Composed of six one armed men, who play the violin, trombone, cello, mandolin and piano, "The One Armed Orchestra" proved a novel headliner on the new bill at the Spokane theatre yesterday afternoon, says a Spokane paper. Mrs. Marion Lenora Sturderent, whose husband is better known as "Villie," died at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lafayette Caples, in this city on Sunday, from a complication of diseases. She leaves a husband and one child nine months old, also father, mother and one brother.

Mrs. James N. Berry, formerly Esther Mitchell, committed suicide at Waldport, Oregon, last Sunday night by taking strychnine. Mrs. Berry was married in Newport a few weeks ago. She became notorious through her connection with the "Holy Rollers" sect, and her slaying of her own brother, George Mitchell, at Seattle in 1906, after he had killed "Joshua" Creffield. She lived quietly in Lincoln county since her release from Steilacoom Asylum under parole to the Superior Court of Kings county, Washington, until her recent marriage.

Achieve Smock and Thomas Cochran returned this week from a two weeks' siesta in the wilds of the Klickitat country in Washington state. They report a glorious time, catching fish by night and killing mosquitoes by day. Their intention was to hunt game—bear, deer and the like, but the only evidence of bear that they were able to discover was the track made by a bare footed boy, but by dint of minute investigation they were able to find a deer track made several years ago. The mosquitoes were large and robust enough to afford some sport, but they wanted to be killed all night long, and the killing got to be no joke. Mountain trout were so plentiful that they were caught with the greatest ease. The two enjoyed themselves immensely, even if they do even yet in the silent hours of the night fall their arms around like a windmill in an effort to kill imaginary mosquitoes.

Any one desiring to go along can secure tickets from any member of the local fire department for 75 cents each, which include round trip and dancing. Before the St. Johns people return from the picnic every one at the picnic will know that there is going to be swell doings at St. Johns on Labor Day.

The St. Johns Pharmacy ball club and the National Laundry club of Portland played an exciting game of ball on the local grounds Sunday afternoon. One unfortunate feature of the game was occasioned by the visiting catcher and pitcher running into each other in the attempt to catch a foul ball. The pitcher was the more painfully injured of the two, and was rendered unconscious for a few minutes. He was soon revived, but was unable to finish the game. Up to the time he was injured he had been pitching masterly ball, and it is a problem which team would have won had he finished the contest. The home team won, however, by the score of 5 to 2.

An amusing remonstrance against the assessment of cost of the improvement of Willamette boulevard between St. Johns avenue and Burlington street was received by the city recorder during the past week. It was from a lady property owner and she earnestly protested against being assessed $17,000 and some odd dollars for the improvement in front of her lot. She thought it better that St. Johns take the property, and she didn't know what St. Johns was coming to when it charged such an outrageous price for street improvement. Somehow she got it into her head that she was assessed that amount, which was really the assessment for the improvement of the entire street. No wonder she objected.

Georgia Rich Lydick, assisted by Mesdames Ingalla, Rogers, Dunsmore, Glawe and Rich, held a most enjoyable picnic with members of her musical class at The Oaks Tuesday. A number of the pupils were unable to attend.

Charles Schauff, the local florist, is not only an expert at raising flowers, but is an adept at fruit raising as well. He brought into this office Wednesday a half dozen of beautiful summer apples. The name of the fruit is not definitely known; but he terms them the "Gatton" apples. In the meadow of the Gatton farm an apple tree a number of years ago made its surprising appearance from the center of an old fir stump. It was gnarled and crooked in appearance, but it certainly delivers the goods that are good to look upon and still better for eating and cooking purposes. It is believed that in the years gone by a bird or squirrel had dropped a seed on the stump from which the tree sprang. There is no other fruit tree anywhere near this one, and the apple is different from any known variety. It has a fine color, said to be a good keeper, and we know it is good to eat. Mr. Schauff secured buds from the tree and grafted them onto a tree in his yard, the apple which he brought to this office being samples raised from the grafting.

Adjourned Meeting

At an adjourned meeting of the city council Wednesday evening the matter of the vacation of Pierce street was fully discussed, upon which topic Messrs. R. E. Thurmond, A. M. Stearns, J. N. Edlefsen and K. C. Couch made remarks, besides the mayor and members of the council, and the city attorney and engineer. After viewing the matter from all points, it was decided that half of Pierce street between Willamette boulevard and Edison street, as originally petitioned for, be vacated, and a resolution to this effect was adopted.

