The Port of Portland commission opened bids Saturday for the construction of an additional wing to the St. Johns drydock. The proposal of McAllister & Sons was the lowest and the contract was awarded them. Their bid was $33,950 and $35,000. The latter figure, which was accepted, includes removal of the wing. The successful bidders will now accept bids for 760,000 feet of lumber, oakum, bolts, etc.

The general was riding along on a blazing hot day when a dilapidated soldier in rags and with no shoes, his head bandaged and his arm in a sling came in sight. The general stopped. "Why, my good fellow, you seem to be pretty well done up." "Yes, sir; I am just a bit," said the soldier. Then, looking up at the general, he said, "General, I love my country. I'd starve and go thirsty for my country. I'd die for my country. But if ever this confounded war is over I'll never love another country."—Boston Post.

The North Parent-Teachers' Association held a meeting Tuesday afternoon at the North School building. Dr. Kiehle of Portland made an address on "The Moral Training of Children." Miss Aldrich rendered a piano solo. A business meeting followed at which officers were elected. Mrs. J. M. Shaw was reelected president; Mrs. G. H. Lemon vice president, Miss Floy McNiven secretary and Mrs. Jos. Crouch treasurer. The next meeting will be held May 27th in the James John High school building.

Plans for a bigger boat and the retirement of the old steamer Sacajawea are being considered by Captain Smith, owner of the vessel. The new steamer will be a spoon bowed craft 99 feet in length and 22 feet in beam, and will likely be fitted with the engines of the old craft. The Sacajawea has wended her way back and forth between this city and St. Johns for nearly 15 years. The new steamer will have her house set well aft and be equipped with a heavy derrick capable of lifting five tons or more. Captain Smith believes she could handle 200 tons a day easily on the St. Johns run.

At the meeting of swine breeders at North Portland last Tuesday arrangements were perfected for furnishing the boys and girls of all sections of the state with breeding animals with which to make a start in the raising of pork for market. The plan was inaugurated by the Union Stockyards some weeks ago, but the call for sows was so great that it was found necessary to enlist the aid of professional hog breeders in order to supply the demand. The stockyards will receive orders for sows, already bred, pass them on to the breeders who have agreed to furnish stock, and on receipt of a properly indorsed note from boy or girl, the animal will be shipped direct. The notes will become due and payable at the time the pigs are mature and ready for market.

The Port of Portland Commissioners yesterday unanimously resolved to contribute $2500 toward construction of the Cooper-erod roadway, provided the roadway be continued toward the dry dock.

Harry Mansfield, a pioneer barber of St. Johns and well known to many of our people, greeted old friends in St. Johns last week. He had been engaged in business at Raymond, Wash., but has disposed of his business there, and is now looking up a new location. His many friends here were glad to see him once more.

City Health Officer Marcellus started his annual anti-fly campaign yesterday. Approximately 4,000 fly traps were distributed and nearly 16,000 additional will be ready for distribution within the next two weeks. The traps are being made by the boys in the manual training centers of the public schools. The Health Bureau is being assisted by the "city beautiful" committee of the Rose Festival association.—Portland Abstract.

A clergyman who was not averse to an occasional glass, hired an Irishman to clean out his cellar. The Irishman began his work. He brought forth a lot of empty whiskey bottles, and as he lifted each one he looked through it at the sun. The preacher, who was walking on the lawn, saw him and said, "They are!" said Pat. "Well, there is wan good thing about it, they all had the minister vid them when they were dying."—San Francisco Argonaut.

The Ladies' Progressive Club met at the home of Mrs. E. C. Geeslin, Buchanan street, Thursday May 8th with a large attendance. The first hours of the afternoon were given over to the Study of Bryant. Mrs. Page was elected treasurer of the club. A bell game was played. Mrs. Gilpin winning the most points and receiving the prize. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. H. York, 1010 Smith ave.

