He will engage in business in the near future.

At a lecture a well-known English authority on economics mentioned the fact that in some parts of America the number of men was considerably larger than that of women, and he added, humorously: "I can, therefore, recommend the ladies to emigrate to that part." A young woman seated in one of the last rows of the auditorium stood up and, full of indignation, left the room rather noisily, whereupon the lecturer remarked, "I did not mean that it should be done in such a hurry."

Mrs. Newlywed went to the grocery store to do her morning marketing. She was determined that the grocer should not take advantage of her inexperience. "These eggs are dreadfully small," she remarked. "I know it," replied the grocer. "But they are what the farmer brings me. They are just fresh from the country this morning." "Yes," said the bride, "and that's the trouble with those farmers. They are so anxious to get their eggs sold that they take them off the nests too soon!"—People's Home Journal.

H. E. Taylor, an old time friend of George M. Hall, motored up from Lodi, Cal., the past week and talked over old times back in North Dakota with George for several days. He says the bummiest piece of road on the whole trip is between Salem and Portland. Mr. Taylor took a trip over the Columbia Highway with Mr. Hall and was particularly pleased with it declaring it to be the finest scenery he had seen on his long trip. He thought we had the edge on California, because we had the green and they didn't this time of year.
