"Oh, no," soliloquized Johnny bitterly. "There ain't any favorites in this family. Oh, no! If I bite my finger-nails, I get a rap over the knuckles; but if the baby eats his whole foot, they think it's cute."—Peoples Home Journal

A parrot that was always plunged into cold water as a punishment for swearing, happened to see some dripping, drenched chickens passing his cage one rainy day, and called out, "Little fools, been swearing, eh?"

A nice old lady was sitting on the porch of a summer hotel where also there were a number of boys, was approached by one of them with this query: "Can you crack nuts?" The old lady smiled and said: "No, my dear, I can't. I lost all my teeth years ago." "Then," said the boy, extending two hands full of walnuts, "please hold these while I go and get some more."—Exchange.

President Wilson's war policies are so excellent that, even when fault is found with them, the fault always turns out to be a virtue. It's like the case of the hen. The prospective seller: "Is she a perfect bird? Has she no faults at all?" "Well," said the prospective buyer, "I won't deceive you, ma'am. One fault she has. She will lay on the Sabbath."—Exchange.

A minister was questioning a Sunday school concerning the story of Eutychus, the young man who, listening to the preaching of the Apostle Paul, fell asleep and, falling down, was taken up dead. "What," he said, "do we learn from this event?" Then promptly came the reply from a little girl: "Please sir, ministers should learn to not preach too long sermons."

The government has approved the bonds and all obstructions have been met and overcome in the improvement of Willamette boulevard from Richmond street to the railroad cut. The Warren Construction Co. has been awarded the contract, and it is expected that work will start right away. This improvement is a most important one and will add greatly to the appearance and utility of this popular and beautiful thoroughfare.

Nearly a ship a week will be launched from the Portland yards of the Grant Smith-Porter Ship Company. That is the way the prospects are sized up by Eric Hauser, president of the company, who makes it a point to attend all the launchings at the plant. He was on hand Wednesday afternoon when the Nupolela went racing down the ways. She was the 16th steamer that has gone into the river from the yards. Seven of them have been equipped with machinery and delivered to the government. Including the output of its Aberdeen, Wash., plant the Grant Smith-Porter Ship company has launched a total of 23 hulls, all of which will be outfitted with machinery at local yards of the firm.

A typical frontiersman, a native of the Pacific coast, and foreman blacksmith at the Peninsula shipyard, Andrew Sprouls, better known as "Andy" about the plant, still retains a brawny arm and a clear blue eye at 58 years of age. Andy has been with the company about a year and is head of the department that turns out bolts, forgings, straps and all sorts of iron work that goes into the construction of wooden ships. He has been in Portland since 1907, coming from Northern California, where he lived for 28 years. His first work on the western side of the Cascade mountains was at Windriver, at Cascade Locks. He then worked for a lumber company at St. Johns for six years and later was at Bridal Veil. Andy was with the Port of Portland commission for two years in capacity of blacksmith. While living in Eastern Oregon in 1878-9, Mr. Sprouls participated in the Bannock and Snake Indian wars. He resided at 1026 South Kellogg street.—Telegram.

Died Last Sunday

Clare Edwin, the little four year old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Blake, died at the Good Samaritan hospital Sunday evening last following an operation for appendicitis. The little boy had been ill for only a few days. His father is inspector at the local ship yard and resides at 519 Oswego street. "Little Billy," as he was affectionately called by those residing in his neighborhood, was a genuine favorite with all and his happy, smiling face will be sadly missed by those who knew him so well and liked the winning little boy immensely. Little Billy was wont to make frequent little visits to the neighbors and had little trails worn through several back yards with his tireless little feet. He liked to visit and he never failed to scatter sunshine as he flitted from one place to another. The neighbors enjoyed these little visits hugely for Billy was never a nuisance and never in the way. His childish prattle and merry laughter made life a little pleasanter for all who came in contact with the little fellow who so early in his bright young career was called to be with his Father above. The only child of his fond parents the death of Little Billy falls particularly heavy upon them, and the sympathy of the entire community goes out to them in their hour of deepest sorrow. All was done that human skill could do to restore him to health, but he was needed in the mansions on high where he is even now, without doubt, still scattering sunshine, and his happy little smile and pleasant ways are adding to the joy and happiness there while he awaits the coming of his earthly parents.