The building of the large dock by the Star Sand Co., which is to extend from Richmond street to the St. Johns Lumber Company's plant, seems to hinge on whether or not a stub of a street which the dock would cover is vested in the city or belongs to the company. The street end in question is Charleston street, extending from Albany street to the harbor line. It has been a mooted question for the past seven or eight years as to who really owns the land. It seems that the city maps do not show vacation of same, and the records do not show that a vacation has ever been made, it is said. Why it was not vacated is more or less of a mystery. The greater portion of the land lies under water and is not and never could be of any particular benefit to the city because there are no means of reaching it except through private property. Therefore, if this dock is to be secured to St. Johns it is evident that this stub of a street be vacated, or which might be termed the same in effect, permission to erect the dock, as asked for. A long term lease might prove satisfactory. The city attorney is looking into the matter.

To Editor Review: A few days ago I visited some of the real estate men of St. Johns to learn conditions, as nearly as possible, so far as renewed real estate activity was concerned. One firm reports that since the merger election, he has done a better business than at any time within two years previous, and judging from the conversations of the purchasers, the sales were nearly all directly brought about by the fact the purchasers felt St. Johns would soon be a part of Portland, and made the purchases on that account. One man on Willamette boulevard was offered a few days ago $6,000 for the property and refused. The offer would not have been made except for the fact of the favorable vote. Let us all work to make this section grow.—D. C. Lewis.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Evens entertained the Jolly Steen Club at their home on Wednesday evening. 500 was played and the lucky prize winners were Mr. and Mrs. Roy Ingledue, first club prize, Dr. and Mrs. Vincent, second prize, Miss Bogardus first guest prize and Mrs. Bennett second guest prize. The prizes were very handsome handpainted plates, the work of the hostesses, and Mrs. Bennett's prize was six crochet individual nut baskets. A delicious lunch was served after which Mrs. Horsman sang a couple of songs in a charming manner. Club guests for the evening were, Mr. and Mrs. A. Larrowe, Mr. and Mrs. Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. Jno. Edlefsen, Miss Bogardus and Dr. B. F. Rambo. Mr. and Mrs. Horsman will entertain the club next.

The opening of the Celilo Canal around the last obstructions to navigation on the Columbia, and the transfer to the Government of the locks at Oregon City, on the Willamette, have added hundreds of miles of free open water to the commerce of Oregon and have made it possible for the agricultural sections of the state to take advantage of the low freight charges which are sure to result from the elimination of tolls and portage charges. Livestock, fruits, grains, minerals, lumber and wool can now be laid down on the dock at Portland or at Astoria at an immense saving over former cost, and a consequent increase of profits to the producer. It now remains to see what use the people will make of the open rivers. While steamers can be operated more economically than railroad trains, they must have cargoes to transport or they cannot live. If the farmers continue to haul their produce to the railroad station because it is a little nearer, or the wagon road a little better they will not only lose the benefit of cheaper transportation at the present time, but they will be making it impossible for the boats to operate at a profit, and within a short time the upper reaches of both our great streams will be as deserted and lonely as before the canals were built, and the enormous sums spent for improvements will have been wasted. The success or failure of the "open river" is up to the farmer more than to any other one class.

A Fixture Hint

Three years ago I tried to help my sister select a hat. We went to half the stores in Portland. She tried on at least 100 before finding one that suited. I didn't appreciate that method at all—too much traveling, bother and hit or miss principle. That evening I started thinking it over. Said to myself, were I a woman and wanted a hat I would go to a good milliner, tell her what I wanted to pay, wear the dress I wanted to wear with the hat, and have her design me one—a creation to fit me, and me alone, my beauty, my mannerisms, my individuality; in short, just me. That carried another chain of thought. If hats, why not electric fixtures?

Furnishings in the home are very important. Harmonious colors, good selection of furniture, and a nice blending of lines mean a great deal, and a cheerful home means a cheerful life. But after having a room properly furnished you can very easily ruin the harmony of the whole by a poor selection of fixtures. Now for the last three years I have been studying everything that would have a relation to fixture design, architecture periods of furniture, color matching, principle of design, shape, rhythm, sketching, and all things that help me design and make the proper fixtures for your home. I am not done, never expect to be, but think I am fairly proficient and ready to try.

Today I want you to call me to that home of yours and let me sketch you a suggestion. It won't obligate you, and it might help. Fixture prices are mighty low now, and if you do buy you will get $1.25 value for every dollar you spend.

Yours for service,
L. E. GENSMAN,
E. A. Gensman & Son, 217 N. Jersey Street.
