

HOTELS IN PORTUGAL

Paying One's Bill There Becomes a Duel in Politeness.

When traveling for the first time in Portugal one is apt to become exasperated when he desires to settle up with his landlord at the hotel. When the traveler asks how much his bill is the landlord bows graciously, smiles suavely, rubs his hands together and replies that the bill is as much as the guest wishes to contribute.

This is simply the opening of a duel of politeness, for the hardened traveler at once thanks the landlord for his condescension in him and again very courteously asks for a detailed statement of his account. Still the bill is not forthcoming, for the landlord declares that he does not wish to insult his guest in any such manner. Finally the landlord does reckon up the charges on his fingers. When he has finished he asks the traveler how much the sum total is. If the traveler hasn't kept track of it the landlord very laboriously goes over the account again. If the guest has footed up the bill the landlord is sure that it cannot be so much and insists on a re-reckoning. The result is the same, and the landlord invariably needs to bring two or three more fingers into use for items that had been accidentally omitted.

Needless to state, the traveler not hardened to this process breathes a deep sigh of relief when he "escapes." —Boys' World.

DIET AND AGE.

Proper Eating Would Insure Better Health and Longer Life.

Medical experts, insurance men, educators and teachers of the science of health and happiness generally are in favor of simpler living and a return to nature. The mortality of adult age of the period between forty and sixty is increasing, but it is not due to the stress of modern life, to worry and overwork, as some have supposed. It is due, we are assured, to overeating and bad diets. There is every reason why we should live longer and be healthier, for comforts are increasing, and inventions are lessening toil and anxiety. But our very prosperity has led to richer and simpler diets, and there is where the mischief lies—there, and in our indoor life. We shun nature; we shut out light and air; we walk little and seldom eat or rest in the open air, in gardens, fields or on porches.

This is all wrong, and the wages of this wrong are ill health, depression, gloom, the shortening of the natural span of life. Habits of outdoor life should be formed early—at school. As much teaching as possible should be done in the open air—and as much playing likewise. After graduation boys and girls should continue to cultivate the outdoor life and families should continue the practice. —Chicago Record-Herald.

Telephone Lies.

At One Hundred and First street and Broadway a man was talking into a telephone. Presently he was heard to say: "All right, I'll come. I am now at Twenty-third street and Broadway. I'll be up in about half an hour." "That chap seems to have lost his bearings," said a man who had overheard the error in locality. "He knows where he is all right," said a drug clerk. "He's just putting up a bluff. It is quite a common bluff. Men who have a mighty high regard for truth at all other times do not hesitate to tell a whopper about where they are when talking over the telephone. I have heard persons swear over that wire that they were telephoning from points all the way from Hoboken to Antiochia. They were not seasoned liars, either; just wanted a few minutes' grace apparently and thought the easiest way to get it was to make out they were a mile or two farther away than they really were." —New York Press.

Custom in Spain.

One thing specially is vital in Spain: "Costumbre," they say ("It is the custom"). It explains commercial honor tersely for the Spanish business man to keep his word and pay his bills; exactly as it is equally customary for him to lack what we call "honor" in some other departments of life. It is customary to do or not to do, to the effect not to like, a thousand things. Why? "Custombre" is the only reply. It is customary, moreover, not to yield readily to an improvement or a luxury, even as it is again equally customary, once the Spaniard has yielded to a given thing, to hold to it like adamant. —Arthur Stanley Riggs in Century.

His Preference.

"You can get an awful of daisies for a dime," pointed out the optimist "and just look at their bright, merry little faces!" "What do I want with an awful of daisies?" growled the pessimist. "I'd rather have a cheese sandwich." —New York Journal.

A Snake Tale.

A man took his small son to the park. They fed bread to the swan and then stood for a long time in front of a cage of serpents. The boy looked at them with fascinated eyes. At last he exclaimed, "I like these tails all right, but where are the animals?" —Lippincott's.

WHAT THE BONVILLE 99-YEAR SYSTEM DOES

It places control in the hands of the majority, gives real competition among individuals, direct action to the people, and scatters universal justice, without crushing life out of energy or interfering with our present form of government.

The present day, with its ill conditions and many evils, is the direct result of the control of the leading interests of the country by the "special privilege" class. The only way in which this evil may be counteracted is by closing the avenues whereby the CONTROL OF INTERESTS, by a few, is obtained.

When this System is understood by the people, they will no longer be deceived by "investigations" of big corporations, but will demand their rights. The wholesale robberies now carried on through stock transferring will no longer be tolerated.

The 99-Year System has torn away the disguise under which predatory interests operate, and the people are beginning to see things as they are. This System takes the control from the few and gives it to the many.
