ANNOUNCEMENT

I herewith announce my candidacy for the nomination of Mayor of St. Johns at the primary election to be held in March. S. G. Wright.
adv.

I herewith take the privilege of announcing that I will be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the office of City Attorney of St. Johns, Oregon.
THAD. T. PARKER.

Prospective candidates are on the anxious seat, with their ear to the ground to discover if any one else is about to announce as a candidate for the office which they have a hankering for. Don't be bashful, gentlemen. Announce yourself if you have any political aspirations, and the voters will soon let you know if you are wanted.

Oh! Woman, woman! Where is the consistency? Just think of it! The women of Oregon fought and worked like all possessed to gain the right to vote in this state, and now after winning the battle, they do not seem to care a darn whether they vote or not. The population of Port land is not far from being pretty evenly divided, and yet the registration books which opened these January 5th show that three males have registered to every one female. What on earth did they want the franchise for, anyhow, Bill? Oh, yes, we have it! They merely wished to show these mere men that they couldn't keep them from it if they wanted to vote, that's all. In following out this line of reasoning it is appropos to believe that if the women of England were by law obliged to vote that they would break all the windows in London and horsewhip the king just to show the male tyrants they could not be forced to do so.

Our attention has been called to the fact that Stanford tract, which runs through the Jaeger tract of land on Dawson street, is only 50 feet in width, while through the Caples tract this street is 60 feet wide, also that a waiver petition was signed by the owner of the Jaeger tract for the improvement of Dawson street, while Mrs. Caples did not sign such a document, which makes the cost proportionately heavier on the part of Mr. Jaeger than upon Mrs. Caples. It has also been suggested that the fact should not be overlooked that a reduction of $400 has been made on the Jaeger tract. To remove any erroneous impressions that might exist, the Review wants it understood that it has not the slightest objection to the Jaeger tract, only it believes the Caples tract is the more valuable of the two, as it is situated nearer to where the great majority of citizens make their homes. In fact, our idea of parks would be to include the Caples and the Jaeger tracts and the tract intervening in one central park, with as many other smaller parks as the citizens desire to acquire. While the people may not yet be prepared for such a move, yet in the event that the consolidation of Portland and St. Johns becomes imminent, St. Johns should undoubtedly secure all the parks it needs, regardless of the fact the bond issue might mount well up in figures. If we do not, Columbia Park is all that the lower peninsula can hope for, because Portland would not likely give us something that we had not gumption enough to secure for ourselves. However, the Review cannot warm up properly on the subject of parks until some way is provided to equip parks properly without taking the money therefor from the general fund.
It should be provided for in the bond issue. To buy parks and let them remain in their virgin condition is not very appealing, and would really mean only a change in ownership, with the city owning the land and actually having no parks. The city's experience with the city dock should prove that it is best to provide for the "trimmings" in the bond issue. But as there is still a possibility that the park question will be laid on the shelf to cool off for awhile, further discussion along this line would no doubt tend to weary rather than interest the average citizen.

Bring in your job printing while you think of it. Don't wait until you are entirely out. We are equipped to turn out neat and tasty printing promptly at Portland prices, or less.

More From Perrine

Editor Review: I remember when a boy of shooting into a flock of blackbirds, and it may seem strange to you, but do you know that I believe to this day that I hit the bird that fluttered.
Mr. A. W. Davis grows eloquent, sarcastic, etc., etc., over a little squib I put in the Review last week. Now, Mr. Editor, Mr. Davis either got mad, or he is not as logical a man as I supposed he was. Let's review a little. He says "It was the sense of the South End meeting that the Caples tract was to be selected, and that the Jaeger tract was to be laid aside and not considered." Now Mr. Davis, why was this laid aside? In that meeting when Mr. Lewis was talking about the Jaeger tract, you as agent for Jaeger, withdrew said tract and the meeting could not consider it.

He speaks of my making an "awful howl" about South End interfering in North End affairs, and now I am taking "exceptions to South End affairs." Will say, Mr. Davis, that I have a right to, since the third meeting, which united the two meetings, and they agreed to vote as a "unit." I did say that I understood that there would be some "juggling." I understood it from hearsay, so I did, and that is true, whether you believe it or not.

