A girl thinks that after she marries she will have everything her own way—and often she is right.—Ex.

Nothing could be much uglier than some present styles in women's clothing, but if you're not a woman you don't have to wear them.—Ex.

When you get around to the fact that the prices of necessities are so high because you are willing to pay the prices that are asked, you'll be on the right track to lower them.—Ex.

When a woman says of another's baby, "What an interesting child!" she means to convey to the mother that the infant is homely and the mother knows that's what she means to convey.—Ex.

Willie—"Paw, what in camouflage?" Paw—"Camouflage is the sad look on the face of the undertaker who has charge of a $900 funeral, my son."—Ex.

Soph—"I was over to see her last night when some one threw a brick through the window and hit the poor girl in the side!" Fresh—"Did it hurt her?" Soph—"No; but it broke three of my fingers."—Ex.

Customer—"By mistake I left my Chinese laundry check in here this morning." Prescription clerk in drug store—"That explains it!" Customer—"Explains what?" Prescription clerk in drug store—"I've been trying to fill that confounded thing all morning."—Ex.

A particularly nasty Boche machine gunner, having used up all of his ammunition, jumped and yelled "Kamerad," and held up his hands. "Don't shoot," he cried. "I have a wife and two children!" "You are a liar!" yelled back a Yank. "You've got a widow and two orphans!"—Ex.

"Are you fond of literature?" he asked. "Passionately," she replied. "Then you must admire Sir Walter Scott," he exclaimed with sudden animation. "Is not his 'Lady of the Lake' exquisite in its flowing grace and poetic imagery?" "It is perfectly lovely," she assented clasping her hands in ecstasy. "I suppose I have read it a dozen times." "And Scott's 'Marmion,'" he continued, "and 'Peveril of the Peak'?" "I just dote upon them!" she replied. "And Scott's 'Emmeline'?" he continued hastily, a faint suspicion dawning upon him. "I think," she interrupted rashly, "that it's the best thing he ever wrote."

Large stocks of 2 cent stamps are being received at the Portland postoffice by Postmaster F. S. Meyers in preparation of the increased sale of this class of stamps which will come after July 1, when a 3 cent stamp will no longer be required to send one ounce of first class matter out of the city. Larger quantities of 1 cent stamps are also being received, as after July 1 the 2 cent stamps will not be needed in sending postcards. The wartime increase in postal rates has been in effect since November 2, 1917, when a measure was passed by congress authorizing the raise in first class rates. Business houses will be able to effect a considerable saving over the change back to old rates and souvenir postcards will again prove popular with the return of the 1 cent rate.

Thirteen sons killed on the field of battle, three discharged with grave injuries, one wounded four different times, the father and one daughter summarily shot by the Germans, for going to Lille to celebrate the centennial anniversary of a relative, and another daughter killed by a German shell at Dunkirk is the record of the family of M. Vanhee, a French farmer of Reminghe, near Ypres. M. Vanhee had 36 children, 22 sons and 14 daughters, all of whom were living when the war broke out. One of his sons was valet to Pope Pius X. He returned to France to fight and was wounded in four different engagements.

Who is Mistress of the Seas? America first crossed the Atlantic in a steamship, "first hopped" it in a seaplane; invented the submarine, the ironclad and the torpedo; developed the old sailing ship, both, as a commercial and naval instrument, to its highest efficiency, and never was defeated on the seas, has held the cup for superiority in yachting since Queen Victoria as a girl saw the "America" take it, has the longest domestic coast line of any great power—long enough to reach from Archangel to the Dardanelles—has the greatest lake and coastwise merchant marine in the world, with the best paid and the best fed and housed sailors under any flag. By the test of daring, genius and situation the United States of America is and of a right ought to be the first maritime power of the world.—National Republican.

Details of a lease to be granted the Eagle Flouring Mills company, for one and one-half acres of land at the St. Johns municipal terminal, for the erection and operation of a flour mill, the first unit of which is to have a capacity of 500 barrels a day, are being arranged with the commission of public docks and construction is to be begun shortly. The plant will be built northwest of the present site of grain elevator and the lessee is to pay an annual rental of 6 per cent on the appraised value of the site. W. R. Bagot, well known grain operator, is interested in the project and he negotiated for the site several months ago, but later decided to ask for an additional half acre. He said recently that the subsidence of the elevator building would not deter himself and associates from proceeding with the plant as they felt sure no difficulties would be experienced.

When the Creator had made all the good and beautiful things, in order that they might be truly appreciated. He then made the beasts and reptiles and poison ous insects. When He had finished He had left over Scraps that were too bad to put in the rattlesnake, the hyena, the scorpion or the skunk. So he placed the left over Scraps together, covered it with suspicion, wrapped it with jealousy, marked it with a yellow streak, and called it a knocker.—Contributed.

In Sellwood, on May 16, six men debated the question, "Resolved, That a neat cranky wife, is more to be desired than an untidy good natured one." The judges got cold feet, and let the audience decide, by vote. Untidy wives won.—Sunnyside Gazette.

Our record stock is as complete as it is possible to get it under present conditions and compares favorably with any in the city. Currin Says So.

Systemic diseases are being traced, in many cases, directly to the teeth. It is not uncommon for physicians to examine the teeth for pyorrhea manifestations and to demand radiographs of dead teeth because these two sources are often the cause of severe systemic disturbances. Have your teeth THOROUGHLY examined. No charge for examinations at my office. Advice cheerfully given.

Wouldn't you like to have some new things for your porch?

Dear Mary:—

I think that a porch can be made the most attractive "room" in the whole house. We enjoy ours so much; it is so neatly equipped with light, airy chairs, a settee and willow swing. And then it makes the house so much bigger when you give a party. How I love to read the morning paper on my pretty porch. Being outside in the fresh air is so healthful, too, for the whole family. I'm feeling so well now. Your friend—HELEN.

P. S. If your friends ask you about things for their porches tell them to go to
