn't it work, then?" "Oh, yes, it worked well enough—too well. The burglar came in with a lighted match, and we haven't been able to find him or the house since."

The Privilege of Peers.

There is a curious case in Fortescue's "reports" relating to the privilege of peers, in which the bailiff who many years ago arrested a lord was forced by the court to kneel down and ask his pardon, though he alleged that he had acted by mistake, for that his lordship had a dirty shirt, a worn-out suit of clothes and only sixpence in his pocket, so that he could not believe that he was a peer and arrested him through inadvertence.—Green Bag.

He Changed.

"Greymair's wife brought him home a suit of clothes, but I understand he mustered up the courage to tell her that he had made up his mind to change it."
"Did he change it?"
"Oh, yes; he changed his mind."

The Best Light At The Lowest Cost

ELECTRIC LIGHT is the most suitable for homes, offices, shops and other places needing light. Electricity can be used in any quantity, large or small, thereby furnishing any required amount of light. Furthermore, electric lamps can be located in any place, thus affording any desired distribution of light.

No other lamps possess these qualifications, therefore it is not surprising that electric lamps are rapidly replacing all others in modern establishments.
