Hottest in the World

Hot Lake Springs, Nov. 25.—Editor The Review: The Review has been running an advertisement of Hot Lake Springs, Oregon, and it might be your readers would like to know what gives the waters of such springs their great heat and efficiency.

The warning recently issued by the Agricultural Department, Washington, regarding the worthlessness of bottled water from springs heavily charged with radio activity is timely. This publicity, given because of the newly established theory that these waters obtain their heat and efficacy from their radio activity, has attracted much attention to those springs which have been converted to health resorts. The government warning is that, while these waters, in their natural state, are of the greatest benefit to suffering humanity, yet, when the water is bottled, it soon loses its efficacy and within twelve hours becomes absolutely worthless.

Analytical investigation, officially conducted under the direction of our own National government, as well as that of Great Britain, has established the fact that this radio activity is obtained by the water passing over a large deposit of pitch blende, the substance from which radium is gotten.

The bubbles which constantly come to the surface of the waters of Hot Springs are not so much from the heat as from their radio activity. They are in fact a radio emanation—a gas produced by the water coming in contact with the pitch blende. The greater the radio activity the more heat, and, as a consequence, the more efficacious the water.

Hot Springs, having the hottest natural waters known to the civilized world, naturally possess the greatest amount of radio activity. The main spring has a natural temperature of 196 degrees Fahrenheit. This boils eggs in three minutes and beans in five hours.

The next hottest natural water known is that of Sprudel Springs, Carlsbad, 164 degrees. At Hot Springs, Arkansas, the maximum temperature of the water is 128 degrees. Thus, in this, as well as other respects, the Pacific Northwest ranks the world.

Come to the Mothers' meeting at the city hall next Monday afternoon. We expect to have a good program. This closes our six months' series of meetings at the city hall. We have found everything very pleasant there. The hall is large and light and warm and well seated and always clean, but now that the new library is open some think that it would be better to hold our meetings there. The only way to decide the matter is by vote, and if you have any preference be sure to be there next Monday to vote.—Reporter.

For the first time in history, the steam railroads operating in the Pacific Northwest will this year give reduced rates for the Christmas and New Year holiday period. The announcement is made by R. H. Crozier, assistant general passenger agent of the Oregon Electric and S. P. and S. system, who was in attendance at the conference of the North Pacific Coast passenger association. The various lines in the Northwestern states will announce in due time a fare and a third rate for the round trip from December 23 to January 5. This action comes after several years of consideration by the members of the railroad organization.

HIGH SCHOOL

Items of Interest Regarding School Doings

The foot ball game at Ridgefield last Saturday was not all that was hoped for on our part. We expected a tie or a victory, but lost 19-0. The field was wet and slick, and beef overcame any advantage that science could afford. The trip was a very pleasant one. There were 42 students, parents and friends, in addition to the team, who sailed on the Argosy. The party returned at 9 p. m. with dampened shoes but the same old spirit. Among the parents and older escorts were Mrs. Rosling, Mrs. West, Mrs. White and Mrs. Monahan, Miss Clinton and Principal Fry also accompanied them. The latter returned on the train in order to take part in the program at the opening of the new library.

The second number of the Lyceum Course was given Tuesday evening to a large house. It proved to be equally as good as the Commonwealth Quartet. Mr. Stelzl, in his violin work, especially pleased the audience, who encored him time and again. Thus far the Course has been very successful, and the only regret seems to be that the next number is so far distant.

A Novel Attraction

Among the interesting amusement concessions to be presented on the "Midway" at the Panama-Pacific Exposition will be "Toyland Grown Up," a walled city in which the buildings will be enlarged reproductions of children's toys. The concession will be presented by Frederick Thompson, the famous creator of Luna Park at Coney Island. Toyland Grown-Up will be almost an exposition in itself, covering twelve acres, costing more than $1,000,000. It will require more than 4,000,000 feet of lumber and its streets and canals if stretched in a row would be five miles long. The walled city will be entered by three mammoth gates; the first gate will be the Gate of Fun; the second gate will be the Gate of Fairyland, the gate of beauty; the third gate is the entrance to the City of the Wicked King, where is held captive the doll princess; this is the Gate of Thrills. Among other features of Toyland will be Mother Hubbard's Cupboard, sixty feet high; the Great Shoe, as large as a six story city building, and built, in part, in the form of a side wheel steamer, since it will have huge wheels by means of which the sightseer will be raised aloft. In Toyland, too, there will be the City of Peter Pan, the town that never grew up.

The Republic of Honduras is the first of the foreign nations to erect its buildings at the Exposition. Thus far twenty-nine foreign powers have announced to the Department of State their intention to participate in the exposition. The Honduras pavilion is now under roof and the stucco covering is nearly all in place.

The Irish section of the exposition has been allotted fifteen thousand square feet, and it is intended to have a representative exhibition of Irish linens, wools, silks, poplins, tapestries and textiles in general. The section will have the fancy title "Shamrock Isle" and the wonderful products of the Irish handicrafts will be elaborately displayed. A serious and earnest attempt to show what Ireland produces and makes for sale will be made. Specimens of the wonderful old bog oak furniture will be shown.

An Interesting Meeting

The monthly meeting of the Commercial club was held Wednesday evening and was highly interesting and largely attended. President H. W. Bonham presided. C. O. Churchill, representing the band boys of the city, asked for permission to use the club rooms once a week for band practice purposes, and the request was granted subject to the approval of the board of governors. Prof. C. A. Fry advocated a greater social development of the club. John H. Nolte discussed the benefits to be derived from the interstate bridge. A. S. Benson advocated the improvement of Columbia boulevard from St. Johns to Troutdale, and having it connect with the interstate bridge and Columbia River Highway. R. G. Brand urged that a committee be appointed to push forward this improvement, and President Bonham stated that the matter would receive attention at the next meeting of the board of governors. John N. Edlefsen delivered a highly interesting and instructive address on the Currency Bill. Thomas Grisen was enrolled as a new member of the club.
