

HIS LAST SALUTE

Gen. Grant's Pathetic Farewell to the Brave Men Who Saved the Union.

THE magnanimity of General Grant's soul will live forever. Recently the question was put to His Eminence Cardinal Gibbons, "What is civilized warfare?" Immediately came the reply: "The war between the States." And then the aged prelate added: "Suppose General Grant had compelled General Lee and the captive Southerners to have gone to Washington and built the Union a triumphal arch, what would the world have thought? And yet, that was exactly what happened to the Jews at the fall of Jerusalem which Titus' arch commemorates."

When in the spring of 1864 the veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic knew their beloved chieftain was mortally ill, the soldiers, one and all, felt it would be a great privilege if once again they might see Grant's face. They wished to pay him some homage of sympathy, since, "A rose to the living is more than countless wreaths to the dead."

This expression of love materialized in a plan to march by his home, on Memorial day, as General Grant was then in New York city. Early on the morning of May 30 these old soldiers were awake, furnishing accoutrements and medals of honor, unfurling old battle flags.

The quick out of Grant heard commotion in the street. His voice that had cheered on the Boys in Blue at Vicksburg and Corinth, was now, due to his inability, unable to even ask for a cup of cold water, yet there are certain sounds which to a soldier need no interpretation; and quick as lightning Grant recognized the heavy moving step of columns falling in. He arose freely and trotted toward the window. Notes of martial music floated out on the spring air—"Yankee Doodle," "America," "The Star-Spangled Banner," "Marching Through Georgia."

The present faded from view—the dying general sees again the smoke of Shiloh, the charge at Chattanooga, the white flag of Lee at Appomattox!

Tears come coursing down his cheeks as with upturned faces and uncovered heads he watches his old veterans file by.

Grant slowly lifts his hand in salute. It is his farewell forever to the army that had saved the Union.

All present realized that ere another Memorial day dawned Grant would be numbered among the nation's immortal dead.

ONWARD FOR HUMANITY.

Show-white and rose-fingered morn
Speeding the hosts of night,
March a new Memorial Day,
Its cohorts armed for right!

Out of the dawning's mist come swarms
Of those who our standards made,
And find a nation, grim and set,
Ready and unafraid.

Rejoice that the horns will come blood-red
Shame that men still must die,
But the fight for peace is a world-old
fight,
And the price of freedom, high.

Then onward! No time now for slacking
or leers,
Till the cause of humanity's won,
Till oppression is sunk in the bottomless
sea,
And the need of all warfare is done.

Death's Terrible Toll.
At a moderate calculation there were sent into eternity during the Civil war more than a million of men, who left home in the prime of life and in health and in strength.

Millions of Men Involved.
When peace was declared the number of troops engaged had mounted to 2,772,408, of which the North furnished something over two million.

Packers' Profits —Large or Small

Packers' profits look big—when the Federal Trade Commission reports that four of them earned $140,000,000 during the three war years.

Packers' profits look small—
When it is explained that this profit was earned on total sales of over four and a half billion dollars—or only about three cents on each dollar of sales.

This is the relation between profits and sales:

Profits	█
Sales	████████████████████

If no packer profits had been earned, you could have bought your meat at only a fraction of a cent per pound cheaper?

Packers' profits on meats and animal products have been limited by the Food Administration, since November 1, 1917.