Mayor Vincent stated that himself, J. N. Edlefsen and Peter Autzen had interviewed Mr. Mears of the Port of Portland and practical assurance had been given that the Commission would make a generous donation toward construction of the roadway between Willamette boulevard and the railroad.

The necessity for quick action toward starting work on the roadway to the new plant being apparent, the recorder was directed to advertise in one issue of the Review for bids on same, to be opened next Tuesday evening.

Makes a Proposition

The following proposition, voluntarily executed and handed to the city after the proceedings vacating the westerly half of Pierce street, has the ring of fairness, and whatever honest differences of opinion may have existed regarding any further need of this part of the street, this agreement would seem to leave no reasonable ground for further controversy or hindrance to the road to the cooerage plant:

To the Honorable Mayor and Council of the City of St. Johns—Gentlemen: In consideration of the action of the Council in ordering the vacation of the westerly half of Pierce street, I hereby voluntarily agree that if at any time during the first six months after the completion of the road to the water front, and the connection of Edison street therewith by the best grade possible toward Polk street a majority of the property owners on said portion of Edison street petition for and agree to pay for a road around the corner of Block 22, I will thereupon immediately release and dedicate a portion of the westerly half of Pierce street, measuring 20 feet or the southeast corner thereof, running on a curve with same tangent as the opposite new road along the easterly side of said westerly half of Pierce street, and leaving the same at a point seventy-five feet from the southeasterly corner thereof. Or in lieu of such vacation, I hereby agree to accept the improvement of said westerly half of Pierce street by grading a road around the same as above described, by building a retaining wall along the upper side of such road, and building a sidewalk along my present easterly property line on or before January 1st, 1915.

In testimony whereof I have hereunto subscribed this 6th day of August, 1914.—R. E. Thurmond.

Is There a Hell?

A book with the above title has been issued in New York which contains the opinions of sixteen of the "makers of religious thought" on the question of man's hereafter.

They all support the doctrine of the soul's immortality, and while ignoring the old fashioned material hell, insist that the souls of the good will fare much better in the hereafter than the souls of the bad. The men subscribing to this are all eminent clergymen.

There is nothing more strange about a future life for men than is the present life. Called for nothing; appearing here more helpless and dependent than any other creature; still in from twenty to sixty years ringing the world with his words or deeds and then growing still and turning back to dust; men contemplating this, and remembering the affections formed in that brief time; the tearing of heart strings at the separation, revolt against the thought that this is all.

They look at the stars in their processions and realize that only an infinite wisdom could have framed their order and their splendor. They note the seasons in their rounds and mark that after the exhaustion of producing the harvest, the sun wanders further and further away and the tired earth grows wan and cold and wrapping the winding sheet of the snow around it sinks into a sleep that looks like that phenomenon which we call death. But when the sleep is over the sun returns; the winter's shroud melts away; even under the snow flowers are found; then comes the soft air; the buds appear; the trees put on anew their robes; the birds return and rebuild their houses; the spring advances into the summer and that is followed by another harvest. Is man lost in this eternal progression?

That he should be would be a violation of every lesson that is taught by the operations of nature. But the bread we eat is made from grain that at first was but wild grass that made pasture for animals. It had to be cultivated to give it value. By his discipline Luther Burbank has converted what was but a repellant plant into an article of food more wonderful than was ever seen before. He has pruned and engrained fruit trees until he has doubled both the quantity and quality of their fruit. In the same way he has converted a worthless weed into a glorious flower.

But he has been able to do this by finding an original element in the fruit or flower that had been dormant from the first. We talk of good and bad men. By that we mean only that the germ of good is more developed in the one than in the other. Many good men produce only half the good that they should. They are waiting only that the original element of good within them may be more fully awakened.

Many bad men are waiting merely for the magic touch that will cause them to shed their thorns and bring forth their fruit. With many this will not be done in this life, but all the lessons that we gather make the foundation for the hope of a higher life. And it seems to us that we have no authority for saying that in that higher life the degrees of happiness will be measured by our lives here. Rather it seems more reasonable to say that in the ceaseless upward procession a certain station will have to be reached before men on earth or souls beyond will finally receive the light to understand that real happiness comes only through love and justice and devotion to duty.—Goodwin's Weekly.