The funeral services over the mortal remains of this beautiful little child were held Tuesday and the little body will be shipped to San Francisco, the former home of the parents, for interment.

The Quality Butter Store is the name of a new establishment that is being erected on North Jersey street near the Grabateria store. A full line of butter, cheese, including cottage cheese, eggs and buttermilk will be constantly on hand. Saturday, August 10th, is announced as the opening day.

R. T. Dearing and wife and Raymond Dearing of Rifle, Colorado, have arrived in St. Johns. The former is the brother of W. H. Dearing, the well known South Jersey street confectioner. They came here principally for the benefit of Mr. Dearing's health, and he says he feels much improved already. They will probably remain here permanently.

Why don't you make some pictures and send them to the soldiers. Currin Says So.

WEARING ON SAILORS' NERVES

Effect of Fog Bank While on Convoy Duty is Almost Beyond Landman's Imagination.

More comfortable than howling gales, the fogs that drop a thick gray blanket over the seas are far more wearing on the nerves, writes Herman Whitaker in the New York Independent. Imagine half a dozen destroyers guarding a 30-vessel convoy. At night a fog bank closes around them before they can scatter, and from an exact science navigation degenerates into the blind groping of a blind navigator over blind seas.

Not a commander in our fleet but has collected an assortment of nightmares in such weather to last him the rest of his life. Not a sailor that cannot relate hair-raising experiences as this:

"Out of the thick pea-soup fog a huge black freighter suddenly rose on our bows. As we swung on our heel with one screw reversed a destroyer came shooting at us from the opposite quarter. Avoiding her, we almost ran down another steamer. I tell you for a while gray hell was loose there on a black sea."

They have not always escaped, either. Fogs have caused casualties, but so far, thank God! no fatalities! Nevertheless their dangers, in summing up our fleet's work, have to be added to storm and tempest, mine and submarine.

OH, GLEE!

Melancholy Microbe—That guy doesn't have anything to do with us diseases at all.

Grocery Germ—Yes, I know; he's the giggle microbe.

STREAMLINE PLANES BEST.

The speed of all airships is very materially influenced by seemingly trivial projections which offer resistance in its passage to the air. When the object, whether this be a gasoline tank, a bomb dropper or any other accessory, is made on stream lines the resistance it causes is three or four times less than when it is not. One builder added two kilometers an hour to the speed of his plane simply by giving the streamline form to the rubber shock receivers of his landing apparatus. And if the pilot lets such an object as a retro-scope, an altimeter or a revolution meter project from the car it will reduce his speed by at least six kilometers an hour. A machine gun will have almost the same retarding effect.

UP-TO-DATE MASK.

Mollie—Are you going to the masquerade?
Chollie—Sure thing. I'm going as a soldier.

"I'll bet I'll know you."
"I'll just bet you won't."

"Why, what are you going to wear?"
"A gas mask."

GLOOM.

"You agriculturists are going to get a whole lot of money this summer."
"Yes," replied Farmer Cornstossel.

"But money won't buy near what it used to. It's goin' to be just like it always was. When the farmer gets a whole lot of anything the value seems to drop."

SHOW A LITTLE PEP.

"Why the discouragement?"
"He called me a cheese."
"I wouldn't let that disturb me. Even in cheese there is such a thing as snappy cheese."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

GALLANT.

Boy—He called my sister names.
Girl—But you have no sister.
Boy—I know I ain't, but he thought I had, and said she was cross-eyed and I went for him.

It is Just What Uncle Sam Wants

At the request of the U. S. Food Administration, our Company has loaned one of our Modern Electric Ranges to be used for the Food Conservation demonstrations now being conducted in the Liberty Temple.

Do you want any stronger approval of any cooking device than this?

Uncle Sam asked us for an Electric Range because it fills the bill better than any other Cooking Device made. We urge all housewives interested in the patriotic service of their country as well as all who want their kitchens equipped with the most modern, convenient and reliable cooking apparatus to visit the Liberty Temple and see for themselves just what an Electric Range will do to reduce their household burdens.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address: F. J.
