What does the special two mill tax levy mean to the residents of St. Johns and the Peninsula? This question has been propounded by many voters who are interested in Portland in general, but in the Peninsula and St. Johns districts in particular. City Commissioner Pier, in charge of the department of finance and parks, answers the question in the following interview:

"There are perhaps few districts in Portland so vitally concerned with the success of the special two mill tax levy as are the people of St. Johns and the Peninsula districts. While it is true that the entire city is in many ways equally as interested, or affected by the measure, it must be remembered that at the present time St. Johns is faced with police protection which is inadequate. This is true of the entire city, but the separation of the St. Johns district from the city proper makes it even more serious in your district.

"The inadequate police protection, I find, is due to the lack of men in the department. More men cannot be placed in the department unless the city has additional revenue to pay the bill. There is no doubt but should the present two mill tax levy be defeated that the police department, already far too small to cover the city of Portland, must be reduced, and in a reduction each portion of the city will naturally suffer.

"Another connection with the two mill measure and your districts come in the street lighting. My observation in your district and reports which I have received has convinced me that many arc lights are necessary in your district. But unless the two mill measure is successful it will be impossible to install additional arc lights during the coming year.

"Again the failure of the voters to approve the measure will result in the postponement of a large improvement program which is to be paid for by the property owners benefited, but which the city must pay the costs of engineering and supervision. This program will necessitate the employment of several thousand men and can be used to handle any possible unemployment problem which might arise in the city.

"And speaking of employment should bring to the mind of every voter that the defeat of the two mill measure will result in the closing of the federal employment bureau in Portland. This bureau has been operated by the government, but financial support from the govern-

Mr. Boyer made us a pleasant visit last week. Miss Rugg's room made the highest grade in music.

Mrs. Tennant and her two little boys spent the afternoon with our popular first primary teacher, Miss O'Brien.

One of our recent visitors was Mr. D. C. Lewis, who talked of the advanced grades on the life of Theodore Roosevelt.

Emma and Edward Riehl have been perfect in attendance, though they come each day from Irvington. They wish to complete the eighth grade in the school where once they were beginners.

ment has stopped. Unless the two mill measure carries, the city of Portland will not have funds to conduct the office. "This employment service is far more essential now than it has ever been. The continuation of such service means that the man who is faced with unemployment can obtain a job without cost, and that he will not be forced to depend upon agencies operated for profit for this service.

"Each taxpayer should remember that the success of the two mill measure is essential, that its success will mean less than three cents a week added cost to the average taxpayer and that, it should be the duty of every "100 per cent American" to keep up the standard of living as a true American citizen by going to the polls on November 12 and vote Yes."