Now the funny part: "I want parks, Mr. Perrine, and I would like to have just what we can afford consistently with our necessities and means, but believe me, that unless we get down to a thorough business proposition, now after all this agitation and grandstand 'saving the country' tactics, which is your usual method, we are going to end it all in smoke." Now what does he mean by a "thorough business," etc.? Now read: "I am still of the opinion that the Jaeger tract is the most valuable and at the same time cheapest of any tract that has yet been offered.
Now, Mr. Davis, what would a thorough business man do in a case of this kind? When you withdrew the Jaeger tract from the market were you using your thorough business methods in the interest of the city, or in the interest of Mr. Jaeger, or in the interest of Mrs. Caples? The city wants to buy. You have the most "valuable and cheapest." You withdraw it in the interest of "peace and harmony." To whose interest are you using your best business faculties?
Now you draw your own logical conclusions, and then tell us of that great love you have for the dear people. "No Commission," etc. It is to laugh. Another point: You said a little "explanation" was necessary. That great heart of yours went out for that party that did not know me. Well, why didn't you tell him who I was? Why did you not tell him I was one of those dangerous Socialists, and had a terrible breaking out around the mouth, and that I was constantly advocating cooperation, and fighting competition, which you claim to stand for? Now here I find you inconsistent again. Your economy is that competition is the life of business, while we claim it is the death. You, by withdrawing the Jaeger tract, thereby eliminating competition, denied the fundamental principles of competition, and favored individual monopoly, thereby holding the purchaser of park sites up to the tune of $10,000.
Is this good business tactics, Mr.
Davis? No show for competition. Then you speak of "patriotism" and "no commission," etc. The city mayor advertised for competitive bids. You fought competitive bids by withdrawing the Jaeger tract. Your love is too deep for my comprehension.

Oh, "peace and harmony!" But what is the use? The aims of the article has been accomplished. Through the light of publicity you have hung back the Jaeger tract in the interest of "peace and harmony" between you and Mr. Jaeger. I will promise you faithfully that whenever the city is going to buy anything, and any one is keeping back the most "valuable" and the "cheapest," that if I know it I will "bob up serenely and attack ulterior motives to such actions." Mr. Davis, you occupy a double position—that of salesman and purchaser: I only one, that of purchaser. I want to buy the best, and if you sell, you should have your commission. I don't believe in a dollar and cents patriotism, because that kind of patriotism depends on which side the most dollars lay. I want parks, Mr. Davis.
If the people want parks, they should have them. If they don't want them, and so express themselves, I shall acquiesce in the arrangements and be happy.

One more statement, then I am done: "It is a well known fact that an argument with Mr.
Perrine is never ending and altogether useless." Now, Mr.
Editor, I hardly know how to take this statement. Whether he intends to call me an exceedingly bright man or an idiot, or whether he intends to say that he is the exceedingly bright man or idiot, or both. So in conclusion, will say, look out for the machine, for if you don't it will Sure-lock your "homes" against you. G. L. PERRINE.

Essay by a Boy

The following is a boy's essay on Temperance read at the Mothers' Meeting Monday afternoon: Teacher told me to choose a temperance subject, so I chose "Woman." Man is an intemperate animal. "A Beast." That is what mamma calls papa. Woman is temperate most always.
Men drink beer 5 per cent alcohol.
Woman drinks Peruna, 20 per cent alcohol, and feeds it to her offsprings. Man drinks claret and champagne, 8 to 9 per cent alcohol. Woman takes Lydia Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, 20 per cent alcohol. Dr.
Olser told us Lydia Pinkham is not a lady, but a man with a beard. He's made millions on what woman drinks. Woman also takes Paine's Celery Compound, 21 per cent alcohol, and Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, 44 per cent alcohol. She feeds man on pepper, ginger, pepper sauce and mustard, which burns his mouth and throat and stomach, then wonders why her husband and sons are thirsty and want beer. Woman sometimes puts wine or brandy in the sauce for her puddings, and in her cake and mince pies, and feeds them to her family. She forgets that this will cause them to like brady and other liquors. I repeat woman is temperate and would never do these things if she knew. I want her to know: that is why I write this. With all her mistakes, we still love woman.

yours filed and placed in first class working order, take it to
