Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Anderson are receiving congratulations upon the birth of a son who has been named Lowell, Jr. Lowell is on a thirty-day furlough here from Mare Island, where he has been stationed recently in service in the navy. Upon his return he will have but eight days of his enlistment to serve.

George Bahr died at his home, 930 Ivanhoe street, Sunday, June 27th, aged 80 years. He had resided here for about 14 years and is survived by one son, Herman Bahr, of this city and a daughter residing in the East. Funeral services will be held today, Friday, at 2 o'clock at the German Baptist church, Miller & Tracey in charge.

Honoring Mr. and Mrs. Willis Vinson, who returned Monday from their honeymoon trip, the young people of the Methodist church gave a surprise reception at the home of Mr. Vinson's mother, Mrs. E. D. Vinson, 528 South Ivanhoe street, Monday evening. More than forty young people attended. Following a musical program refreshments were served. Mr. and Mrs. Vinson will be at home at 528 South Ivanhoe street until fall, when they will both re-enter Willamette University.

"Who wrote that?" demanded the teacher, pointing to the blackboard upon which stood out the declaration, "I can hug and kiss a girl better than all the boys in this class put together." Up rose culprit Johnny and was told to remain after school. When he came out he found the whole class waiting to have fun at his expense. "What did teacher do to you, Johnny?" the chorus shouted. "It don't make any difference, and I'm not going to say," answered Johnny, smiling; "only I tell you what boys, it pays to advertise!"—Ex.

Willamette boulevard is being renumbered. It had been numbered in such a complicated way that it was a difficult matter for a stranger to locate any one on the street. Even the new numbers will be confusing to many because, for instance, residences on Willamette boulevard, under the new numbering, will run up past 2000 at Fessenden street, while the streets on either side of Willamette boulevard at Fessenden are in the 500 block. In fact it would be a good plan to renumber much of St. Johns, and there should be no east and west and north and south. The numbers should run straight through in order to be less confusing to strangers and newcomers.

It was the first vaudeville performance the old colored lady had ever seen, and she was particularly excited over the marvelous feats of the magician. But when he covered a newspaper with a heavy flannel cloth and read the print through it, she grew a little nervous. He doubled the cloth and again read the letters accurately. This was more than she could stand and, rising in her seat, she said: "I'm goin' home. This ain't no place for a lady in a thin calico dress."—Ex.

A young minister who was to give his trial sermon in the Presbyterian church of a little town in Michigan figured out that if during his sermon, when he repeated the words, "And the Holy Ghost descended in the form of a dove," a real live dove should fly down over the congregation, the effect would be very impressive and no doubt have a great influence with the Board in accepting him. The services of Pat, the janitor, were secured, and he was instructed to climb up above and let the dove loose through a little hole in the ceiling at the proper moment. His cue was to be "form of a dove." Everything went along smoothly and the sermon was nearly finished. Looking upward with radiant face, the young minister stretched out his arms and softly exclaimed: "And the Holy Ghost descended in the form of a dove." A moment's pause, but no dove. Again he exclaimed in a little louder tone, "And the Holy Ghost descended in the form of a dove." Still no dove. Fearing Pat had gone to sleep, he cried in a loud voice: "And the Holy Ghost descended in the form of a dove!" Driven to desperation, Pat stuck his head, excited face through the hole and the congregation heard in an Irish whisper: "Yer honor, th' cat's et up the Howly Goust! Shall I send down the cat?"—Ex.

The second annual Y. W. C. A. lawn festival will be held at the home of Mrs. A. M. Stearns, 1003 S. Decatur street, Friday evening, July 16th. This is an event to look forward to, as a good program will be rendered by the children and all will have a good time. The children will sell admission tickets at 10 cents each. Ice cream and cool drinks will also be on sale. The proceeds will go for benefit of local Y. W. C. A.
