Are Enjoying Themselves

The G. A. R. Encampment, which is on in full swing in Portland this week, is proving most entertaining and enjoyable event for the old veterans and their friends as well as for the citizens generally of this city. Our people are glad to greet the Civil War veterans and are giving them a hearty welcome, and they are fully deserving of all homage that can be paid them. The most distinctive feature of the Encampment was the magnificent parade held Tuesday afternoon, the salient features of which were: Six thousand veterans were in line representing Grand Army departments of all states.

The volume of spectators exceeded that of any other parade ever held in the city.

Length of the parade line was one mile.

Autos to the number of 241 carried approximately 1200 veterans unable to join the march.

The smallest representation was that of Florida, with one comrade; the second smallest was that of Delaware with two.

The largest representation was that of Illinois, with 600. The department of Washington, Alaska and Oregon tied for second place with 500 each.

The parade was one of the few Grand Army reviews in which not a single comrade left the lines through illness or fatigue.

Better Than the Average

The Foley & Burk shows at the rear of the Central school building are attracting large crowds nightly. This carnival is above the average in interest, and the attractions offered are worth the money, something that can be said of few carnivals in these days. The men in charge, as a rule, are pleasant and congenial. Mr. Loos, the advance agent, who by the way is an old time newspaper man, is a genial and likable gentleman, whom it is a pleasure to know. Of the various features at the entertainments by far the most thrilling and most dangerous is that of "Ben Bono," who performs hair-raising stunts on a trapeze high up in the air, and his agility and perfection in balancing is marvelous. "Ben," besides being a trapeze artist of the highest rank, is a pleasant and jolly good fellow. And he is a product of Portland. His non-professional name is Hudson, being the son of H. M. Hudson, who it will be remembered was one of Portland's pioneer policemen and served on the force for 35 years continuously before retiring. He was also associated with our own Joe Day in detective work, and the two were good pals until the death of Mr. Hudson a couple of years ago. His uncle, William Hudson, resides in Linnton. Ben used to go down and do stunts on an improvised trapeze over a sawdust pile in South Portland near one of the saw mills, and finally he went away with Barnum & Bailey and made an international reputation. He has since seen most of the world, doing his stunts in Europe, China, Japan, Australia and other countries. Ben is married and has two interesting little children. He says before another year has rolled by he expects to quit the show business and make Portland his permanent home.

The Seventeenth Vessel

Amid the shouts of hundreds of veterans who fought to save liberty in the Civil war, the Latoka slid down the ways at the Grant Smith-Porter Ship company's yards shortly after 3 o'clock Monday afternoon, a contribution by coal shipworkers in the maintaining of liberty throughout the world. The launching was arranged as a part of the program for G. A. R. week, and many of the Civil war veterans saw for the first time the launching of a ship. As the great hull was released and took the water, a cheer arose from the veterans, and the launching was marked as unique among the many witnessed in Portland this year by the presence and enthusiasm of these "boys of '65."

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.
